ROOSEVELT SAYS HE DOESN'T WANT 4TH TERM BACKING OF REDS, FASCISTS

Charges Republicans Spread 'Fear Propaganda' That Administration Plots to Give Communists Control.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—President Roosevelt, charging his Republican opponents are spreading "fear propaganda" in stating his administration is plotting to give the Communists control of the Government, disavowed Communist support for his campaign for a fourth term, in a radio address last night.

Employing such phrases as "rabble rousers," "political propagandists" and "bigots," he declared: "I have never sought, and I do not welcome the support of any person or group committed to Communism, or Fascism, or any other foreign ideology which would undermine the American system of government or the American system of free competitive enterprise and private property."

He emphasized that this "does not in the least interfere" with America's friendly relations with the Soviet Union, adding: "The kind of economy that suits the Russian people is their own affair."

He devoted a large part of his speech—designed primarily as a get-out-the-vote appeal—to references to Communism in opposition speeches. He did not mention names, but said it was a "source of regret to all decent Americans that some political propagandists are dragging red herrings across the trail of this national election."

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential candidate, will have an opportunity, if he wishes, to comment on the President's

WITNESS NAMES FRANK WORTMAN IN GANG SHOOTING

Tells Investigators He and 'Chippy' Robinson Were Aggressors in Fight at Club.

By NOLAN NORGAARD
ROME, Oct. 6 (AP).—Three witnesses to the mysterious shooting at Club Royal, gambling casino near Belleville, have been found, and their evidence has convinced special investigators for the State's Attorney that Frank (Buster) Wortman, member of the old Shelton gang, is the man who did the shooting, victim of which is believed to have been Patrick Hogan, race track tout, the Post-Dispatch was informed today.

One of the witnesses, from a study of police photographs, identified Wortman and David (Chippy) Robinson, former Egan gangster, as the assailants in the fight, the investigators said, adding that two other witnesses expressed the belief they could identify the assailants if they saw them again.

Wortman, Robinson, Hogan and a fourth man whose identity has not yet been established are known to have been seated at a table in the club when the fight, which was followed by the carrying out of a victim, occurred early last Friday, the investigators said.

Wortman and Monroe (Blackie) Arnes, notorious gunman, are understood to have been in the club, and to have provided "protection" for the establishment, the investigators continued, adding that Hogan was believed to have attempted to "muscle in" with a demand for a share of the profits. Arnes was in the basement gambling room while Wortman was in the club.

GEN. MARSHALL, BYRNES ARRIVE IN PARIS BY PLANE

Army Chief of Staff Accompanied by Aids; Tour of Western Front Planned.

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP).—Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff, and James F. Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization, arrived at Paris by plane today for a tour of the front and military installations in France.

They were accompanied by Lt. Gen. Thomas T. Handy, Marshall's chief of operations; Maj. Gen. Howard A. Craig, assistant chief of air staff; and Col. Frank McCarthy, secretary of the general staff.

Their plane, specially built for scheduled flights between the United States and Paris which are expected to start in about three weeks, was met at a field by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and Eisenhower's chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith.

"I'd give my left arm to see one of those games," Cpl. Johnny declared at a Philadelphia hospital, and it wasn't more than a few hours before everything was arranged. He'll be in St. Louis tomorrow.

The New York Journal-American printed the story of Cpl. Johnny's ambition, and told how he hurled five Japanese hand grenades back at the enemy before the unlucky sixth came bounding toward him.

YANKS OPEN NEW ATTACK SOUTH OF AACHEN REDS INVADE HUNGARY FROM ROMANIA BRITISH TAKE PATRAI AND RION IN GREECE

GULF OF CORINTH ENTRANCE SEALED OFF BY EASTWARD COAST ADVANCE

Half of Peloponnesus Reported Free of Foe—English Shell Germans Fleeing North in Small Vessels.

By NOLAN NORGAARD
ROME, Oct. 6 (AP).—British invasion troops in Greece have captured Patrai (Patras) and, pushing seven miles east along the north shore of the Peloponnesus, have overwhelmed the fortified port of Rion to seal off the narrow entrance to the Gulf of Corinth, Allied headquarters announced today.

Enemy "security battalions" Greeks fighting on the side of the Germans—have surrendered at a number of other points in Greece, a communiqué said. Fifteen hundred prisoners were taken at Patrai, but a considerable part of the garrison escaped.

Official Greek reports indicated that more than half the Peloponnesus was securely in the hands of British troops and Greek patriots.

Quislings Yield at Tripoli.

Greek Premier George Papandreou said in a statement that a minister of his Cabinet had visited Tripoli, where security battalions "surrendered to British officers without any skirmish."

Tripoli, in the east central Peloponnesus, is 60 miles southeast of Patrai, and 75 miles southwest of Athens.

Papandreou said the government member also had visited Kalamata on the southwest coast. This indicated the territory intervening between Kalamata and Tripoli was virtually free of Germans.

Immediately after seizing Rion, British troops moved on to Patrai.

SOVIET COMMAND ANNOUNCES NEW ADVANCE; TOWN OF MAKO TAKEN

Russians and Yugoslavs at Belgrade, to South, Join in Battle to Cross Danube and Free Capital.

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Russian troops have invaded Hungary from Romania, Moscow announced tonight.

The broadcast Russian communiqué said Soviet forces which crossed the border north and northwest of the Romanian town of Arad had captured the railway junction of Mako, 15 miles east of Szeged, and more than 100 other populated places.

There have been frequent unofficial reports that the Red Army was fighting in Hungary, but this was the first official announcement.

The communiqué also disclosed a beachhead 25 miles wide and 15 miles deep had been won on the Estonian island of Saare.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP).—Russian and Yugoslav troops fought the Germans in the outskirts of Belgrade today, and front dispatches indicated patrols had crossed to the south bank of the Danube from the captured suburb of Pancevo, northeast of the capital.

Yugoslav Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz was reported near the front and it was believed troops of his Army of National Liberation would be the first formally to enter the fortified old city which had a peacetime population of 267,000.

The range of hills at whose northwest corner Belgrade is situated is ideal for Russian infiltration tactics.

Dispatches said other Allied Slavic troops had reached the vicinity of Nis, 130 miles southeast of Belgrade, where the Belgrade-Athens-Salonika and Belgrade-Sofia railroads meet.

The German high command said hard fighting was in progress southwest and northwest of Sialai in western Lithuania against a large scale Russian offensive, first reported yesterday by the Berlin radio. The Nazi communiqué said the German garrison on the Estonian island of Saare was waging a violent battle against invading Soviet forces.

In Northern Yugoslavia along the Sava River, Russian troops were less than 30 miles from the second largest Hungarian city, Szeged, imperiled from Romania on the east as well. The conquest of Hungary was declared in Soviet newspapers to be a matter of priority objective of Russian strategy.

"The Red Army is clearing its way to Budapest by fire and sword," the communiqué said.

Day and Night of Methodical Murder Preceded Burning of Klooga Victims

This photo, released by the Russians and radioed from Moscow, is described as showing bodies of slave laborers, murdered by the Nazis, on a funeral pyre at the Klooga camp, near Tallinn, Estonia. The Russians said men, women and children were forced to bring in logs for the pyre and lie on them, after which they were shot. The torch apparently had not been applied to these victims.

U.S. BIG BOMBERS ATTACK AIRCRAFT PLANT IN BERLIN

Other Reich Targets Blasted in Raids by 1200 Planes—Saarbrücken Hit at Night.

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP).—A fleet of more than 1200 American heavy bombers attacked an aircraft engine plant in Berlin and numerous other industrial objectives and airbases in Germany today.

About 750 Mustang and Thunderbolt fighters escorted the Fortress and Liberator bombers on this, one of the greatest mass air blows of the war. Some planes flew 1400 miles round trips.

A tank assembly plant, a military depot and an ordnance depot also were hit in Berlin.

Other objectives were two oil refineries at Hamburg, six miles south of Hamburg; an aircraft engine plant in Berlin and numerous other industrial objectives and airbases in Germany today.

Only 85 of 3000 Escaped as Nazis Sought to Destroy Captives Before Reds Arrived.

By LEIGH WHITE
The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1944.

TALLINN, Oct. 2 (Delayed).—Until today the most frightful thing I had ever witnessed was the seared corpses of nine Jews who had been burned alive in the streets of Bucharest during the Iron Guard pogrom in January, 1941, but today, with other foreign correspondents from Moscow, I visited the former German labor camp at Klooga, here in Estonia.

There I saw the charred bodies of more than 2000 Jews, and others, who had been machine gunned and then burned on pyres resembling the burning ghats used by the Hindus of Benares to cremate their dead before throwing them into the Ganges.

There were some 3000 prisoners at Klooga, of which, we were told, 1500 were Jews from the Vilna ghetto, 800 were Russian prisoners from the Leningrad front, and 700 were Estonian political prisoners.

On the morning of Sept. 19 when the monstrous crime was carried out, it was obvious to the SS (Elite Guard) men, who ran the camp, that something drastic would have to be done. The Red Army was rapidly approaching.

Ordinary men, perhaps, would have fled and left the prisoners behind; the Nazis of two years ago perhaps would have fled and taken their prisoners with them, but this time the Nazis were incapable of either decision. Their situation was too desperate to take any prisoners with them. Besides, most of their prisoners were Jews, a people who, to their way of thinking, have no right to live; the Russians, being Slavs, were little better than the Jews and the Estonians had somehow betrayed

YANKS KEEP HOLD ON FORT DRIANT UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Give Up One Corner, but Cling to Others—Fierce Fighting Rages Into Fifth Day.

By EDWARD D. BALL
UNITED STATES THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, France, Oct. 6 (AP).—German tanks and infantry driving down from the north heavily counterattacked American positions today at the northwest corner of Fort Driant after an all-night artillery barrage.

The enemy poured 600 shells into Fort Driant in an effort to blast out Americans who have a thin hold after five days of bloody fighting.

(Supreme headquarters had announced prematurely the capture of the fort on Wednesday. A dispatch from London today, however, said the Americans had been forced to give up a hold in the north-eastern corner while continuing to cling to slim positions at the southwest and northwest corners.)

The hostile fire came from neighboring forts which, with Driant, guard the great fortress of Metz. To the south, the Germans were cleared from most of the Parroy forest.

Day-Long Artillery Fire.

Yesterday was a day of artillery activity, reminiscent of the World War I With infantry bogged down on both sides, the armies exchanged heavy barrages.

U. S. TANKS SMASH TO GEILENKIRCHEN ON NORTH DESPITE COUNTERATTACKS

Americans Regain Begendorf After Losing It and Another Point in Heavy Fighting—Planes Support Troops.

By JAMES M. LONG
LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP).—A United States First Army force, supported by hundreds of planes and guns, struck a new blow today southeast of Aachen which carried through the Hurtgen forest to within six miles of Duren, 20 miles from Cologne on the Rhine.

The new attack gained nearly a mile, in co-ordination with other First Army units which were locked in some of the fiercest fighting of the Siegfried Line battle in the Ubach breach, north of Aachen.

Armor from the latter forces curled behind the broken main Siegfried Line of steel and concrete and reached the southern outskirts of Gellenkirchen in a three-mile rush.

Hot as Anzio Fighting.

The fighting was as hot as any experienced at the Anzio beachhead, veterans of that Italian battleground said, and before the new gains were registered, the Americans had given ground at two places before the heaviest armored counterattacks yet thrown into the battle in Germany.

The first of these was regained when the Yanks re-entered Begendorf, from which they were driven today after thrusting into the city yesterday. Begendorf is about a mile and a quarter east of Ubach.

The other setback came about a mile and a half south of Ubach, where the Yanks were driven off the top of a hill. They held on to the lower slopes and braced with the aid of powerful Allied air support which took advantage of the first clear weather in a week to blast destructively at German armor.

The First Army's new attack was sprung through the pine-carpeted, six-mile-wide Hurtgen Forest. The town of Hurtgen lies at its eastern edge, nine miles southeast of Aachen.

Dangerous Terrain.

The infantry has a dangerous task of finding the enemy well hidden in the camouflage and steel posts in the twilight of the evergreen forest, so dense that sun never pierces to its needle strewn floor.

"We have been past the first belt of the Siegfried Line of defense for the last time," said an officer.

The main thrust was toward the principal road linking Hurtgen and Aachen, four miles to the southwest, and was near the largest body of impounded water in Germany. A twisting reservoir below the town of Schmidt, which is three and a half miles southeast of Hurtgen. The reservoir serves Aachen and the Ruhr with power.

Duren, to the northeast, is the largest city between Aachen and Cologne and has a population of 41,000. It stands on the banks of the Roer River and serves as a hub of half a dozen railroads.

The gain of nearly a mile was made in the first hour and a half of the attack, which jumped off at 11:30 a. m., after a supporting barrage by artillery and hundreds of fighter bombers blasted well hidden German pillboxes and bunkers.

New Trenches Dug.

The Americans, who got off to the attack early today from Ubach, ran into new obstacles as they sought to exploit their gains behind the Germans' main belt of steel and concrete.

The first, east of Ubach, was a system of "community diggings"—freshly turned trenches dug by civilians. These proved formidable as they had been constructed to permit mobile guns to run into them, fire and change positions before Allied artillery could reply.

The second was southeast of

LIBERATORS HIT BALIKPAPAN IN 40-TON ATTACK, 7 PLANES LOST

Fierce Resistance Met in Second Blow at Jap Oil Center in Borneo—11,000 of Foe Killed in the Palau.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS,
New Guinea, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gen.
Douglas MacArthur disclosed today that a second crippling blow was dealt Japan's big aviation gasoline and lubricating oil center at Balikpapan, Borneo, Tuesday by Liberator bombers, seven of which were lost in fierce sky battles with 40 Zeros.

At least 19 and perhaps 24 of the enemy planes were shot down in a battle of more than an hour while 40 tons of concentrated explosives touched off huge blasts among refineries and storage tanks.

A spokesman said the fierce air opposition plus intense antiaircraft fire plainly indicated how important the enemy regards the evacuation of installations which supply 15 per cent of the gasoline and oil used by Japan's war machine.

Record Loss on Single Raid.
The loss of seven Liberators was the largest number for a single raid yet announced by this headquarters.

Three Liberators were lost while downing seven Zeros in the first mass raid on Balikpapan last Saturday.

The Tokyo radio said 40 Liberators made the Tuesday raid on Balikpapan, called by MacArthur
"the most lucrative, strategic target in the Pacific."

MacArthur's communique also reported nine enemy fighters sunk or damaged in raids by Allied planes against the southern Philippines, Ambona and Ceram.

A communique last night at Pearl Harbor by Adm. Chester W.
Nimitz reported the bombing of a Japanese destroyer and large cargo ship near Iwo, in the Volcano islands, 750 miles south of Tokyo.

It did not claim they were sunk.
11,043 Japs Killed in Palau.
Nimitz's communique brought up to date the casualty figures in the invasion of the Palau, where more than 10 Japanese have been killed for every American.

From Sept. 15, opening day of the invasion, through yesterday, the total of Japanese dead was placed at 11,043 against 1022 Americans—771 First Division Marines and 251 Eighty-first Division Army troops. American casualties totaled 7408, including 6106 wounded (4650 Marines, 1456 soldiers) and 280 missing (267 Marines, 13 soldiers).

Although fighting continues against enemy pockets on Peleliu and Angaur in the southern Palau, Peleliu's air field is sending American planes against other enemy bases in the Palau. Operating from that field, Marine Corsair fighters attacked Babelthau and Koror Wednesday.

Nimitz reported that Liberator bombers strafed a small cargo ship near Onnakaton in the Kuriles Tuesday, Marcus, Fagan in the northern Marianas, Ponape in the eastern Carolines and Ja-luit in the Marshalls also were raided.

DISGUISED REDS LED GERMANS TO DEFEAT, NAZIS NOW SAY

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Lt. Gen.
Kurt Dittmar, German high command spokesman, last night attributed defeats on the eastern front in part to "unscrupulous trickery" by Russians who infiltrated German lines.

"During the—for us so unhappy —battles of last summer," Dittmar said, "Soviet agents appeared in German uniforms, some even in uniforms of German generals, and contrived by faked orders to lead our troops repeatedly into unfavorable tactical positions."

JAPANESE IN SOUTH CHINA REACH FOOCHOW SUBURBS

Chinese Reinforcements Battle Way Into Paoching in Hunan.

CHUNGKING, Oct. 6 (AP)— Japanese forces which invaded maritime Fukien province have reached the northwestern suburbs of Fochow, the Chinese high command said tonight.

The Japanese, who have occupied the important port before, apparently expect to take it again without difficulty. The landings in Fukien were announced by Tokyo early this week, and were pictured as part of an attempt to forestall American landings from the Pacific which would "sever
our (Japanese) communications with the southern region."

(The Berlin radio reported the capture of Fochow, adding: "The area of Fochow, which is opposite Formosa, is being furnished with a powerful defense system.")
The Chinese communique said a single Chinese unit holding out

CHINESE ACCEPT SECURITY PLAN WITHOUT CHANGE

Delegates Find Points
They Favor Are Covered in U. S.-British-Russian Draft.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—
The Chinese delegation at Dumbarton Oaks has accepted without change, it was learned today, the blueprint for a world security organization drawn up by Britain, Russia and the United States in the first phase of the conference.
The final session is expected to be held tomorrow with the resulting document scheduled to be made public next Monday.

While the Chinese had several specific points to bring up during their talks, it was said that when American and British delegates explained to them the document worked out with the Russians they were satisfied that the principles they supported either were included or implied.

Three Main Questions.
The main questions dealt with in this manner were:

1. Assurance that quick international action would be taken to eliminate any threats to world peace without time-wasting debate.

2. A sufficiently concrete definition of aggression so there could be no last-minute backing down by the international organization if the peace is broken.

3. Provision for tying in international economic, social welfare and cultural organizations with the future world peace agency.

The Chinese, it was learned, did not bring up their request for a plank guaranteeing racial equality and decided that other points they wished to make were technical details which could more properly be brought up at a general United Nations conference.

Still to be settled, officials say, before that meeting is called is the question whether a major power accused of aggression should be permitted to participate in the security organization's vote on the matter, a point which the Russians are reported to have favored.

Dewey Kept Advised.
Secretary of State Hull said today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has been kept informed of the progress of the work on a world security plan. The State Department said Hull had been in touch with John Foster Dulles, Dewey's foreign policy adviser, by telephone, subsequent to the personal conversations he had with Dulles here during the early days of the conference.

A question put to the secretary by reporters was whether changes had been made in the security plans as a result of suggestions made by Dewey. Hull's reply was that he could not at this time discuss publicly suggestions that were made or the actions of the conference.

of Primes Beach on the South

Yanks Open Attack South of Aachen

Ubach, along a 500-yard stretch, where a "back of the barracks" was taking place. Here in four-story concrete structures the Germans have concealed a veritable fortress about which they had clustered antitank guns, artillery and mortars.

The Americans had advanced to within rifle range and Allied planes were divebombing the buildings, while Sherman tanks and flight after flight of Allied planes met the enemy armored onslaughts headon.

Germans Admit Breach.
Admitting a breach had been made, today's German communique said: "The enemy started another attack from his breakthrough in an eastern and northeastern direction. He was, however, checked by our own counterthrusts. Forty enemy tanks have been destroyed in the course of a recent two days."

Another breakthrough was ac-knowledgeed by the enemy in the Third Army sector, north of Nancy.

Although the Americans at Ubach were through the main belt of Siegfried defenses, a dispatch from the front emphasized that there was no prospect of a sudden breakthrough to the Rhine.

The Germans have defenses in depth, consisting of antitank ditches, minefields and trenches, and the battle is being fought to slow up progress, the dispatch said, and will scrape up every available resource for counterattacks.

A front dispatch said SS troops are holding German infantrymen in their positions with threats that their families will be sent to concentration camps if they surrender or retreat.

(The Americans have not claimed a breakthrough which includes the capture of the town of Ubach, which is a key point in the German line.)

On heights overlooking Herbach, which the infantry stormed yesterday, knocking the enemy out of pillboxes. The summit of these heights commands the terrain south of Ubach. Doughboys fought their way to the top late yesterday. At 7 a. m. the Germans counterattacked in force. Infantry, supported by tanks, came out of the mists to the southeast.

Hold on to Side of Ridge.
"The first Nazi surge drove the doughboys from the heights and gave the Germans control of seven of the pillboxes which they had lost, but on the side of the ridge, Cox and his men held fast.

"Then the sun burned off the mists, the first bright, clear day in weeks developed and our planes roared in.

"The first flight arrived at 9
a. m. and landed out against enemy armor and infantry. In a few minutes another flight came over and dived in, giving the Nazis a new pounding.

"This good weather was the best break. Doughboys could have gotten at this time, for it gave them a chance to hit at enemy concentrations and strike out at reserves and traffic which had been able to move at will in the murky weather of the last few days."

(The German radio at Frankfurt said several "Volkssturm" divisions—Hitler's home guard units—have gone into action on the western front and the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported that the last German civilians had been evacuated under cover of night from Aachen. Reports from the front said 80 per cent of Aachen was in ruins.)

In the north the Canadians, behind sheets of fire from flame-throwers, burst across the Leopold canal into the enemy pocket south of the Schelde and won a bridgehead north of Maldegem, 40 miles west of Antwerp and nine miles west of Brugge (Bruges).

The Canadians also wedged into Holland beyond Putte, 11 miles north of Antwerp. They were within six miles of cutting the only mainland road link for German gun crews and garrisons holding the islands of Zuid Beveland and Walcheren.

Flood waters now up to eight feet deep covered more than a fourth of Walcheren island, where British bombers breached the dikes with 6-ton bombs.

British troops closed within three miles south of industrial Tilburg and held their line three Yards-Yard Fighting.

Describing the fighting in First Army sector, Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead said it was "as bitter and bloody as any in the entire invasion as the Germans threw in their first sizeable armored counterattack."

"Progress was slow," Whitehead wrote. "It was yard-by-yard fighting for the infantry, just like the doughboys faced through the thick green hedgerows of Normandy—but this time with pill-boxes instead of hedgerows."

"Around Beggendorf Lt. Gen.
Courtney H. Hodges' tanks engaged in heavy fighting with enemy armor. South of Ubach doughboys commanded by Lt. Col.
William C. Cox of Brewton, Ala., fought savagely to stem an enemy counterattack with a battalion of infantry supported by tanks and heavy artillery.

"The heaviest engagement was Yanks Stop Drive.

On the east side of the Nijmegen corridor American troops who pushed east of Overloon buffeted back two German counterattacks.
The British threw back three more counterattacks, one of which gained 1000 yards before it was checked. This was at the western tip of the corridor between the Waal and Neder Rhine near Opheusden, 12 miles southwest of Arnhem and about the same distance northwest of Nijmegen.

Allied power still was flowing into the corridor in a steady build up.

The Germans said a "great British-American autumn offensive is surely in the course of preparation" and declared Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the American Twelfth Army Group, had shifted his strength heavily and arsenal in the Siegfried Line behind Metz. Enemy broadcasts called it a "terror raid."

As a railway point and advanced base, Saarbrücken now is of critical importance to the Germans. It is a focal point for German troops from nearly every part of Germany. Army units are being outfitted there constantly.

The attack was described officially as "very heavy," one which "should seriously interrupt the flow of supplies to the front."

British Mosquitoes before dawn gave Berlin a sample of the heavy shower of explosives rained by one large force of the four-engined American planes in daylight.

During the night other Mosquitoes kept up their attacks on trains and barges in Germany and Holland. They attacked 12 trains in the Hamm area to run their total to 146 destroyed or damaged in five nights.

Forty-four barges were attacked, mainly on the Rhine south of Em-merich. One Mosquito was lost.

Thirty-eight more barges were destroyed or damaged in daylight yesterday by rocket-firing Typhoons and Spitfires operating over Holland.

The Saarbrücken raiders encountered no fighter opposition.
Three aircraft out of the force of approximately 400 failed to return.

Thirteen American heavy bombers and five fighters were missing from yesterday's attack on airdromes near Munster and rail yards at Rheine and Cologne.

officers engaging in private business in France had not been

He added, however, that every fort was being made to allow the resumption of business contacts as soon as conditions permitted.

TRUMAN ASSAILS TACTICS OF DEWEY AND ASSOCIATES

Charges G. O. P. Nominee Misleads by Quoting Isolated Sections of Opponents' Talks.

United States Senator Harry S. Truman, Democratic nominee for Vice President, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he regarded the campaign tactics of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee for President, and his associates as "the lowest form of political chicanery."

Truman, attending a luncheon at the home of Richard Muckerman, vice president of the Browns baseball club, 609 West Polo drive, Clayton, said the Republican nominee was prone to give misleading impressions by quoting isolated sections from Democratic speeches and reports without amplification or inclusion of explanatory sentences.

As a case in point, he recalled that Dewey had criticized reports of the Senate War Investigating Committee, popularly known as the "Truman committee," mentioning criticism by the committee of war production but failing to state that the committee also suggested remedies which were carried out. President Roosevelt, he added, was consulted before any request for an appropriation to finance the work of the committee was made.

Others at the informal luncheon included Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann, Collector of Internal Revenue James J. Finnegan, United States District Judge Richard M. Duncan and United States Marshal Fred Canfil of Kansas City, Mo. Muckerman was delayed on the way from Washington, but his brother, Walter, acted as host. Others present included Mark Eagleton, attorney, and Will Harridge, president of the American League.

Truman, who described President Roosevelt's address last night as "perfect" spoke over Station KWK urging Democratic workers throughout Missouri to get out a heavy vote.

Truman spoke immediately after radio speeches by President Roosevelt, Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis, the Democratic national chairman, and Mrs. Charles W. Tillot, assistant chairman. The program was designed to reach party workers throughout the nation in a movement to concentrate on getting Democrats registered and sending them to the polling places Nov. 7.

"It is no snap," said Truman, addressing himself directly to "fellow workers in the Democratic party."

Says G. O. P. Wants Small Vote. "If there is going to be a big vote this year—and we need a big vote to win—it will be up to us to deliver that big vote. The Republicans aren't going to help us. You know as well as I do where they stand on the question of the vote; they want to keep it small, as small as possible. They don't go around urging people to vote. They know what a big vote would do to their chances. Let us show that the people's vote is a Democratic vote."

Truman said that every national poll showed that Roosevelt would win, "if the vote were taken in the home right now," but he pointed out the "tremendous responsibility on us as Democrats" to get the vote out Nov. 7.

McKittick Criticizes Donnell. Attorney General Roy McKittick, Democratic nominee for Senator, addressing several hundred CIO members at a Political Action Committee meeting at Jeffers Hall, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, which also heard the President and other Democratic radio speakers, criticized the attitude of his Republican opponent, Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, and the heads of the Republican ticket, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Gov. John W. Bricker, towards the size of the vote.

He said the New York and Ohio war ballots were among the worst in the country, depriving thousands of soldiers of the vote, and he charged Donnell and the Election Boards appointed by him in St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City with adhering to the letter, not the spirit, of the law in registering additional voters. He referred to the Democratic members of these boards as a "helpless minority."

"It is evident," he asserted, "that it is the desire of the boards and the Governor to have as few as possible register. Their hope of victory is for a small vote. They know full well that if the people vote it means a Democratic victory. I appeal to the people, notwithstanding the barriers that the boards appointed by the Governor have created, to overcome the obstacles and register and vote."

PAC Leaders Instruct Workers. PAC leaders instructed the CIO gathering about getting voters registered, soliciting campaign funds and canvassing the voters. Kenneth Teasdale, lawyer, delivered an address to the party workers over KMOX at the same time Truman spoke.

In St. Louis and St. Louis County numerous local meetings were held to hear the addresses, "pep up" present workers and recruit new ones. The rational plan was to have a small gathering in some home in every precinct, but in St. Louis some of the ward organizations preferred single rallies, or several meetings for groups of precincts. Chairman John J. Dwyer of the Democratic City Committee reported that 200 or more persons attended a single meeting at headquarters of his ward, the Fourth, at 2817 North Vandeventer avenue.

Marine to Attend Series

CPL. JOHNNY SPILLANE, who rejected a Cardinal contract to join the marines, and left his right arm on Tarawa after fielding enemy grenades and hurling them back at the Japanese, is coming to St. Louis tomorrow to attend the world series. Spillane, at a Philadelphia hospital, had said he'd trade his other arm for a chance to see a series game. Publication of the story of his ambition by the New York Journal-American resulted in arrangements for the trip.

2 HELD ON CHARGES

OF TICKET SCALPING

URGED AT WLB HEARING

One Offered 2 Seats in Bleachers, Other Had 20 in Grandstand.

Two arrests of ticket-scalping charges, the first during the world series, were made today near Sportsman's Park.

Two internal revenue agents asked police to arrest Leo Enger, 5207 Lansdowne avenue, a war plant guard, charged with selling two bleacher seats at a profit of 75 cents each. Enger told police it was his day off, he was with his sister and at her suggestion he decided to try for pavilion seats which cost a little more.

The other man arrested was Woodrow Wilson Slay, 907 Hickory street, who is now under indictment on a previous Federal charge. Acting Sgt. George Walsh of the police gambling division approached Slay at the grandstand entrance on Dodder street and asked how much he would charge for a ticket. Slay said $15, then accepted $10, police said.

Slay was one of six men arrested May 1 charged with conspiracy to steal merchandise from an interstate shipment.

FEDERAL SUIT CHARGES

MO. PAC. OVERWORKED MEN

Suit seeking $12,500 damages was filed today in United States District Court against Guy M. Thompson, trustee of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, charging that 25 trainmen were required to work more than 16 consecutive hours in violation of the Federal Hours-of-Service Act.

Brought in the name of the Government by United States District Attorney Harry C. Blanton, the suit asks for $500 damages for each of the 25 men, including 10 trainmen, five firemen, five engineers and five conductors. The alleged violations occurred last March 22, 23 and 24 while the men were working on trains between St. Louis and Kansas City.

R. PALMER M'ELROY ESTATE

R. Palmer McElroy, vice president of the First National Bank who died last Sept. 19, left his entire estate to his divorced wife, Mrs. Pauline Harney McElroy, under terms of a will written April 18, 1922 and filed yesterday in Probate Court.

They were married Jan. 3, 1922, and were divorced two years ago after having been separated since 1937. Mrs. McElroy was allowed $225 monthly alimony. A year after the divorce, McElroy married Mrs. Pauline Burke of Chicago, who died eight months later.

The first Mrs. McElroy, who lives in Chicago, also was named executrix of the estate. Its value has not been estimated.

3 Acquitted of Bankruptcy Fraud. CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP).—The wife and two sons of Saverio Ariani, former bank president, were acquitted in United States District Court yesterday of charges that they had conspired to conceal assets in a bankruptcy. The elder Ariani, head of the defunct First Italian State Bank of Chicago, recently completed a year and a day sentence for concealing assets in a bankruptcy proceeding. He pleaded guilty.

EX-BASKETBALL STAR CONFESSES BANK ROBBERY

Freeman Nichols, West Eminence, Admits $1427 Holdup — Was 'Little Short of Money.'

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Mo., Oct. 6.—Freeman Clinton Nichols, gangling former West Eminence High School basketball star, was in jail here today, charged with bank robbery after confessing the $1427 holdup yesterday of the Summersville State Bank, in the foothills of the Ozarks.

Charged armed robbery were filed here today against the youth. Nichols waived preliminary hearing and was ordered held for the November term of the Circuit Court. His bond was fixed at $15,000.

Nichols, arrested late yesterday at his West Eminence home after he had mailed a match box containing $1003 to himself at a Rockford (Ill.) address, told Sheriff Andrew Johnson of Texas County and Sgt. Ben F. Graham of the State Highway Patrol that he held up the bank because he was "a little low on money."

In the presence of this correspondent, he admitted walking into the bank at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, pointing a .22 caliber pistol at its two occupants, Lee Bell, cashier, and Mrs. Gladys Buffington, the bookkeeper, and forcing them into a small vault. He then scooped up bills Bell had been counting and stuffed them into a paper sack. The two bank employees succeeded in opening the vault from the inside in five minutes and called the Sheriff's office and the State Patrol.

Nichols, now 23 years old, who starred in state basketball tournaments in 1941, was wearing a sport coat and dark glasses when he appeared at the bank yesterday but stated that two days before he had been working in the mill, however, asserted that such a pay increase would be "harmful," leading to inflation "which would greatly outweigh any temporary advantage it might confer."

Emil Rieve, president of the union, said the increase would boost textile workers' pay to levels which would tend to keep man power in the mills. WLB panels, with industry representatives dissenting, have returned a finding that wages in both North and South areas of the industry were below the levels necessary to support a worker and his family on a WPA budget. A minimum of 72.7 cents an hour for 2000 hours a year would be required to accomplish this, the panel majority said.

The hearing before the full board on the findings is the last scheduled by WLB. It is a consideration of proposed revision of the wage stabilization policy. In several other cases, such as that of the steel workers who have completed their presentation, the industry is directly up the Little Steel formula. The textile workers, however, are concentrating on a revision of board policy covering substandard wages.

FRANK WORTMAN

man was seated at a table with Hogan in the upstairs dining room, when the shooting occurred, according to witnesses.

Investigators did not rule out the possibility that more than one man was shot in the affray, but said it had been established that Wortman was not wounded, since he had been seen the morning after the shooting at his home in Morris Hills, Collinsville. Neighbors reported there had been considerable activity at the Wortman home, with a number of automobiles coming and going, until last Friday, after which the house had been unoccupied, although Mrs. Wortman had made hasty morning visits to the house several times since then.

Deputy sheriffs, who spent several days searching abandoned mines and farms in southwestern St. Clair County, today had transferred the search for a victim's body to the northwestern part of the county. Discovery of Hogan's abandoned automobile on a lonely stretch of Illinois Highway 9 last Saturday strengthened the authorities' belief Hogan was the victim of the shooting.

LOYCE STEVENS

INJURY OF GIRL, 10, IN HOME IS MYSTERY

Parents Out, Neighbors Find Her Suffering From Head Wounds.

Loyce Stevens, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy C. Stevens, 4004 Westminster place, was in serious condition at City Hospital today with unexplained head injuries.

In moments of consciousness, the girl said she had fallen on the doorstep early in the evening while playing "cops and robbers" with her brother and other playmates. She had scraped her leg in that fall, she said, but she could not account for her head injuries.

Hospital attendants said she had a probable skull fracture and cerebral concussion. It was about 11:30 p. m. when Loyce aroused Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKinnon, tenants of an apartment adjoining the Stevens' on the first floor. She was moaning and screaming. The McKinnons were admitted to a front bedroom by Cyrus, who had been sleeping on a double studio couch beside his sister. The girl was in bed fully clothed but for her shoes. Her head and pillow were bloody, and lacerations over her eye and on her face were bleeding.

Police detected no sign to indicate that an intruder had been in the home, although access to the Stevens' flat was readily possible through a rear door which the children had left unlatched upon going to bed some time after 10 o'clock. Loyce is a pupil at the Marquette School, 4015 McPerson avenue, which leads directly from the house to the street.

Stevens is a mechanical assembler in a St. Louis war plant.

SENTENCED FOR SUGAR THEFT Earl A. Helenschmidt, former employe of a truck terminal at 725 South Main street, was sentenced to four months in the Workhouse today by Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood after pleading guilty of petty larceny in connection with the theft of 10,000 pounds of sugar valued at $600. The charge was reduced from grand larceny.

Helenschmidt was given a four-month concurrent sentence on his plea of guilty of operating a truck belonging to the terminal without consent. The sugar was loaded on the truck and Helenschmidt failed to deliver it to the consignee last June 19, police said.

ST. LOUISAN HELPS COVER SERIES FOR TROOPS OVERSEAS

Marine Sgt. Bob Broeg, a St. Louisan, is among the corps of sports writers for publications of the Armed Services who are sending accounts of the 1944 World Series to fighting forces in every theater of war.

Sgt. Broeg and Sgt. Bob Meyers are turning out copy for a special World Series section for the overseas edition of Leatherneck, the Marine's magazine, while Sgt. Don Pittman, a veteran of four major engagements in the South Pacific, is shooting pictures.

Other service papers which have their own representatives covering the all-St. Louis classic are The CBI Roundup, published in New Delhi for the China-Burma-India theater; The Stars and Stripes, a paper for troops overseas; and The Lucky Star-Tribune, a Royal Canadian Air Force weekly in Nova Scotia.

Sgt. Broeg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Broeg, 4999 Miami street, is an ardent Cardinals fan, having formerly worked in the Cardinal publicity department. He also was a sports writer in St. Louis before entering service.

$80,000 DONATED BY BANKS IN WAR CHEST CAMPAIGN

First Big Gift Announced as Drive Enters Second Day—Lemay Woman's Team Doubles Quota in 30 Minutes.

The Greater St. Louis War Chest campaign for $5,265,000 entered its second day today with the announcement that $80,000, the first large gift, has been contributed by the member banks of the St. Louis Clearing House Association.

The banks made the following contributions to the fund for the support of 122 local welfare and war-related agencies during the coming year: Boatmen's National Bank, $10,000; First National Bank, $28,160; United Bank & Trust Co., $1840; Tower Grove Bank & Trust Co., $2400; Mississippi Valley Trust Co., $14,080; Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., $21,650; and Manufacturers' Bank & Trust Co., $1840.

Passes Quota in 30 Minutes. The first team of the 30,000 volunteer solicitors to pass its quota in the house-to-house canvass was that of Mrs. Edward Seger, 114 East Holden avenue, Lemay, which turned in $84,400, or 214 per cent of a $30 quota, a half hour after the campaign started.

Because of wartime conditions there was no parade or other elaborate formal ceremony to mark the opening of the campaign, although War Chest leaders met for breakfast at Hotel Statler.

Stratford Lee Morton, general chairman of the drive, urged employees of factories and offices to add to their own gifts an additional sum for their fellow workers serving in the armed forces.

"Our soldiers are fighting our battles over there," Morton said. "Surely we can carry their share of responsibilities here at home."

In an address to the employees of the Alvey Conveyor Manufacturing Co., 3201 South Broadway, yesterday, John B. Edwards, a lawyer, said that "our present prosperity is largely the result of war and two days' pay a year seems mighty insignificant in comparison to what our boys are doing for us."

Urges Employees to Do Part. In another of more than 30 talks scheduled for the first few days of the drive C. G. Wassall, a Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. district manager, urged 2500 employees of Stix, Baer & Fuller Co. to wear the red feather campaign symbol as a sign they had done their part.

The War Chest campaign this year combines the appeals of 102 local welfare organizations, including the United Charities, with its 89 Protestant, Jewish, Catholic and nonsectarian agencies, and 20 agencies of the National War Fund, including the U. S. O. and War Prisoners' Aid.

Solicitors are seeking 350,000 pledges in St. Louis and St. Louis County. The drive will continue through Oct. 31.

OP A SUES TO BAR $2 PARKING FEE NEAR BALL PARK World Series fans should not be required to pay $2 to park their automobiles, the Office of Price Administration contended in an injunction suit filed in United States District Court today.

OFA Enforcement Attorney Taylor Sandison, who sent 42 investigators into the Sportsman's Park area to protect baseball fans from profiteers, charged that Lester E. Nieman and Alvin E. Block, operators of a parking lot at 2904 North Grand boulevard, had been exacting $2 as a parking fee since the series began.

He asked the court to issue a permanent injunction and require the parking lot operators to file a statement of fees charged in March 1942, so that their proper ceiling price could be determined.

"This is not the OFA's business about violators of price regulations connected with businesses serving World Series crowds," Sandison declared.

Lucien Carr Gets Indeterminate Term for Killing Youth Pleads Guilty of Manslaughter in Stabbing of David Kammerer, Ex-St. Louisan.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Lucien Carr, 19-year-old Columbia University student and member of a pioneer St. Louis family, was sentenced today to an indeterminate term in Elmira Reformatory for the fatal stabbing of David Kammerer, a former Washington University teacher.

Carr, who had pleaded guilty of first-degree manslaughter, took the sentence calmly, but his mother, Mrs. Russell Carr, wept. Acceptance of Carr's plea of first-degree manslaughter was recommended by Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, to whom Carr made a voluntary confession on Aug. 15, the day after Kammerer was stabbed and pushed into the Hudson River in the course of a quarrel which Carr said grew out of an indecent proposal by the older man.

General Sessions Judge G. L. Donellan accepted the first-degree manslaughter plea with the statement he believed Carr could have been convicted only of second-degree manslaughter had he stood trial.

The principles of justice were better served by sending Carr to an institution where he could receive proper medical and psychological care than by placing him in an institution where he would be associating with hardened criminals, the judge continued.

A parole office report credited Carr with a high intelligence quotient, but said he had been drinking since he was 14.

Dr. Samuel Berchall, New York psychiatrist who was the first of three character witnesses to testify, said he had examined Carr in May 1943, at the request of the youth's mother, and had found him "unstable but not insane."

Levi P. Smith, Burlington (Vt.) banker, and Lt. (jg) Fred Ellis, who taught Carr at Andover (Mass.) Preparatory School, said Carr had been well-behaved, although Ellis pointed out Carr had been expelled for going out after hours.

LUCIEN CARR GETS INDETERMINATE TERM FOR KILLING

Youth Pleads Guilty of Manslaughter in Stabbing of David Kammerer, Ex-St. Louisan.

POLISH INTENT TO SEEK FRONTIER ON ODER REPORTED

Moscow-Backed Group
Said to Plan to Annex
Reich Territory East of River.

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Soviet-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation expects to annex German territory to the Oder River, which flows within 31 miles of Berlin, and the Baltic port of Stettin on its west bank, the Polpress news agency declared today.

The agency originally was organized by the Union of Polish Patriots in Russia and now is the channel for news from inside liberated Polish areas.

Polpress declared the annexation "will not be an act of revenge, but one of historical justice."

"The Pomorze (Polish corridor) bridgehead must not be left in German hands," Polpress said. "It is our duty to the new Europe. The Oder is a Polish river. Restoration of all Pomorze to Poland is in the political, strategic and economic interests of the United Nations."

The agency cited ancient historians to support claims that Slavic tribes settled the region before the Teutons.

In a renewed attack against Lt. Gen. Tadeusz Komorowski (Bor), whom the Germans captured at Warsaw, the Lublin Gazette asserted his elevation to commander in chief in place of Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski was "nothing but a changing of the guard which smelled of provocation against the Polish people."

Another Lublin paper, Rzeczpospolita, said "there is no legend about Bor except crime, but there is a legend about the heroic soldiers of Warsaw, whom Bor was not among."

None of the press comment, however, attacked Premier Mikolajczyk of the London Polish government.

The British turned enemy coastal guns captured there against large numbers of small craft in which the Germans were trying to flee northward across the Gulf of Corinth. An official statement said good results were obtained in this shelling.

German guns at Andirion, opposite Rion on the north shore of the narrow entrance to the gulf, remained silent yesterday.

At Rion the invasion forces were about 65 miles west of the Isthmus of Corinth, the narrow neck which leads directly to Athens and links the Peloponnese to the rest of the Greek mainland.

The fall of Patrai, which has been the main enemy supply port on Greece's west coast, came after security troops surrendered near the town, making the position of the German garrison untenable. At Rion, the Germans fell back quickly.

An official report of the capture of Patrai said: "After night skirmishing in the streets, in which a Royal Air Force regiment with the land forces of the Adriatic took part, the remainder of the German garrison escaped in small craft, mostly siebel ferries. Under the cover of darkness early Wednesday they used the ships' guns to hold off a tightening ring of British and partisans until they were able to embark."

The enemy left so hurriedly that demolition charges intended to blow up harbor installations were not set off.

Before the capture of Patrai, British seaborne supplies had to be unloaded at the much less satisfactory port of Katakolon, about 50 miles to the southwest. (Cairo reports said Allied forces in Greece had isolated the island of Corfu from communication with the mainland.)

In Southern Albania other British units which landed 11 days ago continued to harass German communications leading to the small port of Sarande, supply base for the Corfu island garrison. The enemy retained artillery positions along the Sarande-Delvine road.

Allied guns on several Dalmatian islands continued shelling of the Yugoslav coast.

In Greece, the Germans appeared to be attempting to flee by every available means—air, land and sea. Aircraft patrolling the Salonika area Wednesday night destroyed two Junkers-52 transports, one Heinkel-111 and shot up a dozen motor vehicles.

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Government newspaper Izvestia sharply criticized Turkish newspapers yesterday for accounts which it said interpreted Allied landings in the Balkans as a move to block the Red Army rather than to expel the Germans. It termed the stories "provocatory."

"Several days ago rumors began to circulate in the foreign press about Allied troops in Albania," Izvestia said. "These rumors were not confirmed. But they were used immediately by some Turkish journalists to continue a suspicious campaign for the defense of the Balkan countries."

F. D. R.-DEWEY RADIO RATINGS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—Comparison of the size of the listening audiences of recent political broadcasts by President Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was announced yesterday by co-operative analysis of Broad-casting, Inc., known also as the Crosley program survey.

It gave the President's speech of Sept. 23 a rating of 26.4 per cent of the maximum possible listening audience. Dewey's Oklahoma City speech in reply was listed as 20.9 per cent. Results were based on an interviewing sample of 81 cities.

AMERICANS GAIN UP TO 3 MILES BELOW BOLOGNA

Road Junction of Loiano Taken — Yanks Forced Back in Imola Sector to West.

ROME, Oct. 6 (AP).—American Fifth Army troops hammered out gains up to three miles yesterday over the rain-bogged mountainous terrain on the approaches to the Po Valley. They captured the road junction of Loiano, less than 14 miles south of Bologna on the main road from Florence. Allied headquarters announced today.

The Nazis threw reinforcements of experienced Austrian and German Alpine troops into the central sector adjacent to the highway and unleashed fierce artillery barrages. But on both sides of the road the Allies pushed ahead.

Headquarters reported the capture of Monzuno, three miles west of Troiano and two miles north of Monte Venero, which was taken Wednesday.

East of Loiano, American doughboys advanced to a point 2000 yards south of Monterenzio in the muddy hills between route 65 and Imola.

Capture of Loiano gave the Americans a position commanding the highway to the communications center of Bologna.

On their right flank, Americans and forward elements of British pushed forward and dug in on Monte Cece and Monte Della Valle, about 15 air miles from Imola, but were driven back by heavy counterattacks. In the isolated hill country of the central sector, Indian troops of the British Eighth Army pushed upon Monte Caikano and Scarzana and found them clear of enemy troops.

On the Americans' western flank South African troops smashed two counterattacks near Monte Vigese and seized Ripoli.

Despite the weather, airmen bombed and strafed rail and motor traffic north of the battle area and enemy shipping in the Adriatic.

main targets. Much of the heavy shelling apparently came from railroad guns.

The battle for Driant was in drizzling rain and murky haze and the Americans were striving to improve their footholds in the northwest and southwest corners of Fort Driant.

German batteries poured heavy fire into the American positions from supporting positions on both sides of the Moselle River, putting on their show between bursts from our artillery, which kept the enemy guns silent for the most part.

From an observation post on a height, Fort Driant is dimly visible in the mist. Below is Dornot, a dead town with dead soldiers—both American and German—sprawled in its streets.

"It's a ghost town," said Capt. Paul W. Murphy of Chippewa

Falls, Wis. "There is not a sign of life during the day but at night there are flashes of guns as our patrols and the Germans run into each other."

To the left is Fort Driant, artillery shells whizz overhead and Lt. F. P. Esposito of Hackensack, N. J., peers through powerful field glasses watching our 155s firing point blank into the fort and sending up plumes of black smoke.

"Five degrees to the right . . .

The hillside shudders as the bursts crash through the valley. Pfc. Robert R. Harbey of Littleton, N. H., digs a foxhole in the rocky hillside and comments, "This rock makes me feel like I'm back home in New Hampshire."

"Missouri is heaven compared with this," said Pvt. Lloyd Hart of Bardwell, Mo.

MOBERLY OPA ORDER STAYED

Ralph Morrison, operator of the Barnes Service Station, William and Rollins streets, Moberly, Mo., was forbidden to sell gasoline for 60 days in an order issued Wednesday by Office of Price Administration Commissioner J. St. Louisan, Two Others Catch 32 Germans Without a Fight

Nazis Meekly Surrender to Cpl. Roland Van Buren — Flyer Has Narrow Escape in North Sea.

How a St. Louis corporal and two fellow G. I.'s captured 32 Germans was told in a letter written to the Post-Dispatch, approved by the censor, by a private in the corporal's platoon. The St. Louisan is Cpl. Roland Van Buren.

Cpl. Van Buren, the letter written by Pvt. Tom Riordan said, had just set up a 60-millimeter mortar and given his men the command to "dig in" after their company had taken its objective when shouts of "Kamerad, we are your prisoners" were heard nearby. The corporal took two men and went searching for the source of the shouts. They soon found a small group of Germans waving a white flag at the mouth of a dugout. When Van Buren asked the Germans whether there were any more fighters in the dugout, the letter continued, the Germans nodded and on orders of the corporal, another line of Nazis filed out. In all, the letter said, there were 32. "At first the Americans were a little overcome by the large number of prisoners," the letter reported, "but when they noticed how meek the Germans were acting they ordered them into columns of twos and marched them back to the company command post."

Cpl. Van Buren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mens Van Buren, 4454 Delor street.

Flyer Rescued at Sea.
Lt. Lyle K. Wikenhauser, pilot of a Liberator, had a narrow escape from disaster when he was forced to crash-land his ship in the North Sea after a recent bombing attack on a German war plant, an Eighth Air Force Bomber Station reported. All the crew except the bombardier, who was killed when the plane landed, were rescued later from the cold, choppy waters by British rescue craft. The crash-landing became necessary when the ship's last engine lost power on the return home. Antiaircraft guns put two of the ship's four engines out of order on the trip to the target, the report stated, and on the return journey got the third.

Lt. Wikenhauser was held in his seat by his safety belt, but he released the lock after being carried under water and escaped through the battered nose of the ship. The lieutenant, 28 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wikenhauser, 5903 Cabanne place. He entered the Army Air Forces in February 1942 and has been overseas since early this year.

Fishermen Catch 20 Nazis.

A fishing expedition of Pvt. Charles S. Capra and several companions netted 20 German prisoners, a letter to his brother-in-law, Otto Etzel, 5752 Tholoan avenue, reported. Pvt. Capra and his friends were tossing hand grenades into an Italian stream, the letter said, when three Germans surrendered themselves and informed the group where 17 others were camped.

Capra, a former meatcutter, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Capra, 1616 Semple avenue. He has been recommended for the Bronze Star for carrying a wounded soldier to safety through a woods infested with Nazi snipers.

STORE SALES HERE UP 10 PCT.

St. Louis department store sales last week were 10 per cent higher in dollar volume than sales in the corresponding week of 1943, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported yesterday.

For the four weeks ending last Saturday, the increase above the total in the corresponding period of last year was 9 per cent, while the first nine months of 1944 recorded a gain of 7 per cent.

40,000 SEIZED IN BELGIAN COLLABORATIONIST ROUNDUP

BRUSSELS, Oct. 6 (AP).—More than 40,000 persons known or suspected collaborationists, have been arrested in a swift but calm purge of Belgians who sold out to the Nazis.

About 20 military tribunals have commenced trial of the accused, and at least 10 have been condemned to death as traitors. Two of these were sentenced in a Brussels court. They were Joseph Hoogeveen, 49 years old, a chauffeur who denounced a Belgian underground leader to the Germans; and Paul Herten, 50, editor of a collaborationist newspaper.

SOLDIER VOTE BLANKS TO BE SENT TO NEXT OF KIN

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 6.—Because ballots for the November election have been sent to only 800 of the 4000 Boone County men and women in service, the Boone County Civil Rights Federation next week will mail more than 2000 application blanks, together with step-by-step information on procedure, to relatives of servicemen in this area.

The "get-out-the-vote" plan which will put affidavits for applications for ballots in the hands of the next-of-kin of every service man and woman in Boone County was presented to the federation by Mrs. Jean Zier, who explained the technique for relatives to follow. Applications, she said, may be obtained at the office of the county clerk, and, when properly notarized, will permit the county clerk to send a ballot direct to the serviceman without the soldier's first making application. Of the Boone County men and women in the service, it is estimated that about 2000 are eligible to vote.

CAROL RETURNING TO ROMANIA, HE SAYS IN MEXICO

Plans to Go to Brazil, Then to Lisbon to Await 'Proper Moment,' He Tells Camacho.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 6 (AP).—Former King Carol of Romania is going back home, palace officials said he told President Avila Camacho here yesterday.

Earlier reports were that he was leaving Mexico, where he has spent three years of his four-year exile, to go to Brazil.

Carol and his party, including Mme. Elena Lupescu, Ernest Udareanu, former court chamberlain, and Mrs. Udareanu, who married her husband in Mexico City, will go first to Brazil and from there to Lisbon.

Carol told Avila Camacho he may remain in Lisbon for "the proper moment" to return to Romania, where his son, Mihai, has ruled since the day Carol abdicated in his favor. In bidding farewell to the President, Carol thanked him for the hospitable asylum Mexico gave him and invited him to visit Romania, where, Carol said, he "personally" would be his host.

Romanian Socialists, Communists Assail Mihai Rule.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 5 (Delayed) (AP).—Romanian Socialist and Communist leaders today attacked the present government as being incapable of carrying out the tasks before it.

The outbreak followed a meeting between King Mihai, Premier Constantin Sanatescu and the leaders of the four-party coalition government.

Communist Leader Lucretiu Petrascanu, in a declaration to the Communist organ, Romania Nouva, said:

"The government has left many of the most important obligations of state planning undone. Although it is one of the most urgent matters the purge of the nation's administration has not even begun. Further, officials directly from the gallery of war criminals have been nominated to vacant posts."

Petrascanu asserted that "only a government of broad democratic concentration can assume the difficult tasks" confronting Romania.

Socialist Leader Titel Petrescu said the conference with Mihai discussed the de-Hitlerization of the administration, multiplication of efforts to free Transylvania and measures to assure order and to supply the population with work for all.

The Communists and Socialists announced in their news organs that they have agreed on a common platform of action based on close collaboration with the Soviet Union and destruction of Fascist influences.

OIL STATION OPERATOR HURT
IN GASOLINE TRUCK BLAST

Charles G. Boyd, operator of a filling station at 1146 South Seventh street, was burned seriously today when gasoline vapors exploded while he was cleaning out the tank of a gasoline trailer truck at the station.

Flames spurted 20 feet across an empty lot and into the yard of Madison School, where scores of children had been playing 25 minutes before. The explosion occurred at 9:10 a. m. and the children had been called to classes at 8:45 a. m.

Witnesses said Boyd had squirted steam into the 4000-gallon tank through a top opening and had opened a vent beneath the truck to allow the steam to escape, when a spark from a machine making the steam ignited the vapors. Flames issued from a vent in the rear of the tank, setting a nearby truck afire and destroying merchandise in a trailer truck.

Boyd was taken to City Hospital. William Allen, Negro car washer, who was injured slightly in the explosion, was released after treatment at Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

SURVEY OFFERS THREE PRIZES FOR ESSAY ON CONSTITUTION

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 5 (AP).

A State-wide essay contest to stimulate interest in the proposed new State Constitution was announced today by the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, a taxpayers' organization.

All high school students will be eligible to compete for the prizes of $75, $50 and $25 in war bonds, writing on the subject of "Why should Missouri's proposed new Constitution be adopted?"

"If the new Constitution is adopted and remains in force as long as the present 1875 Constitution has," said Edward Staples, survey director, "all our high school students—Missouri's civic leaders of tomorrow—will be greatly interested in and will be vitally affected by this new organic law."

The Constitution will be voted on at a special election Feb. 27.

G. O. P. TO OPEN CITY CAMPAIGN TUESDAY NIGHT

Donnell and Bradshaw Will Be Principal Speakers at Two Mass Meetings.

The city-wide campaign for the Republican ticket will be opened formally with two mass meetings next Tuesday at 8 p. m., at which the principal speakers will be Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, nominee for United States Senator, and Jean Paul Bradshaw, nominee for Governor.

One gathering will be at Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue, the other at North St. Louis Turner Hall, Twentieth and Salisbury streets, a traditional scene for Republican openings. No attempt is being made to divide the two meetings by wards.

All of the other nominees for state offices are expected to address both rallies. Nominees for local offices will be presented but will not be called on to speak, except possibly Mayor Aloys F. Kaufmann. Donnell, Bradshaw and all the other nominees will go to both meetings, alternating so that each program will be continuous. Elmer Nicolay, Fourteenth Ward committeeman, will be chairman of the North Side rally, Alvin F. Hackman, Seventeenth Ward committeeman, of the South Side.

Congressman Walter C. Fieser will be at the South Side meeting, Congressman Louis E. Miller at the North Side.

Chairman Louis J. Reidel of the Republican City Committee said that about 100,000 leaflets, announcing the rallies, would be distributed to residences throughout the city.

It is planned to have at least five mass meetings later in the campaign of Mayor Kaufmann for the unexpired term in his office.

Donnell will be principal speaker at a St. Ferdinand Township Republican meeting at Corpus Christi Hall, Jennings, Monday at 8 p. m.

RUSSIAN TROOPS ENTER HUNGARY FROM ROMANIA

sword," the Communist party organ, Pravda, said. "Hungary protects the Germans' southern flank and continually supplies cannon fodder. The loss of Hungary would mean the loss of raw materials, such as oil, metals and foodstuffs." Szeged is 96 miles south-east of Budapest.

Thirty-five miles south of Belgrade, Tito's Partisans were locked in bitter battle with the Germans for the village of Topola, home of Karageorge (Black George), who beat the Turks a century ago and founded the royal dynasty from which the present King Peter descended.

Battle Before Belgrade.

The Russians before Belgrade were gathering strength for the final assault after capture yesterday of the key rail junction of Pancevo. The Timisul River, flowing into the Danube at the western edge of Pancevo, formed a minor German defense line, but it also formed the edge of a potentially dangerous pocket for the enemy because it already has been outflanked by the Reds a few miles north.

Thousands of Partisans inside Belgrade were reported armed and ready to aid in the battle to end the reign of terror under which the Germans have held the capital for 42 months.

Russian forces using Petrovgrad, 37 miles north of Belgrade as a base, cleared the enemy from an area of several hundred square miles on the east side of the Tisza River. These operations probed to points south of the Hungarian rail center of Szeged, pushed toward Novi Sad, controlling the northern Yugoslav rail network, and stretched German forces nearly to the breaking point on a 50-mile flank protecting Southern Hungary.

Hungary Caught in Middle. From the southern environs of Belgrade to the tip of Greece, German divisions, variously estimated by Allied military sources at eight to 25, appeared powerless to save their only remaining railway escape route.

Hungary was caught in the middle. It now is fighting Russian invasion assaults from three sides—north, east and south.

On the north, although nothing has been mentioned in the latest official reports, high Russian officers have confirmed that the Red forces have won control of the central ridge of the Carpatho-Ukraine, the sector where Russian forces scored a breach in 1916 and nearly knocked Hungary out of World War I.

(In conflict with the Moscow report that Marshal Tito was near the front, the Paris Radio said he had arrived in Moscow to talk with Premier Stalin.)

LINCOLN COAL CO. FILES SUIT TO FORCE ISSUANCE OF PERMIT

The Lincoln Coal Co., 4567 De-Tonty street, filed a mandamus suit yesterday in Circuit Court against the Board of Public Service in an effort to force the board to issue a solid fuel permit to the company. The permit was refused

Sept. 12 on the finding that the company is not a bona fide successor to the Triangle Coal Co. of the same address.

The petition states the firm obtained a city license Aug. 25, that the same day Acting Smoke Commissioner James H. Carter approved the solid fuels permit application, as required by the smoke ordinance, and that the board did not have reasonable ground in refusing it.

A hearing on proposed revocation of the Triangle company's solid fuels permit, on the ground the firm misrepresented quality of coal sold to consumers, was interrupted Sept. 13 when the company got a court order temporarily restraining action by the city.

EAST SIDE BARS GET MONOPOLY ON SLOT MACHINES

Barred in Other Places but Any 5 Citizens Can Ask for Revoking of Tavern Licenses.

The announcement that East St. Louis taverns will be given a monopoly of the slot-machine business there was followed today by a statement from William P. Buchanan, supervisor for the Illinois Liquor Commission, that any five citizens who object to gambling in taverns may ask Mayor John T. Connors as liquor commissioner to revoke their licenses.

Police Commissioner John T. English said yesterday that because of complaints juveniles were playing slot machines in taverns, the devices would be removed from all business establishments except some 170 taverns.

Buchanan told a Post-Dispatch reporter that if the Mayor failed to act within 20 days on the petition of the citizens, an appeal could be taken to the commission, which would then assume jurisdiction.

He added that while the state law does not specifically prohibit slot machines in taverns, it does require that the applicant, for a $50 retail license, agree not to violate any state law, and that there is a state law prohibiting the gambling devices.

East St. Louis officials agreed a year ago to give the taverns a slot machine monopoly in exchange for an increase in the cost of a city license from $600 to $1000. The agreement was not kept, however.

Gambling in Washington Park, an East St. Louis suburb, came in for a share of criticism today by Norman Miller, a resident who spent 11 years in the Navy and returned two months ago to find, as he said to a reporter, "Washington Park wasn't like this when I left."

Miller appeared before the Village Board of Trustees Wednesday night to complain about slot machines and a large-scale lotto

WHITE HOUSE DENIES CANCELING F. D. R. TOUR, SAYS HE AGREED TO NONE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—White House officials said today reports that campaign appearances of President Roosevelt at public gatherings had been canceled were without foundation. They noted that Roosevelt had said repeatedly that he had no campaign speeches scheduled after last night's radio address.

The New York Times reported today that Democratic leaders in New York had been informed that "plans for President Roosevelt's appearance in person at campaign rallies in New York and other states have been vetoed by a White House ruling that the President cannot appear at any scheduled 'public gathering.'" The paper added that the author of the reported ruling was not entirely clear but "it was assumed that it had been made by the Secret Service."

The White House said that apparently political leaders in such places as New York had been eager for Roosevelt to make campaign addresses and had talked with the press about the possibility with unwarranted optimism.

G.O.P. LOSES SUIT TO PUT ELECTORS ON GEORGIA BALLOT

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 6 (AP).—The Georgia Supreme Court today refused to order a slate of presidential electors backed by the Republican National Committee placed on the State's November general election ballot.

The action left the Dewey-Bricker ticket represented in Georgia by only six Republican electors, offered on a fusion ticket with six unpledged independent Democrats in opposition to the regular Democratic electors supporting the Roosevelt-Truman ticket.

The fusion slate appears on the ballot under labels of both the Republican and Independent Democratic parties.

ROOSEVELT SAYS HE DOES NOT WANT COMMUNISTS' AID

References to Communism when he speaks in Charleston, W. Va., tomorrow night, Dewey's office at Albany, N. Y., said he heard Roosevelt's speech.

Other points Roosevelt dealt with included:

1. DEMOBILIZATION. He said "reckless words based on unauthorized sources" had been used by his opponents in asserting the administration is ill-prepared for demobilization. Such words have been used, he said, to "mislead and weaken the morale" of soldiers and their families. He repeated that men in the armed services would be returned to civilian life "at the earliest possible moment consistent with our national safety."

2. WARTIME CONTROLS. He said the American people "do not need, and no national administration would dare to ask them, to tolerate any indefinite continuance in peacetime of the controls essential in wartime."

3. REGISTER AND VOTE. He urged all eligible citizens, particularly women, to register and vote. He advocated removal of poll taxes and other vote "restrictions," and in a reference to the soldier vote, said the people will be able to "fix the responsibility" on those "politicians who quite openly worked to restrict the use of the ballot in this election, hoping selfishly for a small vote."

4. WAR. He said the United States and its Allies had waged "brilliant campaigns," but the German and Japanese resistance "remained as determined—as fanatical—as ever," and "we may have to fight every inch of the way to Berlin."

5. PEACE. "We must be able to present our returning heroes an America which is stronger and more prosperous, more deeply devoted to the ways of democracy, than ever before. . . . by God's grace, it must always be a land of opportunity for the individual citizen—ever broader opportunity."

Brownell Questions Roosevelt's Position Regarding PAC.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 6 (AP).—Herbert Brownell Jr., the national Republican chairman, said today he hoped "the President will clarify his statement and let us know if he repudiates the support of the Communistic-controlled PAC."

The statement was given in a press conference in reply to a question on what Brownell thought of an address last night in which Roosevelt disowned Communist support in his campaign for a fourth term.

"Actions speak louder than words," Brownell said. "American citizens feel that the Communistic influences are centered in the activities of Sidney Hillman and the Political Action Committee."

"I hope the President will clarify his statement and let us know if he repudiates the support of the Communistic-controlled PAC, which is leading the fight for retaining him for 16 years in the White House."

'MECHANICAL BRAIN' KEEPS FIGHTER'S GUNS ON TARGET

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP).—Manufacture of a "mechanical brain" gunsight which electrically directs combat plane machine-gun fire so as to assure bull's-eye accuracy was announced by Eastman Kodak Co. yesterday. The pilot need only dial the type of plane his enemy is flying, the range, the air speed and altitude and keep the enemy target within a gyro-controlled circle, the company's statement said. As long as the plane remains in the ring, the pilot will register a bull's-eye despite the angle of attack.

The company said the device, adapted for manufacture in this country from British design, automatically computes the effects of gravity and air density on the bullet, relative motion of the target and other factors which previously the pilot had to estimate.

FORGED LETTER FROM KING

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).—Lord Langford, 59-year-old Irish peer, was sentenced yesterday to 12 months' imprisonment at hard labor on conviction of obtaining $2200 from a woman under false pretenses.

The prosecution charged that he forged a letter from King George VI purporting to show he received $2000 a year from the keeper of the King's privy purse for a service his family rendered King Edward VII.

RAILROADS PRESENT CASE FOR HIGHER FREIGHT RATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Postwar improvement of railroad equipment and facilities will be endangered unless freight rate increases, granted then suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission, are allowed to go into effect, the Association of American Railroads said yesterday. The association's statement was filed with the commission in reply to the commission's order of Sept. 21 reopening for further consideration the rate increases originally authorized.

The railroads asked that the increases be allowed to go back into effect next Jan. 1. The association said railroad operating costs since 1940 had increased "more than $1,100,000,000 due to increases in wages and prices," labor costs increasing 27 per cent and the price of materials and supplies for operation 29 per cent.

The association said that with the end of the European war the railroads expected a substantial decline in traffic and during the reconversion period of 18 to 24 months, even with the Japanese war still on, a continuing decline.

HEAPS OF BODIES BURNED DAY AND NIGHT AT KLOOGA

the master race by failing to become a part of it. Obviously, to the Nazi way of thinking, none of the prisoners could be allowed to live. They would have to be done away with at once.

So the Nazis ordered 14 barrels of gasoline from Tallinn, awakened their prisoners at 5 o'clock in the morning, and ordered 300 of them to carry the gasoline to a clearing in the pine forest surrounding the camp and then to fell several hundred trees.

Out of the pine logs, the SS men made their prisoners fashion four squares, each about 30 feet across. In the center of each square four saplings were raised and braced with crossboards to serve as flues. The bases of the log-squares were filled with tinder in the form of pine bows. Ten logs were then laid across the squares at equal distances apart. Each of the 10 rectangles thus formed was paved with short cross logs of about the size and dimensions customarily used in living room grates. The result was four parqueted log platforms well ventilated under each with a flue to provide plenty of draft.

The remaining Jews and other prisoners then were rounded up, according to survivors, and assembled at the burning ghats. Approximately 100 were ordered to lie face down on the platform of the first square. They were then machine-gunned by firing squad, which circled the platform several times to insure that all were dead.

The prisoners were ordered to pile 10 more tree-length logs at equal distances across the dead, at right angles to the logs beneath. Then 100 more persons—men, women and children, it made no difference—were ordered to lie down and be machine-gunned. They were.

Continued Day and Night. The process was repeated until the ghat was seven or eight layers high.

All through that day and all the next night the executions continued. By dawn, on Sept. 20, all the prisoners assembled had been dispatched on the first three ghats. Some had tried to escape but they had been easily mowed down. We saw their bodies strewn about the clearing when we arrived in Klooga 11 days afterward. The fourth ghat was never used for some reason.

The Nazis doused the pyres with gasoline and lit them. Great columns of smoke billowed into the sky. The SS men returned to their administration office for a conference.

The Red Army, apparently, was reported approaching. The Nazis rounded up the remaining prisoners, forced 700 into single barracks and machine-gunned them.

As soon as all were prostrate, the Nazis brought in gasoline, poured it over the floor which was already running with blood and set the barracks afire. They waited outside and machine-gunned any of those who were not yet dead as they tried to jump out the windows.

When they were sure all were dead, they searched for any prisoner they had overlooked, found 87, and machine-gunned them. Then the Nazis fled. By this time the guns of the Red Army could be distinctly heard.

Somehow 85 prisoners, mostly Jews, were overlooked and it was with the help of some of them that we were able to piece the story together. They told us of beatings of newborn babies being thrown into the furnace of a carpentry shop, of almost every fiendish act that could be imagined. The stories might have taxed our credibility but for the fact we were able to see the evidence for ourselves.

Klooga was only one of hundreds of similar centers of German barbarism. The discovery of three more death camps in Estonia has been announced. Many more will be discovered before the Allied armies reach Berlin.

Klooga Survivor Apparently Husband of St. Louisan's Niece.

Paul Rosen, owner of a women's apparel shop at 3610 South Grand boulevard, told the Post-Dispatch today he thinks his niece's husband was the man who survived the Nazi mass murder camp near Tallinn, Estonia, as related in an Associated Press dispatch yesterday from Tallinn.

The dispatch from Correspondent Eddy Gilmore stated a Merian Baruch, the survivor, told Gilmore he had a relative named Paul Rosen in St. Louis.

Rosen said he last heard from his niece and her husband, Lena and Baruch Merlyn, when they were living in Vilno, Poland, at the outbreak of war. At that time they were awaiting an immigration quota to come to this country, Rosen said. The Merlyns had two sons, 9 and 10 years old.

Rosen, a native of Kaunas, Lithuania, has lived in St. Louis for 30 years.

Formula For Hotel Rooms

A Washington, D. C., hotel clerk didn't reckon with his guest when he told Dunninger, radio's master mentalist, that no accommodations were available. But Dunninger, undaunted, calmly read the clerk's subconscious mind and called off the exact number of the hotel's only vacant room. P. S.—he got the room.

Good Music—Good Listening

There's good news for opera fans in the announcement that the New York Metropolitan Opera Company will continue its regular Saturday afternoon broadcasts for the next six years.

It's a reminder that you'll want good, clear reception and a wide range of tone in your postwar radio to increase your pleasure in these and other broadcasts.

And with your radio, you'll want a phonograph that gives clearer, more accurate reproductions of your favorite records so that you can enjoy good music whenever you want to hear it.

This you can count on when you choose a Majestic radio-phonograph. Majestic's fine construction and skilled engineering will bring you every thrill of a well-sung aria—every throb of a hot live band—clearer, and with greater range and richness of tone. When the time comes to buy... look for the Majestic label and be sure of good listening—always.

Sept. Hooperatings for top day-time serials are: Right to Happiness 1st, Ma Perkins 2nd, Our Gal Sunday 3rd, When a Girl Marries 4th, and Backstage Wife 5th.

Crosby Flies Again

For most stars, a trip overseas "to entertain the boys" is a familiar routine. But for Bing Crosby it meant breaking a 13 year old vow.

When that fatal airplane crash killed Knute Rockne in 1931, Bing vowed never to fly again. This resolve—along with the restrictions on boat travel, kept him from going overseas.

But the boys wanted to see Bing more than ever, so he took his vow in his hands and broke it. He is now in Europe entertaining the boys—and he flew, too!

GEN. DOOLITTLE IS GRANDFATHER: SON BORN TO SON

Father of James Harold Doolittle III Is Army
Flyer Overseas.

It's Grandpa Doolittle now. St. Louis friends of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, Commanding General of the United States Eighth Air Force, received an announcement today from his son, Capt. James H. Doolittle Jr., and Mrs. Doolittle, of the arrival of a son, who will be christened James Harold Doolittle III.

The baby weighs six pounds and 13 ounces, was born Sept. 23 at San Antonio, Tex., the home of his mother, where she is staying until Capt. Doolittle returns from overseas. They met two years ago when he was in training in Texas.

Gen. Doolittle, substituting for his son's commanding officer, pinned a Distinguished Flying Cross on the Captain's tunic several months ago for five bomber sorties, observing, "This makes me very proud, son." The reply was, "Thanks, Pappy."

Naphtha Rationing Advocated. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 6 (AP).—A recommendation that naphtha be rationed to prevent its use as a motor fuel was made by the Springfield district Office of Price Administration petroleum industry committee. CABINET OF CHILE RESIGNS TO GIVE PRESIDENT FREE HAND

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Chilean Cabinet which was formed Aug. 31, 1943, has resigned to give President Juan Antonio Rios a freehand in organizing a new government meeting the approval of all parties, the office of the Government's General Secretary announced last night.

The announcement said a new administrative or nonpolitical cabinet would be formed, possibly today. Rios has said several times that he hoped to avoid political quarrels and form a purely business cabinet.

The resignations caused no excitement or nervousness in the country.

OVERCHARGE CASE SETTLED

The Steele & Hibbard Lumber Co., 3300 North Hall street, will pay $26,115, representing overcharges in the last year, under a consent decree filed yesterday in United States District Court by the company and the Office of Price Administration.

The OPA supported the company's statement that the overcharges had resulted from a misinterpretation of regulations rather than intentional violation of price ceilings.

I DON'T just SAY that Lady Esther 4-Purpose Face Cream does wonderful things for your skin. I PROVE it—prove it by means of the "Patch Test!"

Just choose a part of your face that is too oily, or too dry—or where you have a few blackheads or big pores. Rub Lady Esther Face Cream on that one part of your face, and wipe it off. Wipe it off completely.

Then see how that patch of skin gleams with new brightness and clarity! Touch it—feel how the dry little flakes are gone!

What happens to that small patch of skin will happen to your entire face when you use Lady Esther Face Cream. For it does the 4 things your skin needs most for beauty! (1) It thoroughly cleans your skin. (2) It softens your skin. (3) It helps nature refine the pores. (4) It leaves a smooth, perfect base for powder.

Make the "Patch Test" Tonight!

You'll never believe the difference a single application of Lady Esther Face Cream can make in the appearance of your skin—until you see it for yourself. So get a jar and make the "Patch Test" tonight. See living proof that this one cream is all you need for a softer, smoother skin—a dazzling-fresh skin!

Flavored Pecan Shells for Spices Among Wartime Food Frauds

Pumpkin Seeds Sold for Almonds, Official Reports—$3000 Fine for Using Poisonous Substitute for Glycerine.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Americans have been getting a lot of ersatz food in this war, mostly illegal, including even an ersatz whiff—asafoetida substituted for garlic.

The report was made to the American Public Health Association yesterday by W. R. M. Wharton, chief of the Eastern district, United States Food and Drug Administration, New York City, in a talk on wartime food and drug adulteration.

He said that ground pecan shells, flavored with essential oils, became pure spices. Shelled pumpkin seeds were sold as almonds, and mixed with nuts were sold as salted nuts.

The report contained the following statements: Grated carrots furnished a considerable percentage of the alleged fruit in fresh preserves. Puffed wheat and soy beans were substituted for peanuts in peanut brittle. A cereal formed to the appearance of coconut shreds was used as topping for coconut bars. Ground cocoa residue, largely cocoa shells, appeared in cakes and candy as a substitute for cocoa.

Mineral oil made its appearance in chocolate ice cream coatings, candy and popped corn. Wharton noted the antagonism of mineral oil to the body's absorption of vitamins A and D. Alleged pure olive oil, imported from countries lacking tight adulteration controls, was largely adulterated with cottonseed and other less expensive edible oils.

Enough diethylene glycol to kill two million people a year was offered by a manufacturer as a substitute for glycerine in drugs, medicines, foods, cosmetics and lotions. The administration caught it before harm was done and the manufacturer paid a $3000 fine. Nearly one million cases of Spanish and Portuguese brandy, itself perfectly good, was detained due to defective bottles which spread glass slivers through the drinks.

Lead tubes, substituted for tin, caused a chemical change that made a birth control preparation worthless. Inferior rubber stoppers caused chemical changes in medicines with serious harm to patients.

Some people who bought sulfathiazole tablets, as they supposed, were put to sleep for a week, because the stuff was really phenobarbital, an error attributed to wartime working conditions in the factory which produced the drugs.

Snow already had been reported on the western front in the Vosges mountains at the Belfort gap.

ROOSEVELT'S TEXT: 'RED HERRINGS BEING DRAGGED ACROSS ELECTION TRAIL'

'I Should Be Very Sorry to Be Elected President on a Small Turnout of Voters'—'In This Past Year Politicians Openly Worked to Restrict the Use of the Ballot.'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address last night:

My fellow Americans—I am speaking to you tonight from the White House. I am speaking particularly on behalf of those Americans who, regardless of party, very much hope that there will be recorded a large registration and a large vote this fall. I know from personal experience how effective precinct workers of all parties throughout the nation can be in assuring a large vote.

We are holding a national election despite all the prophecies of some politicians and a few newspapers who have stated, time and again in the past, that it was my sinister purpose to abolish all elections and to deprive the American people of the right to vote.

These same people, caring more for material riches than human rights, try to build up bogies of dictatorship in this republic, although they know that free elections will always protect our nation against any such possibility.

Nobody will ever deprive the American people of the right to vote except the American people themselves—and the only way they could do that is by not voting.

The continuing health and vigor of our democratic system depends on the public spirit and devotion of its citizens which find expression in the ballot box.

Ballot as Keystone of American System

Every man and every woman in this nation—regardless of party—who have the right to register and to vote, and the opportunity to register and to vote, have also the sacred obligation to register and to vote. For the free and secret ballot is the keystone of our American constitutional system.

The American Government has survived and prospered for more than a century and a half, and it is now at the highest peak of its vitality. This is primarily because when the American people want a change of Government—even when they merely want "new faces"—they can raise the old electioneering battle cry of "throw the rascals out."

It is true that there are many undemocratic defects in voting laws in the various states; and some of these produce injustices which prevent a full and free expression of public opinion.

The right to vote must be open to our citizens irrespective of race, color or creed—without tax or artificial restriction of any kind. The sooner we get to that basis of political equality, the better it will be for the country as a whole. Candidates in every part of the United States are now engaged in running for office.

All of us are actuated by a normal desire to win. But speaking personally, I should be very sorry to be elected President of the United States on a small turnout of voters. And by the same token, if I were to be defeated, I should be much happier to be defeated in a large outpouring of votes. Then there could not be any question of doubt in anybody's mind as to which way the masses of the American people wanted this election to go.

The free and full exercise of our sacred right and duty to vote is more important than the personal hopes or ambitions of any candidate for any office in the land.

Clear Majority Of All the People

The administration which must cope with the difficult problems of winning the war, and of peace and reconstruction should be chosen by a clear majority of all the people and not a part of the people.

In the election of 1920—one of the most fateful elections in our history—only 49 per cent of the potential voters actually voted.

Thus, more than one half of American voters failed to do their basic duty as citizens.

We can be gratified that in recent years the percentage of potential voters in national elections who actually voted has been steadily going up.

In 1940, it was 62½ per cent. But that still is not nearly good enough.

This year for many millions of our young men in the armed forces and the Merchant Marine and similar services, it will be difficult in many cases—and impossible in some cases—to register and vote.

I think the people will be able to fix the responsibility for this state of affairs, for they know that during this past year there were politicians who quite openly worked to restrict the use of the ballot in this election, hoping selfishly for a small vote.

It is, therefore, all the more important that we here at home must not be slackers on registration day or election day.

Special Appeal For Women to Vote

I wish to make a special appeal to the women of the nation to exercise their right to vote. Women have taken an active part in this war in many ways—in uniform, in plants and ship yards, in offices and stores and hospitals, on farms and on railroads and buses—that they have become more than ever a very integral part of our national effort.

I know how difficult it is, especially for the many millions of women now employed, to get away to register and vote. Many of

Gov. Bricker Calls for Resurvey Of U.S. Policies on Labor Relations

Action on NLRB Needed for 'Orderly Business, Justice and Humanity,' He Asserts at Rock Island.

GOV. JOHN W. BRICKER, Republican nominee for Vice President, in an address here last night, said the entire field of Federal handling of labor relations "must be resurveyed in the interest of orderly business, justice and humanity."

He said the 1941 report of a congressional committee which investigated administration of the National Labor Relations Act contained "findings which are deeply shocking."

The committee, he added, "found that the New Deal board (National Labor Relations Board) was unfair and biased in its conduct, its decisions and its interpretations of the law. It was grossly partisan in its attitude toward certain labor unions, and most deplorably biased in its relations to employers and employees. Board members were guilty of radical tendencies and entirely lacked judicial temperament."

"But this is not all," Bricker continued. "The committee found that the New Deal board had engaged in at least six invidious practices, as follows:

"1. Blacklisting litigants before it;
"2. Promoting boycotts against parties whose cases it intends to adjudicate;
"3. Denial to legitimate organizations of opportunities to appear and be heard in the very litigation which may destroy them;
"4. Refusing to employ the privilege of testifying in their own cases;
"5. Requiring industry to re-instate persons who were never employed and pay back wages to persons never on the payroll; and to others who never even applied for employment;
"6. Seeking to legalize as part of the American way of life the infamous, anarchistic sit-down strikes and persevering in this course even when rebuked by the Supreme Court of the United States."

Earlier in a press conference as he toured Iowa Bricker again asserted that the Agricultural Adjustment Agency, as it exists, moment to wartime restrictions and wartime controls.

Strict provisions for the ending of these inconveniences have been written into our wartime laws. Those who fear that wartime measures, like price and rent control and rationing, for example, might be continued indefinitely into peacetime, should examine these laws. They will find that they are all temporary—to expire either at an early fixed date, or at the end of the war, or six months after the war, or sooner if the Congress or the President so determines.

"The American people do not need, and no national administration would dare to ask them, to tolerate any indefinite continuance in peacetime of the controls essential in war time."

"The power of the will of the American people expressed through the free ballot is the surest protection against the weakening of our democracy by 'regimentation' or by any alien doctrines."

Red Herring of Politicians.

It is a source of regret to all decent Americans that some political propagandists are now dragging red herrings across the trail of this national election.

For example, labor baiters and bigots and some politicians use the term "Communism" loosely and apply it to every progressive social measure and to the views

Toyama Laid Foundation of Jap Conquest

Dead Black Dragon Leader Dictated Home and International Policies.

By RUSSELL BRINES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6 (AP).—HE dead hand of Misuru Toyama, Japan's high priest of conquest, will continue to be a directing force in the Empire's affairs.

When he died Wednesday night at the age of 89, the founder and president-emeritus of the infamous Black Dragon society supposedly had retired, but the personal power he created through that 43-year-old organization continued.

That power, based on ruthlessness, made him known abroad as Japan's "unofficial Emperor." But Toyama slipped into the twilight of his fabulous career as an heroic Rishi. Hood to the Japanese, Legend glided him as a man who distributed largesse to the poor, an esthetic too tender to kill mosquitoes. His frugal living was imitated widely.

He will live on through his rabid followers and the Japanese devotion to the dead. Well-trained lieutenants will enforce his policies.

Shadowy Empire

Toyama ruled a vast, shadowy empire, composed of the 12,000 members of the Black Dragon society and those of 100 subsidiary secret societies. Some sources estimate the total at 10 million Japanese at home and abroad; all fanatics, all blindly obedient to the leader. Their handiwork is intrigue and espionage abroad; assassinations, bombings and beatings at home. Some of them were arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in this country at the outbreak of the war.

Toyama and his fanatics dreamed of world conquest. They led and bullied the people into each of the country's numerous wars; intimidated or killed opposition statesmen; crushed "heretical" trends, from liberalism to communism. Perhaps hundreds of

Interpreting the War News PREPARING FOR BIG PUSH IN REICH

By MAJ. GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

(Copyright, 1944.)

SO far, the attack of the American First Army north of Aachen does not appear to be a full-scale offensive, but the general Allied situation on the left flank, from the sea to Cologne, shows considerable improvement.

The enemy has been cleared away from the vicinity of Antwerp, good progress has been made by the Canadians north of the Antwerp-Turnhout Canal, the road centers of Tilburg and 's Hertogenbosch area coming within our reach; the grip of the British Second Army on the country between the Maas (Meuse) and the Waal is widening and the British are extending their positions north of the Waal along the south bank of the Lek and north-east of Nijmegen, where the threatening German counterattacks have been beaten back, at least for the time being.

Farther south, the American First Army is making slow but steady progress eastward in a methodical attack which the Germans are having great difficulty in holding. The German shortage of good infantry is especially notable.

Preparatory Fighting

There is, however, nothing in all this to indicate that anything like a major offensive is in progress. The whole business looks much more like preparatory fighting, probing for soft spots, absorption of the enemy reserves, while the commander in chief watches for an opportunity to strike a decisive blow.

It would seem, in view of the time limit imposed by the approach of winter, that an Allied attempt for a quick decision must be made on this part of the front and not farther south, where the country is far more difficult and where a breakthrough would bring the Allied troops up against still stronger positions and deeper into difficult terrain. The pouring of a flood of Allied armor into the northern plains of Germany must still seem almost irresistibly attractive to our Supreme Headquarters as the best possible chance of finishing the German war before winter.

If this is a correct estimate of the situation, then it would seem likely that strong Allied reserves are moving up behind this part of the front, perhaps even being shifted northward from the Third and Seventh Armies now on the right flank and perhaps including elements or even the bulk of the Ninth Army. It is impossible to avoid comparing this situation with the Tunisian campaign, when just such a backfield shift by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was productive of the final and decisive breakthrough.

Since Prime Minister Churchill has said that the future buildup of the Allied forces in Western Europe will be largely American, it is logical to assume that the bulk of the reserves now at Eisenhower's disposal are American troops. If they are put in for a decisive smash, it would be a good guess that they will either pass through the American First Army, or perhaps come into the line between the left flank of the First Army and the right of the British Second Army.

All this is the obvious strategy of the immediate future. It is suggested by every element of the situation as we can see it from here. The Germans, of course, can see all this just as well; they can be expected to do everything they can to meet the growing danger, a danger of which, to judge from the increasingly frantic tone of their propaganda, they are perfectly aware. It may well be that their reserves are now at so low an ebb that there is little more they can do. In that case, Eisenhower may well have determined to go ahead with the obvious pattern. But it is necessary to keep in mind that in all he has previously done, he has sought for surprise in some form and has generally achieved it. Therefore, while we may be certain that he will try for a decision on the Western Front in time to exploit his anticipated success this winter, we must also expect that what he does will contain an element of surprise.

JAPS SAID TO ORDER PATIENTS FACING CAPTURE TO BE KILLED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Evidence that Japanese Army doctors "are under orders to kill their own patients if their capture appears imminent" is reported by Brig. Gen. R. W. Bliss, assistant surgeon general of the Army.

Bliss, just back from the Pacific, also told reporters that the Japanese "have bombed their own hospitals with patients in them."

Red Navy Paper On Kiel Canal's Postwar Status

Says Security of Baltic From German 'Pirates' Is Involved in Question.

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP).

THE Soviet naval organ Red Fleet emphasized today Russia's deep interest in the post-war status of the Kiel Canal, which cuts through German territory south of the Danish border to link the Baltic with the North Sea.

Declaring the "question of security of the Baltic Sea" was involved, the paper said: "Twice during the last 30 years German imperialism has locked the Baltic Sea. This cannot be tolerated any longer."

Red Fleet added that "no other Baltic power prevented, and some did not want to prevent, German imperialism from acting as pirates."

"Only the country which exterminates the pirates by its own arms could appear as the guarantor of safety on this sea," the paper asserted.

Forrest Davis, associate editor of the Saturday Evening Post, wrote last May 17 in an article titled "What Really Happened at Tehran" that President Roosevelt had proposed internationalization of the Kiel Canal.

Admiral Mr. Forrest Davis, who gave as his authority for the article "the highest American quarters," reported the Kiel Canal discussion at Tehran as follows: "Admiral Mr. Davis proposed the erection of a tiny free state, including the canal, running, perhaps, from the Danish border to a point equidistant on the west. The canal, naturally, be internationalized, but left to the administration of the Kiel free state, which, in the interest of its own safety and neutrality, must be denied military forces and an independent foreign policy. Its policy should either be assimilated by that of a great power or managed by the United Nations, the President thought."

"The Roosevelt improvisation fascinated Stalin. At its conclusion, he arose, lumbered around the table and gravely shook hands with the President, saying, 'That is the solution; the right thing to do.' Churchill was reserved. He thought the idea fruitful, worthy of further consideration, but added, 'We don't, of course, have to deal with it now.'"

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

"Co-operative" Civil Service

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

When voters of St. Louis approved the civil service amendment to the City Charter, they did so with the expectation of eliminating the spoils system, making city work more inviting, improving morale and increasing efficiency. As far as the individual taxpayer was concerned, he trusted that civil service meant enhanced returns from the municipality for his tax dollars.

Hence civil service officials should show a considerable and co-operative spirit with executives who, in the final analysis, are charged with the responsibility of conducting city services. Under present labor shortages, city department heads are handicapped by lack of experienced help. City salaries, it will be granted, are not attractive compared with positions in war industries.

Most department heads have a few key employees with years of experience who are vital to activities. When one is lost, adequate replacement is difficult if not impossible. An employee who has held a key position for a number of years may be assumed to be able and efficient. One woman, with 11 years' experience in her job and rated highly, was required to take an examination. She failed. The question occurs: Was she wrong or was the examination wrong?

In examinations given by the present civil service, unexpected developments take place. A janitor, 65 years old, who could speak only broken English, led in clerical tests for a position involving accounting. A man with 22 years' experience in his work was ordered to take an examination because he had been away from city service for two years some time back. He protested because in the ensuing technicalities, even if he led in the examination, he might lose his job. Scores of other employees were apprehensive as a result.

Under present labor shortages, one department of the city takes employees from another department through promotional tests. Normally, resultant vacancies would be filled from below. Today, they cannot be unless the man below is on the eligible list, and the man below probably was too busy to take the examination when it was offered. So an outsider, unfamiliar with the work, gets the job. A city employee who performs superior service cannot be rewarded financially by his superior because the civil service has complete control of all salaries.

One city official felt that certain clerks were not working as hard as they should. Formerly, he would have sharply criticized them and perhaps fired one or two. Under civil service he didn't fire them, because he had no time to make out formal charges, obtain a lawyer for a hearing and spend perhaps two days or more presenting the evidence.

City services must be maintained at as high a standard as possible. Department heads, who direct affairs, should be accorded consideration in the selection of personnel. Their suggestions should have weight with the Civil Service Commission.

RAY C. SCHROEDER,
Deputy Comptroller, City of St. Louis.

Missouri's Disfranchised Sailors

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I wonder if the state officials of Missouri realize the importance of the state as much as a part of the United States as any of the other services. In fact, it has been in existence longer than the armed services.

Out of the 48 states, Missouri is one of the four that isn't mailing absentee ballots to merchant seamen. Are the state officials too busy to bother with us?

We risk our lives taking food and supplies to the fighting fronts. Is this not doing enough for the war effort to allow us to vote? I myself, and probably many other merchant seamen from Missouri, are greatly disgusted with the State Government when it puts over something like this.

RICHARD D. SCHMIDT.

Uncle Joe Could Help

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Winston Churchill's worry about Spain is somewhat late. Franco and the present situation in Spain are the fruits of kid-glove diplomacy. Had London been willing to see face to face with Moscow at the beginning of Franco's rise to power, things would now be different.

It is much too late to worry now, but it is not too late by any means to quit coddling and to act promptly and with vigor. If Mr. Churchill is at a loss what to do about Franco, he might consult Mr. Stalin. I am sure Uncle Joe would be interested.

Friendly Difference

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am a dyed-in-the-wool Republican, and as things now stack up, will vote for Dewey. That's my privilege.

But, because you sing the praises of Roosevelt, do you think I would cancel my subscription to the Post-Dispatch?

Difference of opinion is what makes our independence, our democracy. You stick to your Roosevelt, I'll stick to Dewey. After the election, let's both support the winner. As for my subscription, don't you dare cancel it.

LEO A. ALBRECHT.

Change of Pace

Mr. Roosevelt, in his address to Democratic workers last night, spoke with calm detachment, and in a tone beside which the increasingly excited and violent speeches of the Republican candidates seem shrill and unsure.

As political strategy, the President's speech put his opponents at a disadvantage by meeting distortions of fact with simple facts, by countering wild and flailing attack with easy confidence. It was a complete change of pace from his scintillating address to the Teamsters' Union on Sept. 23 with its forensic vigor, its humor and irony and whimsy, its quick responsiveness to the moods of his audience. Mr. Roosevelt last night provided variety by means of almost pure monotone.

The President corrected Gov. Dewey's misrepresentation that the Roosevelt administration wants to delay demobilization, in fear of unemployment. Mr. Roosevelt did little more than cite the relevant facts: the George bill of last February, which expressly forbids retention of men in the armed services "to prevent unemployment or to await employment"; the public statements by War Mobilization Director Byrnes that our men will be mustered out as quickly as the national security permits; the War Department's plans, announced Sept. 6, for swift demobilization.

Mr. Roosevelt corrected Gov. Dewey's misrepresentation that wartime restrictions will be continued indefinitely. Again he presented the facts: that the laws setting up wartime restrictions—rationing, price control, rent control—say on their face that they are to expire at a stated time, six months or sooner after the war ends.

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the regret which "all decent Americans" feel for the practice of using Communism as a bogey-man—a practice of which Gov. Dewey has not been innocent, and in which Gov. Bricker indulged with almost complete irresponsibility in his speech at St. Louis Wednesday. Communist-baiting is especially unfortunate in these crucial days when co-operation between the democracies and Russia means so much to the future peace of the world. Mr. Roosevelt said explicitly that, recognizing the right of the Russian people to choose Communism as their own form of society, and with all friendliness toward Russia, he neither sought nor welcomed the support of Communists. That should be that.

Mr. Roosevelt made one other major point—the soldier vote. He implied that the Republicans opposed it to restrict the total vote and gain an advantage. The soldier-vote issue was not as simple as that; it was quite complex. As there were undoubtedly those who opposed the administration's bill for partisan reasons, there were others who opposed it out of sincere doubt of the precedent it would have set in Federal control of elections.

Whatever the weakness of his contention regarding the soldier vote, Mr. Roosevelt was on the best possible ground in the discussion of which this was a part: his appeal for a large vote. True, a large vote probably will stand most in favor of the Democratic ticket, a small vote in favor of the Republican; but the universality of the ballot, and the universality of obligation to exercise it, are not partisan; they are American principles, not subject to debate. Every American, Republican or Democrat, should vote on Nov. 7; and that is what Mr. Roosevelt said.

If Gov. Dewey and his running mate recognize how effective the President's technique of last night is, they might profitably consider adopting it. By excluding personal recrimination and centering attention upon the issues, it would form the basis for a more constructive campaign of opposition than has yet been offered.

Looks like Tokyo has Admirals the way we banks have vice presidents.

Boy Meets Voters

The era of baby-kissing by candidates for political office has ended, and with something that sounds from here like a bang. An Ensign in the Navy, John B. Benson, running for Congress in the Third Maryland District, has offered to kiss every woman in his district, and to provide an attractive young lady who will kiss all the men who step up.

If Ensign Benson's platform seems extreme, it should be remembered that his provocation was great. His opponent is giving the electorate free spaghetti dinners. This Benson felt to be beyond his means ($138 a month base pay). He has, therefore, resorted to the osculatory tactic, and it looks like a pleasant resort.

What Ensign Benson's method of campaigning will do to the science of politics, we shall wait and see. Meanwhile, it may be pointed out that it was none other than the kiss that, virtually alone and unaided, raised motion pictures from an art to a billion-dollar business. Maybe it is, after all, the burning issue that will finally lure the elusive voter to the polls.

Mr. Roosevelt says our aid to China is an amazing epic. The Chinese probably could do with less epic and more supplies.

Petrillo Wins, But—

As is not surprising, the Government has concluded that the public's complaint against James Caesar Petrillo's musicians' union does not affect the war enough to justify seizure. It may, however, as the President says in his plea to Petrillo to call off the ban on records and transcriptions, encourage more serious breaches by others. And, as he might have added, the armed forces are being deprived of much morale-sustaining entertainment.

Superficially, Petrillo has a good point that his men should not work for companies that will not sign contracts. The hold-out companies, however, have a still better one; that they should not be forced to enter contracts levying perpetual tribute to keep musicians in idleness, and certainly such a bill should not be passed on to the public.

One can sympathize with the musicians' plight without in the least condoning their efforts to block technological progress. Soon or late, Petrillo or his successors must yield, even if it means that a certain proportion of musicians take up other occupations. His not yielding over so long a time indicates that the law and social policy are not quite ready to deal adequately with blockers in this or any industry, either employers or employees.

But the blockers must go, and Caesar Petrillo's reign may be numbered. If he resists until impatient public opinion can be contained no longer, there will be unnecessary wreckage. Therefore, Petrillo would be well advised to have that "careful consideration" his board is going to give the President's appeal come out with an acceptable solution.

Let's Overflow the Chest

In his send-off for the Greater St. Louis War Chest, Mayor Kaufmann appealed for achievement of the goal in "real St. Louis championship fashion." That allusion has an appropriateness entirely apart from the current event at Sportsman's Park, though it does suggest that a metropolis with money to see baseball also has money for good deeds. Championship fashion, yes, for St. Louis, where the East meets the West and both meet the South, is a place of generous traditions, high civic pride, kindness in private and public courtesy—and of liberality of spending.

Is two days' pay a pretty heavy burden on liberality? For some people, certainly, it will be; some simply cannot do it. For the great majority among us, however, it can be carried comfortably, and after the money has been kissed good-bye, we will be the happier for it. Many, as experience tells, will be comfortable with their consciences only after much larger contributions than that.

There are, to be sure, the perennial objections. Administrative expense? It is a tiny fraction; it would be many times larger if all 142 agencies campaigned individually—let alone the dreadful nuisance it would be. The giving is impersonal, including agencies one cares not to hang about? True; but few among us have the means to retain a philanthropy secretary. Furthermore, one dollar being like any other, if a part of Smith's contribution is turned over to some agency that leaves him cold, then Smith's pet charity is benefiting in the same way from the contribution of Brown. It is pooling beneficences in about the same way that insurance companies pool risks.

The insurance resemblance goes further, for the War Chest is as fine insurance as we can have, in a world where poverty still exists and some individual misfortunes will always exist, against malnutrition, juvenile gangsterism and tomorrow's crime. It is insurance, too, that those who serve us in uniform will have a little something extra of small comforts and entertainment that make the difference between happy and grim sacrifice.

Because of the sobering facts along the Franco-German border, in Italy and China and the Southwest Pacific, the campaign will be conducted without any circus tins. People will be treated as adults. It is an adult affair. Let us meet it with adult responsibility.

(Whoopie)

In anticipation of Victory-in-Europe day, the bars have made special arrangements to close. The restaurants will declare a holiday. The shops will shut up shop. Now the filling station operators have voted to suspend for the duration of the bacchanalia.

It looks as if the best course for the world-celebrator will be to go quietly home and lie down.

Truman Chooses, Dewey Avoids

Mr. Truman being above all a "good soldier," it is fair to conclude that he spoke for Mr. Roosevelt as well as himself in his unequivocal declaration for treaty ratification by majorities in both houses of Congress instead of two-thirds in the Senate. In contrast, Mr. Dewey flatly refused to express himself on this question.

Were it an academic question, Mr. Dewey's silence would be understandable. But, if both parties endorsed it, there might actually be a good chance to put through a constitutional amendment before the major peace treaties; and the importance of the issue is plain beyond mistaking in the loss of the League of Nations under the present two-thirds rule.

The avoidance is even harder to understand because Mr. Dewey could have put up a good argument for either side. He could have said that a simple majority in both houses is more democratic, more responsive to the people's will. Or, giving him lines in character, he could have defended the present system as a check against "a power-hungry Democratic President and Senate majority."

Perhaps Mr. Dewey fears he would lose votes. But he is doing himself double harm by giving both camps on this question reason for suspicion, let alone the great body of independent voters whose demand above all is for the fullest possible revelation of candidates' purposes.

The Germans are evacuating Dunkerque. We don't know about history's repeating itself, but it is reversing itself very nicely.

Man of His Word

In resigning as Surplus Property Administrator, Will L. Clayton has again shown that he acts upon his beliefs. Before House and Senate conferees agreed on the misfit compromise on conversion, he stated he would resign if they carried out their plan for a board which would wield all power, while the executive merely danced to their tune. As soon as the President signed the measure, Clayton's resignation was on its way.

The controversy as to his conservative views about the channels for disposing of the surplus Government lands must have reminded him of his years as the world's biggest cotton merchant, and the attacks of "Cotton Ed" Smith. Irrespective of the merits or demerits of his conservative economic views, he should be congratulated for refusing to continue under a setup he thought bound to fail.

He had no use for the board which Congress set up to determine disposal policy. Perhaps he had learned through sad experience. A board has been defined as long, narrow and wooden, and all too often this has proved the case.

Reductions in taxes after the war are being proposed as an aid to the unemployed. The taxes in question being, presumably, those on incomes derived from the sale of apples.

IN THE DARKNESS OF NATIONAL EMERGENCY

Federal River Control Is Not New

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Kansas City Times claim that MVA would be a new "instrument of authoritarian control" is refuted; actually, Federal power over streams came with the Constitution; if the Times doesn't like it, writer says, it should urge a repeal amendment or hold its peace.

A Letter to the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

I read an illuminating symposium of "Missouri Valley Press Views on Roosevelt's MVA Message," some very pertinent questions were raised which might profitably be further discussed. One of these is whether a Missouri Valley Authority would be "in the pattern of conquest."

It is it would, says the Kansas City Times. It is the "quest of absolute Federal control over a vast area of the United States." With an MVA would come "absolute authority over navigation and flood control of the Missouri River and its tributaries, control over irrigation of millions of acres, control of the development of power throughout the nine states." ... And again:

"What might be a good idea for a restricted area could become an instrument of authoritarian control if spread across the nation."

There is an old legal maxim: "ignorantia legis neminem excusat" ("ignorance of the law excuses nobody"). Not even the Kansas City Times—for proclaiming as a future threat a law that is a present fact. Federal authority over navigation and flood control, and all the rest, is already "spread across the nation"—not only "throughout the nine states" but through all 48 of them. And this is no new thing, but has been so ever since the good year 1789, when the Federal Government took up its various chores under the Constitution containing the famous "commerce clause" (Article I, Section 8, Clause 3).

Court Sustains the Clause

The Supreme Court has been interpreting this clause during all this time—from the days of Chief Justice John Marshall to those of Chief Justice Harlan Stone—over Gibbons vs. Ogden in 1824 to the New River Case in 1940. And Federal powers over river flowage have been found to go deeper and deeper with each successive major decision in between.

Such then is the law. Perhaps it is unjust and wrong, and any American citizen or newspaper has the right to call it wrong if that is what he thinks about it. And the way to remedy this or any other constitutional wrong would be to propose an amendment for so doing; propose amending the commerce clause in a way to cancel the present Federal jurisdiction over the aforesaid river flowage and its various appurtenances. If any such amendment has ever been proposed, I have never heard of it. The Kansas City Times does not propose it now on this very logical occasion.

So this so-called "conquest" of Federal control is as old as United States history. It is spread from ocean to ocean. No MVA is required to invoke its "authoritarian control." If MVA would be authoritarian, then so right now is the Reclamation Bureau; then so is the Corps of Army Engineers. These two (and several other) Federal "conquests" are right now ensconced on the Missouri River, though their powers emanate from the banks of the Potomac far away.

A Merger of "Conquests"

Under Senator Murray's MVA, these "conquests" (and the others) would be merged. They would be combined under a "conqueror" consisting of a board of three. The Times might claim that such co-ordination would make matters worse, and that "authoritarian control" would be more efficient when emanating from one source than from two sources (or from five or six). If this seems reasonable, then let us say so frankly; but don't say that MVA is authoritarian and the present scheme is not; both schemes are thus guilty or else neither is.

Under Senator Murray's MVA, the board would make its headquarters somewhere in the Missouri Valley (not on the Potomac). Again it might be claimed that such geographic intimacy would make things worse, since the "triumvirate" would be closer to its nefarious job and could devote more time to local persecution. If this seems reasonable, then let the point be made. Say frankly that "authoritarian control" is more authoritarian when acting on the ground than from a distance. But again—don't say that MVA is guilty where the present scheme is not. Both are guilty or both are innocent.

Present American law on this subject is either right or wrong. If it is right, then make it function right—have it focused instead of divided, apply it from nearby instead of from afar. If the law is wrong, then repeal it and put something else in its place—amend Article I, Section 8, Clause 3 of the United States Constitution.

BENTON MACKAYE.

There'll Be No V-E Joy for Them

From the New York World-Telegram.

... way to achieve a civilized viewpoint—one of tolerance and understanding—is to put yourself in the other fellow's place.

Let's try it. Suppose you were a soldier in the South Pacific. Suppose you had been there a couple of years, through Guadalcanal and Salpa and such battles. And now you were getting ready for another of those bloody island invasions in which you were certain you would undergo the hell of a Tarawa—if you lived through it.

And while you were getting your gear ready for the battle, the war in Europe ended. That could make no change in your plans. Japan still had to be whipped. You were told that tomorrow night you would sail for another invasion.

And then you read in your Army newspaper or heard over the radio about a great celebration in the United States, a celebration over the "winning of the war"—parades and parties, drunken revelry, dancing in the streets. And while you were reading, a sergeant walked up and said: "Remember how it was at 'Bloody Nose' ridge when those Japs were chained to their machine guns—well, it's going to be just that rugged this time, too."

How would you feel? That's just the way our men fighting the Japs are going to feel, so we urge you to restrain that natural exuberance of joy when Germany caves in. Remember, for those fellows out in the Pacific the end of the war is still not in sight.

Flying Is Safe Transportation, Authority on Aviation Declares"Stick and Rudder," by Wolfgang Langewiesche.
(McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., New York.)

Tomorrow citizens of the world will travel hourly over established superhighways of the stratosphere in luxury liners of the air, but our pilots of today journey through an uncharted part of the universe on a newly discovered device—the wing. For these pioneers of the air, who still need all their skill and daring to outwit the unknown, Wolfgang Langewiesche attempts to develop a theory of actual flight conditions, as opposed to the more familiar theory of building airplanes.

"A wing is a strange thing," says the author, "strangely behaved, hard to understand, tricky to handle. On wings, it is safe to be high, dangerous to be low; safe to go fast, dangerous to go slow. . . . The wing is just as simple as man's other really great inventions: the wheel, the boat, the lever; but unlike those other inventions, the wing is new and not yet familiar."

Himself a test pilot and former air-school instructor, Langewiesche sets out to help pilots overcome wrong images of how they fly. He explains why the rudder is not the airplane's steering wheel; why the throttle, unlike that of an automobile, does not mean "fast" and "slow." Unfortunately, these devices sometimes cause the airplane to do just the reverse of what the casual observer would expect.

The book tells how a wing's approach to the air, or "angle of attack," makes it fly, and proceeds through the whole gamut of explaining glides, stalls, spins, use of controls and the four basic flight maneuvers.

A chapter on "The Dangers of the Air," by Leighton Collins, editor of Air Facts Magazine, points out that safer airplanes can be built and have been built in sufficient numbers to prove their effectiveness. He says that such planes are not now on the market, largely because the test of flying lies in its danger and, for this reason, most pilots do not want flying made safe for them.

According to Collins, flying is a particularly safe form of transportation for the airline pilot and passenger, as well as the student flyer. Fatal accidents are still too frequent, however, and many of the fatalities are caused by the desire to show off or "plain lack of judgment."

Approximately 70 per cent of all fatalities occur when a pilot loses control of his plane in making a turn, the writer says. The pilot, on the other hand, fears mainly engine failure, which causes only 6 per cent of fatal accidents; weather conditions, responsible for 8 per cent, and structural failure, which causes another 8 per cent.

"Perhaps what happens when the beginner reacts wrongly in an airplane," says Langewiesche, "is similar to what happened in the early days of the automobile, when a man trying to stop in an emergency would pull back on the steering wheel as if he had reins in his hands, and would even yell, 'Whoa!' There was nothing really wrong with his reactions; the only thing wrong was the image in his head that made him see an automobile as a sort of mechanized horse."

Study of a Football Star

In "Final Score" (Knopf), Warren Beck presents a psychological analysis of a public idol—a college football star—who sought substitute glories when he found he was unable to relinquish the spotlight of fame or to accept the commonplace events of routine living after graduation. Here is a well-written book which provides reading enjoyment.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Our 'Too Little and Too Late' Foreign Policy

THE reports about Polish and Italian affairs, and in some measure about French, show how, just below the highest level, Allied diplomacy has been fumbling because it has been ill-informed and indecisive.

At the highest level, we have had first the formation and then the development of the alliance of the great powers by which the war in Europe is being won, by which the war in Asia will have to be won. From the destroyer-bases transaction in 1940 and lend-lease in 1941 to the Moscow and Tehran conferences of 1943, first Roosevelt and Churchill and, later, Stalin forged the alliance to which this country and all countries owe their victory, their freedom and the essential beginnings of a durable peace.

Nothing that can be said in criticism of other aspects of their diplomacy should cause us to lose sight of this great achievement. It outweighs their mistakes, and in the end it may make it possible to repair their mistakes. Nor has this alliance paid all its dividends in aligning forces for the certain defeat of Germany.

Insight and Wisdom.

It is indispensable to the quick and certain defeat of Japan, and anyone who seeks to destroy this alliance, or to create discord within it, does so at the expense of American and Allied fighting men in the Pacific war.

Here at the highest level where grand strategy and high politics are one and the same thing, the war has been prepared with a foresight and a resolution, and is being conducted with an insight and wisdom that are now proved and indisputable.

But at the secondary level in the political conduct of the war, a kind of second-rateness has caused trouble which can become immensely serious. It is as if Messrs. Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt had exhausted the best of their energies on the greatest issues of the war and then had dealt with issues next in importance—in Poland, France, and Italy—in their odd moments, with the residue of their strength, and through lieutenants whose caliber has been much smaller than those who have done the great planning and direction of the war.

A clear sign of second-rateness in diplomacy is to take hesitantly measures which are too little to achieve a result because they are taken too late. In respect to Poland, Italy and France, the diplomacy of Britain and America has been to wait so long to take necessary decisions that when they are taken the situation has deteriorated.

The Worst Example.

The worst example is Poland. If in 1942, when Gen. Sikorski still alive, Washington had agreed that the Eastern frontiers of Poland must be revised and the Polish Government in London reconstructed to eliminate the enemies of the Soviet Union, there is a high probability that a Polish-Soviet settlement would have been achieved then and there, that there would not have been a separate Polish government established in Russia, and that the unity of the Polish nation would have been preserved.

But the President was badly advised, and instead of urging Gen. Sikorski to dominate the irreconcilable Poles and work out a settlement, Gen. Sikorski was told

MARQUIS CHILDS

The Soldier Vote

CHICAGO.

JUST the little bit that I've moved around the country so far has convinced me the soldier vote is likely to be a bigger factor than anyone had reckoned with. It could, in fact, decide a close election.

About 135,000 soldiers from the Chicago area have applied for ballots thus far. This is out of a total of approximately half a million from the area, of whom roughly half might be eligible to vote.

Thus, 135,000 is more than 50 per cent of the number of eligible soldier voters. While there is doubtless some duplication in this figure and certainly not all of the ballots will be returned, the number of men in uniform who will register their preference promises to be much bigger than the 15 per cent that has frequently been taken as a maximum.

In Boston, Mayor Tobin told me that 31,000 applications had come in, out of 48,000 marked on police lists as in the services. The expectation was that 25,000 ballots would be returned, which would be 52 to 54 per cent of those listed in police precincts. Massachusetts is a close State. Conceivably, the soldier vote could swing it.

J. Russell Sprague recently reported that in Nassau County on Long Island, which is his political and administrative bailiwick, 85 per cent of those in the armed services have applied for ballots. This is especially high, considering New York's cumbersome soldier vote law.

A Good Job.

According to one report from Michigan, 200,000 soldiers voted out of approximately a half-million from the State in the armed services, are expected to vote. Michigan, if the CIO does a registration job, could be a close State, although at this time it looks safe for Dewey.

The War Department has done a good, thorough job in order to give every single soldier a chance to vote. No GI is being coerced or even persuaded to vote. But top policy makers in the War Department feel service men should not be discriminated against, and if they want to exercise their inalienable rights as American citizens, then they're to have the chance.

3 ST. LOUISANS GIVEN BRONZE STAR MEDALS

Lt. A. S. Maestre and Army Nurse Braved Enemy Fire in Pacific—Others Listed.

Lt. Allen S. Maestre of the Army Quartermaster Corps, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroism on Saipan Island June 20 to July 19, when, during the assault he was in charge of a detail of men who were to seek out, decontaminate and bury enemy dead close behind the assault troops, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Maestre, 4393 Westminster place, have been informed. Sidney Maestre is president of Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

The citation stated Lt. Maestre in numerous cases entered caves ahead of his men to assure there were no snipers, in one case killing a Jap found hiding in a cave. He has been in the South Pacific since March 10. He is 31 years old.

Lt. Margaret Cody, former St. Louis nurse, was awarded the Bronze Star medal on a newly won Marianas base for helping set up an Army hospital. The citation said she had been serving under DePaul Hospital in 1939, was flown with nine other nurses to the island, then still under fire, and "performed outstanding service in the care of the ill and wounded civilian population under primitive circumstances," then voluntarily attended battle casualties. Lt. Cody formerly lived at 3867 A St. Louis avenue.

Maj. Harry C. Bauer, former St. Louis librarian, was awarded the Bronze Star medal, Group Citation Ribbon and Purple Heart as a result of raids with Army Air Forces over the Floeti (Romania) oil fields. He is staff officer of a heavy bombardment group. Maj. Bauer, who is a twin brother of Dr. Louis C. Bauer, 5476 Delmar boulevard, wrote that he is now ill in a hospital in Italy, and will be under treatment for several months.

Pfc. Raymond E. Oglesby, medical corpsman serving in the European war theater, was previously reported to have received the Silver Star Medal for bravery in action. His sister, Mrs. Margaret Graves, lives at 5519 Partridge avenue.

Lt. Merrill J. Scott, 23, pilot of a British-based Flying Fortress, has received the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf Clusters, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Scott, 5443 Reber place, have learned.

Sgt. Charles W. Bante Jr., 19, tail gunner on a British-based Flying Fortress, has received the Air Medal, his parents, who live at 7421 W. 12th avenue, have been informed.

Pfc. Herbert McCoy, 21, infantryman, received the Purple Heart for wounds received Aug. 9 in France, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asbury McCoy, 1849 W. 12th street, have been informed.

DEAN W. H. STEAD TO DISCUSS POSTWAR BUSINESS PROBLEMS

Dean William H. Stead of Washington University will analyze problems to be met by business in the postwar period, at a meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce Building, 511 Locust street. He will present the first in a series of four talks which are sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Other speakers in the series, to be given on successive Friday evenings, are William McKeil, chairman of the board of directors, Union Electric Co. of Missouri, next Friday; A. S. Brueggemann, director of the foreign trade bureau of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Oct. 20, and F. W. Huntington, personnel director of the Ralston Purina Co., Oct. 27. The meetings are open to the public without charge.

Last Man's Club Dinner. The original Last Man's Club of World War I will hold a dinner tomorrow at 7 p. m. at Hotel De Soto, L. D. Goebbel, program chairman, announced today. Peter Miravalle will be in charge of the ceremonies.

On both sides of the political fence, they seem to have assumed that the great majority of soldiers would vote for Roosevelt, as Commander in Chief. That was behind much of the controversy over the Federal soldier vote law, which was defeated on the states' rights issue by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

Soldiers for F. D. R.

Most correspondents returning from overseas tend to confirm the report that GI Joe is for Roosevelt. The correspondent of a conservative newspaper, who is anti-Roosevelt in his own leanings, returned from a tour of the major theaters of war saying he had yet to meet an enlisted man who was not for the President's re-election. That, of course, was before the campaign developed.

The soldier's interest in politics is certainly not high. But from all reports, he does resent what he felt was an effort to keep him from voting. That's the chief reason the Army is working so hard to get ballots to men in foxholes in Italy and deep in the New Guinea jungle.

Considerable uproar has been made here over Mayor Kelly's campaign letter to GI soldiers in the armed services. Kelly says his precinct workers got the names and addresses, and that soldiers have just as much right to be informed on the election as anybody.

In my opinion, such efforts are wasted. The average soldier is too far removed from the political scene to be interested. He will vote the convictions or prejudices he brought with him in civilian life, and nothing anybody says will change him.

FATHER CLOUD DIES; ST. LOUIS U. EX-HEAD

Succumbs to Heart Disease at Detroit—65 Years Old.

The Very Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S. J., former president of St. Louis University, and president of the University of Detroit from 1935 until last June 25, died in a Detroit hospital last night of heart disease. He was 65 years old.

Father Cloud was installed recently as rector of the Jesuit novitiate at Milford, O. He had gone to the hospital for a routine checkup.

A native of Cincinnati, Father Cloud was educated at St. Xavier College there and at St. Louis University, of which he was president from 1924 to 1930. During his administration here, the Medical School was enlarged by addition of a new building, and gifts of $1,500,000 for hospital purposes were made. He represented the Chicago Province of the Jesuit Order at the General Jesuit Legislative Congress in Rome in 1938.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Leona Frey; a brother, J. D. Cloud of Cincinnati, and a nephew, Raymond Cloud of Detroit. Burial will be at Milford, O.

DEWEY TO VISIT CATHEDRAL WHERE AL SMITH'S BODY LIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—The body of Alfred E. Smith, in a heavy bronze casket, was carried into St. Patrick's Cathedral this afternoon to lie in state until the funeral tomorrow.

While thousands watched in a drizzling rain, the casket was taken to the Lady Chapel and opened. Friends and acquaintances of the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate began to file in to pay final respects. After 8:30 p. m., the body will be moved to the head of the center aisle of the cathedral.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, who will be unable to attend the funeral at 11 a. m. tomorrow because of a speaking engagement in Charleston, W. Va., tomorrow night, will pay his respects sometime tonight to the man who was four times elected to the office Dewey now holds.

FAMOUS ITALIAN ART STOLEN BY GERMANS

Priceless Paintings and Sculpture Carted Away or Ruined at Florence.

ROME, Oct. 6 (AP).—Before their retreat from Florence the Germans rifled caches of priceless art treasures and carted away or ruined many masterpieces, inventories by an Allied fine arts and archives subcommittee have disclosed.

Fifty-eight cases of famous sculpture in marble and bronze; 26 cases of Hellenistic and Roman sculpture and 291 pictures were included in the partial list of announced losses. Also listed as lost were 25 to 30 cases of smaller pictures and 25 sketches.

Italian art officials said the Germans took the treasures on the pretext of saving them "from the American barbarians."

The Germans caused irreparable damage and near ruin to the world's most notable paleographic library at the University of Florence. An entire collection of ancient documents was reported tossed into the damp basement corridors of a villa, where it was waiting to be destroyed.

Missing sculpture works included Donatello's St. George and his David, and Michelangelo's Bacchus and his Venus de' Medici. Many Della Robbia terracottas also are missing.

The famous group, Niobe and Her Daughters, was taken from the oratory of Sant' Onofrio at Dicomano. The pictures removed from the cache at Montagnana included works of Titian, Botticelli, Raphael, Murillo and many other masters.

Recovered art works are being returned to their original places in Florence under military guard.

JEFFERSON BARRACKS BRIDGE DEDICATION IN DECEMBER

With the completion of the Illinois approach to the Jefferson Barracks bridge across the Mississippi River expected by Dec. 1, arrangements for dedication of the structure are being made by the Jefferson Barracks Bridge Association.

A. C. Waldemer, president of the association, said the dedication would be held Dec. 2 or Dec. 9, and the bridge would be free of toll for one day after the dedication to allow its inspection by the public. Fred Hoffmeister, vice president of the association, has been named chairman of the Dedication Arrangements Committee.

Waldemer said he had been assured by the Illinois Highway Department that laying of concrete on the eastern approach to the bridge will be finished by Dec. 1, but minor work on fills, fences and culverts will require an additional month.

SAYS BRITAIN WOULD BE GLAD IF U. S. KEPT PACIFIC BASES

MELBOURNE, Oct. 6 (AP).—Australia and Britain would be glad to see American occupation of bases in the Pacific, Sir Keith Murdoch, leading Australian newspaper publisher, said today.

Murdoch, chairman of the Australian-American Co-operation Movement, said in an address that the United States had no territorial ambitions in the Pacific Islands north of Australia, but he had no doubt American military leaders would recommend establishing bases there.

He said Australia's strategic position demanded a barrier across these islands—the Japanese mandated Carolines, Marianas and Marshalls.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

L. T. (Jr.) AND MRS. JOHN WILLIAM GALBRAITH and their three-month-old daughter, Kathryn Ann, will arrive today from Pensacola, Fla., where Lt. Galbraith is stationed with the Naval Reserve. They will be guests of Mrs. Galbraith's mother, Mrs. George Peters Whitelaw, 5291 Westminster place.

The Galbraiths' daughter will be christened by Dean Sidney E. Sweet, of Christ Church Cathedral, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Oct. 14. Sponsors will be Mrs. Whitelaw's sister, Mrs. Ralph B. Reed, who will arrive next Wednesday from her home at Orlando, Fla.; Miss Audrey Frank and Mr. Whitelaw. The baby has been named for her mother, who was Miss Kathryn Lee Woodward. After the christening Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw will give a small buffet supper.

Miss Lawton to Be Wed.

An arch of greenery at the south end of the living room will form a decorative background for an improvised wedding ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Lawton, 9550 Bonhomme road this afternoon when their eldest daughter, Miss Mary Lawton, becomes the bride of Lt. John D. Rigby, naval aviator.

The Rev. John Kane will perform the ceremony at 5:30 o'clock in a delightfully set of white flowers, after which a reception will be given.

Attending the bride will be Mrs. Arnold B. Wadum (Mary Manassa), matron of honor, and two younger sisters of the bride, Miss Billie Jean and Miss Patricia Lawton. Mrs. Wadum will be in dusty pink crepe, and the bridesmaids in French blue tulle, their gowns styled identically with modified square necklines edged in ruching. Small heart-shaped hats of matching material with long streamers will adorn their heads. They will carry chrysanthemums, lavender and dusty rose for the Misses Lawton, and cream-colored for Mrs. Wadum.

The bride will be gowned in ivory satin. The basque bodice is designed with a wide lace bertha outlining a net yoke, the full skirt sweeps into a long train. Flaming with a wreath of orange blossoms will be the full-length tulle veil which is edged in lace three-quarters of the way to the floor. The bride will carry a prayer book topped by orchids.

Lt. Rigby, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rigby, and his sister, Miss Joan Rigby, are here from Quincy, Mass., for the marriage, will be attended by Lt. E. L. Hoch, U. S. N. R., who is stationed with him at St. Simon Island, Ga.

Assorted autumn flowers decorate the remaining lower floor rooms. In the dining room, windowed chrysanthemums are arranged on the mantel and garlands surround the wedding cake.

The bride was graduated from Mary Institute and attended Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N. Y., and St. Louis School of Fine Arts at Washington University. Her brother, Pvt. Carl S. Lawton Jr., is serving overseas with an Army Ranger unit.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Fleish of Pasadena, Cal., who until three years ago lived at the Greyston Apartments, are spending several weeks in St. Louis. They are at the Mayfair Hotel. Mr. Fleish is a brother of Mrs. Lillian F. Ober and Miss Mattie Fleish, who live at the St. Regis Apartments.

'CHARTER FOR RURAL EDUCATION' STUDIED

Report Presented to White House Conference for Consideration by Delegates.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—The first White House conference on rural education was concluded yesterday and the conference members took home to their 44 states copies of what they called a charter for rural education to be considered for adoption. The report summed up its own salient points in these words:

"We must not tolerate in any rural community or for any individual, poorly paid and meagerly trained teachers; unsafe, unsightly and ineptly planned buildings; weak and ineffective school districts; gross neglect of underprivileged groups; nor any manner of paying for education which does not give a fair opportunity to all."

To provide "equitable" financing for equality of educational opportunity throughout the country, the conference asserted that "the Federal Government and the governments of the several states must each assume its fair share of the cost of rural schools."

The wounded service man "with the least education is going to cost the communities the most," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared to the 230 educators at the conference.

"If I ever needed to learn we need to give equality of education to every child, I've learned it going through the wards of the hospitals," the President's wife declared. She said the boys with little education felt completely hopeless. "I saw a boy with both feet off who gets drunk every time he goes out and I don't blame him for getting drunk," she said.

$1,400,000 AIRPORT OUTLAY TO BE SUBMITTED TUESDAY

An ordinance providing for expenditure of $1,400,000 to enclose Cold Water Creek and two of its branches in connection with the expansion of Lambert-St. Louis Field will be submitted Tuesday to the Board of Public Service for approval before its introduction in the Board of Aldermen, Milton M. Kinsey, chairman of the City Airport Commission, said yesterday.

Parallel concrete tubes almost a mile in length will carry the creek's main stream, while smaller, single tubes will enclose the two tributaries, he said. Covering of the streams will eliminate a major hazard.

VOTING TO INFLUENCE G.M.C., ASSERTS SLOAN

Says Dewey Victory Would Raise Question of Enlarging Expansion Plans.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of General Motors Corporation, said yesterday the outcome of the presidential election would, as far as he was concerned, have a direct bearing on General Motors' postwar expansion program.

Speaking before the New York State Chamber of Commerce, he said the motor car company, which now has nearly half a million employees, plans to spend from five to six hundred million dollars improving its factories and adding new plants. "And, of course, I do not need to tell an audience of this type that if Gov. Dewey is elected President next November it would change the entire aspect of the American enterprise system."

"I should think, so far as I was concerned, that the first thing I ought to do is to have a review of this (General Motors) program to see, under those circumstances, whether it was big enough or whether it shouldn't be increased," Sloan also said.

MISURU TOYAMA

INQUEST IN DRIVER'S DEATH

An inquest will be held tomorrow in the death of Joseph Ragland, Negro coal hauler, who apparently died of electric shock yesterday when the dump bed of his truck, which he was lowering with an iron crank, came in contact with a 110-volt wire.

Toyama and the militarists who now rule bludgeoned their way to power together. They were interdependent, their policies were parallel, their goals identical.

The militarists needed Toyama and his gunmen to spread their doctrines of violence and conformity throughout a sometimes recalcitrant country. Toyama needed militarist protection to continue in power and grow stronger, without being broken by the vicious gendarmes, the military police.

Started Intrigues Early.

By the time he was 20, Toyama twice had been jailed for activities in behalf of an invasion of Korea. Four years later, he helped found the Black Ocean Society, forerunner of the Black Dragon, advocating direct action against non-Japanese in East Asia.

Black Ocean agents aided the Japanese militarists in the Chinese-Japanese War in 1894 and in 1899 Toyama was said to have supplied arms and volunteer instructors to Emilio Aguinaldo, Philippine rebel, for use against the United States.

Toyama founded the Black Dragon in 1901, originally to propagandize war against Russia which broke out three years later. In the 1920s auxiliary groups were organized and these societies figured in the seizure of Manchuria, the 1932 assassination of moderate political leaders, the 1936 army revolt in Tokyo and the 1941 shooting of Vice Premier Hiranuma.

He was on close terms with Gen. Hideki Tojo, Premier and war lord when the war opened. The months before the Pearl Harbor attack of December, 1941, he launched a campaign for the "elimination of absurd persons who follow foreign ways," advocated a bigger navy and observed:

"Judging by materials, Japan is far inferior to the United States in money and machinery but Japan has the force to expand and that more than makes up for the shortage of materials."

DUCK MASCOT ROUTS JAPANESE ROOSTER ON TARAWA BEACH

Marines' Pet Back Home After Defeating All-Comers on Pacific Islands.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP).—Siwash the duck, fighting mascot of the Second Marine Division, is home.

The conquering duck, after breezing through all opposition it met on Tarawa, Saipan and Tinian, arrived here with Cpl. Francis J. Fagan of Chicago and 300 Leatherneck veterans of Pacific campaigns.

The duck is admired by Marines because it routed a Japanese rooster on Tarawa a day after the invasion.

"The rooster didn't have a chance," Fagan related. "Siwash whipped him and chased him 30 feet up the beach."

Since Tarawa, Siwash has faced little formidable opposition. The mascot went ashore at Saipan on D-day and encountered a Japanese duck, which capitulated unconditionally.

Siwash holds the rank of sergeant, has a thirst for beer and jumps in a foxhole the minute the Marines leap, the veterans say.

ROOSEVELT'S TEXT: 'RED HERRINGS USED IN THIS ELECTION'

of every foreign-born citizen with whom they disagree. They forget that we in the United States are all descended from immigrants (all except the Indians); and there is no better proof of that fact than the heroic names on our casualty lists.

I have just been looking at a statement by Representative Anderson, chairman of the House Committee on Campaign Expenditures, about a document recently sent free, through the mails, by one Senator and 12 Representatives — all of them Republicans. They evidently thought highly of this document, for they had more than three million copies printed by the Government printing office — requiring more than 18 tons of scarce and expensive paper — and sent them through the mails all over the country at the taxpayers' expense.

Now—let us look at this document to see what made it so important to 13 Republican leaders at this stage of the war when many millions of our men are fighting for freedom.

Well—this document says that the "red specter of Communism is stalking our country from east to west, from north to south"—the charge being that the Roosevelt administration is part of a gigantic plot to sell our democracy out to the Communists.

This form of propaganda is not new among rabble rousers and fomenters of class hatred—who seek to destroy democracy itself. It was used by Mussolini's Black Shirts and by Hitler's Brown Shirts. It has been used before in this country by the Silver Shirts and others on the lunatic fringe. But the sound and democratic instincts of the American people rebel against its use, particularly by their own Congressmen—and at the taxpayers' expense.

Wants No Backing By Alien Ideologists.

I have never sought, and I do not welcome the support of any person or group committed to Communism, or Fascism, or any other foreign ideology which would undermine the American system of government or the American system of free competitive enterprise and private property.

That does not in the least interfere with the firm and friendly relationship which this nation has in this war, and will, I hope, continue to have with the Soviet Union. The kind of economy that suits the Russian people is their own affair. The American people are glad and proud to be allied with the gallant people of Russia, not only in winning this war but in laying the foundations for the world peace which will follow the war—and in keeping that peace.

We have seen our civilization in deadly peril. We successfully met the challenge, due to the steadfastness of our Allies, to the aid we were able to give to our Allies, and to the unprecedented outpouring of American man-power, American productivity and American ingenuity—and to the magnificent courage and enterprise of our fighting men and our military leadership.

What is now being won in battle must not be lost by lack of vision or by lack of faith or by division among ourselves and our Allies.

We must and we will continue to be united with our Allies in a powerful world organization which is ready and able to keep the peace—if necessary by force. To provide that assurance of international security is the policy, the effort and the obligation of this administration.

5050 WAR WORKER HOMES BUILT HERERepresents More Than Half of 9639 Units Provided in State Under U. S. Plan.

A total of 5050 family dwelling units have been built in St. Louis under the war housing program of the National Housing Agency. Administrator John B. Blandford Jr. announced today in Washington. Blandford said the figure applied on June 30, when 287 other units were either under construction or about to be started.

This represents more than half the 9639 new units of various types for war workers and their families provided in Missouri under the program. There were 1736 units in Kansas City, with an additional 3098 yet to be built.

Because of limited materials, the dwellings were designed to meet the needs only of incoming workers. Hundreds of other units started before priorities took effect also are housing Missouri war workers. Included in priority construction are 8412 family dwellings, of which 5380 were financed by private capital. Public-financed construction included 3032 family quarters and 907 dormitory type units for single workers. Most of these are temporary buildings and will be removed after the war.

Temporary family dwellings cost an average of $2800 each, including sites and utilities, and consume less than one ton of critical materials, a savings of up to 80 per cent as compared with pre-war, permanent construction.

In the United States, about six billion dollars is invested in war housing, of which four billion dollars is being carried by private capital, the remainder representing public funds. Over the country, some 1,800,000 new quarters for workers are being provided, with more than two million workers being taken care of in existing housing.

ESTONIA TO MAKE OWN DECISION ON COLLECTIVIZATION

Under No Compulsion to Adopt Russian Farm
Plan, Soviet Council President Asserts.

By EDDY GILMORE

TALLINN, Estonia, Oct. 5.—(Delayed).—(AP).—The Soviet Estonian republic, now freed from three years of German domination, will decide for itself whether to adopt the Russian system of collectivization of agriculture, declares Arnold Veimer, president of the council of people's commissars.

"If the Estonians do not want collective farms," he said at a press conference, "they will not have them. But the party, naturally believing in it, will campaign for it by press and radio education."

"And the nationalization of stores and business?" a correspondent asked.

"Small enterprises of less than 10 employees will remain in private hands," he replied.

Currently all stores in Estonia are closed for inventory.

A land reform inaugurated in 1940—30 hectares of land to a peasant—has been reintroduced. A hectare is 2.47 acres.

Asked how many hired hands a peasant may employ and how many cows he may own, Veimer replied:

"There is no limit to the number of persons he may employ on a farm. He may have as many cows as he can maintain."

The council president said he did not know what system would prevail in the other Soviet Baltic republics, Latvia and Lithuania, but there seems reason to believe that there will be no forced collectivization or nationalization.

ANTI-ROOSEVELT DEMOCRATS YET TO REPORT ON FUNDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Chairman Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, of the House Campaign Expenditures Committee said today the anti-Roosevelt American Democratic National Committee had not filed with Congress an accounting of its contributors and disbursements and thus failed to comply with the Corrupt Practices Act.

However, Gleason L. Archer of Boston, chairman of the organization, said its financial records were available in Chicago, where the House committee will open hearings tomorrow.

Archer, who is president of Suffolk University in Boston, testified before the committee that he succeeded Harry Woodring, former Secretary of War, as chairman of the American Democratic National Committee and said the group was organized by Democrats "interested in constitutional government." It is opposing a fourth term.

NEED IN SIXTH WAR LOAN URGENT, MORGENTHAU SAYS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced yesterday the terms of the securities to be sold in the Sixth War Loan, Nov. 20 to Dec. 16, and said the goal of 14 billion dollars was "urgently needed."

He said the direct costs of the war since Jan. 1 had exceeded 69 billion dollars and "the critical phases of the war are still ahead of us, and for that reason we cannot expect any material decline in expenditures during the next several months."

The major emphasis throughout the drive will be placed on the quota of five billion dollars for individuals, Morgenthau said.

PILOT CRASHES ON SANDBAR

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 6 (AP).—A Naval ferry pilot crashed his plane in the Missouri River here yesterday and escaped serious injury. The low-flying plane, a light training craft en route from Wichita, Kan., to New York, struck a power line and dove into a submerged sandbar in the river. The pilot, Ensign William Sternad, 22 years old, was taken to a hospital, where a physician said his only apparent injuries were severe lacerations on his head and a hand. Two planes which accompanied him flew on after their pilots saw Sternad taken safely from the damaged plane.

Laval Reported With Petain. NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Brazzaville radio, quoting a dispatch credited to the German news agency Transocean, said yesterday that Pierre Laval and his wife "are living under the same roof with Marshal Petain in the same unnamed town in Southern Germany."

HELD FOR INVESTIGATION IN EAST ST. LOUIS KILLING

A St. Louis mechanic was held for investigation today in the death of Alva C. Jobe, International Shoe Co. electrician who was found beaten to death yesterday in an East St. Louis yard.

East St. Louis police, who arrested the mechanic at Third street and Broadway, said he admitted theft of an automobile owned by a Webster Groves woman yesterday, and previously had been arrested in St. Louis on a charge of assault with an iron pipe. The suspect was too intoxicated for immediate questioning as to where he was at the time

Jobe was killed, police said. Jobe's skull had been crushed by a blunt instrument, and an iron pipe was found near the body.

Police said his pockets were turned inside out, and he apparently had been beaten to death by a robber.

SECURITY TRADERS FORM GROUP TO PROTECT BUYERS

Program of Education Planned to Warn All E Bond Holders of Stock Frauds.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
 PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6. — A permanent national committee has been formed here to keep the stock-buying public educated against the hazards to be encountered in the purchase and sale of securities by uninformed individuals.

The committee was formed at a meeting between members of the Securities and Exchange Commission and about 50 prominent representatives of the security business, including H. P. Green, president of the St. Louis Stock Exchange.

It will conduct a continuous program of education to warn the public against frauds, and will publish a pamphlet for distribution to all series E bondholders. The committee's purpose was outlined by Ganson Pursell, chairman of the SEC, who said that "loosening purse strings on 130 million dollars of liquid savings after the war will have a profound effect on our national economy, and it is up to the leaders of the investment field, as well as government agencies, to concern themselves with protection of those savings."

Other speakers reported increasing fraudulent activities. James A. Treanor Jr., head of the SEC Securities Division, who presided, said that a new type of fraudulent stock promoter, most active

GOEBBELS ORDERS NEW CUTS IN GERMANS' FOOD RATIONS

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP). — New reductions in food rations were ordered in Germany last night by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, total mobilization director. On top of a cut in bread and sugar rations announced last week to take effect Oct. 16, Goebbels decreed: A three-ounce reduction in the weekly ration of ersatz coffee; an unspecified reduction in the ration of jam and artificial honey for children; suspension of the ration of cooking oils.

In other orders Goebbels sought to obtain more man power for Germany's armies and war factories and curtailed Nazi party activities. Flag days and canvassing for party funds were barred. The Hitler youth organization's sports and cultural contests were discontinued.

DAVE BECK ON FIGHT AFTER F. D. R. SPEECH

Publicity Given Hotel Row 'Kind of Stuff That Splits Country,' Unionist Says.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 6 (AP).—Dave Beck, international vice-president of the AFL Teamsters' Union, says the prominence given to the so-called "battle of the Statler Hotel" in connection with the election campaigns of President Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is "a lot of hokey."

"That's the kind of stuff that splits the country and makes it harder for labor and industry to work together," Beck asserted in an interview last night.

"None of the principals in either the Republican or the Democratic party were involved. Neither was Tobin, (Daniel J. Tobin, Teamsters' Union president) and neither was Beck."

"If there was a fight, as the Naval officers have testified, let it be investigated as any other such affair would be in an orderly manner. Such individual affairs have no significance and nothing to do with the election."

"Sure, I was there (in the Statler lobby after the President's address Sept. 23)," he added. "So were 16 others from this building. None of us even knew there was a fight until we were back in Seattle and read it in the papers."

"By actual count there were 76 newspaper and radio reporters in the banquet room, men who supposedly have reached the peak of their profession. They walked out of the hall, through the mezzanine floor and through the lobby. It's the only way they could get out. Not a one of them saw the fight. It wasn't dug up until 10 days later."

"I don't say there wasn't one. But I didn't see it, my friends didn't see it and 76 of the best reporters in the country, all right on the spot, didn't see it. I bet it was some fight."

The two Naval officers involved testified they were manhandled by Teamsters' Union members immediately after the President's address when they refused to answer questions on how they would vote. The Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee has begun an investigation of the fight.

EARTHQUAKE NEAR TURKEY RECORDED IN LONDON AND U. S.

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP).—An earthquake was recorded today in the vicinity of the Black Sea, probably in Turkey, Seismologist J. J. Shaw said.

"The earthquake is very severe and it is continuing," he declared.

WESTON, Mass., Oct. 6 (AP).—The Weston College seismograph registered three earthquakes yesterday, two of them probably in the southwest Pacific, and the other in the vicinity of Turkey, readings showed today.

CONVICTED OF POSTAL FRAUD

James L. Wagner, a former convict, was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary, and Miss Caroline Mary Bell, 1612 South Twelfth street, to two years, after they pleaded guilty yesterday before United States District Judge Richard M. Duncan to a charge of altering postal money orders.

Post Office inspectors reported that in May and June they purchased approximately 25 money orders for $3 and $4 each, and altered their value to $13 and $14.

THE CAR IS 1-A BUT THE TIRES ARE 4-F

Be sure to get both Tire Saving and Car Saving Service

D-DAY IS HISTORY. And V-Day may well be, by the time you read these words!

But as a recent editorial in the September 9 issue of Collier's points out: "If we don't baby our cars and tires along as carefully as we can, the ominous fact is that we can run into a serious motor-transport breakdown on the home front."

The blunt words of the editorial echo what Phillips and its service station men have been saying month after month, beginning even prior to Pearl Harbor.

We quote it because some few motorists may have thought that our insistent emphasis on tire and car care was motivated by self-interest rather than by our patriotic sense of duty. So again we say, in our country's interest and in your own, be frugal with your dwindling stock of tire and car miles. Visit your Phillips 66 Service Station at least once a week for tire and car-saving services.

Phillips Tire Saving Service includes checking air pressures... inspecting for nail holes, cuts, and bruises... examination of the tire carcass to warn you when re-capping is necessary and still possible... crisscrossing with the spare every 3,000 miles.

Phillips Car Saving Service includes inspection of battery, air filter, and anti-freeze protection... regular lubrication of every friction point specified by the maker of your car.

With tires for A-card motorists not promised before mid-1945... with cars wearing out and disappearing from the road at the rate of more than 5,000 a day... you must Care for your car For your Country, to help prevent the threatened crisis in home-front transportation.

Drive in at any Orange and Black 66 Shield, the sign of famous Phillips 66 Gasoline and Phillips 66 Motor Oil, and you will get the patriotic cooperation and aid of the Phillips 66 Service Man in making your car and tires go farther and last longer.

JUDGE REQUESTS
THRIFTY INQUIRY INTO KICKBACKS

Orders Thorough Check for State but Reminds Jury It Spends Country's Money.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 6.—
A Cole County grand jury, convened here today for the major purpose of making an inquiry into reported kickbacks of salary by some of the employees of the Senate of the 1943 Legislature, to some of the Senators, was instructed by Circuit Judge Edward T. Eversole of Festus to make a thorough investigation, but to prosecute its inquiry with economy.

Judge Eversole appointed Em-met Bond, a farmer, as foreman of the jury which includes three farmers, one garage operator and eight business men. Seven of the jurors are Republicans and five are Democrats. Prosecuting Attorney Curtis Quimby of Cole County said he had not subpena any witnesses so far, pending a decision by the jurors on their schedule of meetings.

The grand jury, meeting briefly
after hearing the Judge's charge, selected Lon Cross, Jefferson City real estate dealer, as secretary and adjourned until Wednesday morning.

"I know you will do your best to prosecute your inquiry with economy, and to conserve the county's money," Judge Eversole said in his charge to the jury.
"What must be spent must, of course, be spent, but I know you will spend it judiciously, spend it as you would spend your own money in your own business."

Judge Eversole did not go into any details in submitting to the jury the duty of investigating the alleged salary kickbacks, which he said would require the jury's greatest labor. "I will leave those details for your discovery from the witnesses that are called before you," he said.

Judge Eversole is sitting as a special judge, in the absence of Judge Sam C. Blair, who is in military service.

Prosecuting Attorney Quimby, in his formal request for the jury last Monday, said he believed some members of the Senate of the 1943 session had violated Sec. 4226
of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, which prohibits public officers from making appointments, or preference for appointments, the subject of a contract. He did not name any Senator.

The Prosecuting Attorney began an investigation last month after Miss Ruth Riemenschneider of Jefferson City said she turned back $164 of her state salary as a Senate stenographer to State Senator George H. Miller of Sedalia.
Miss Riemenschneider was employed by Miller during part of the 1943 session. She said Miller said this money was to be used in paying a secretary in his Sedalia office, for senatorial work for Miller.

Miller, who is Republican nominee for Attorney General, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he received the $164, and said he understood the practice was common among Senators whose work required two stenographers.

The five-story Douglas Building, at the southeast corner of Broadway and Market street, will be condemned and offered for sale by the city, Deputy Comptroller Ray C. Schroeder announced yesterday. It was built shortly after the Civil War and was one of the first in the city to have an elevator.

The city acquired the property in 1941 for $9000 in satisfaction of a judgment against the former owners for failure to pay assessments in the Market street widening project. The condemnation order, requiring the purchaser to wreck the building, will be issued as soon as the occupants vacate, Schroeder said.

A barber shop, coffee store and the Salvation Army's USO occupy the ground floor, while the four upper floors are vacant. Bids on the property will be received up to 11 a. m., Oct. 23.

REPRISAL THREAT TO GERMANS WHO ACCEPT ALLIED GIFTS

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio, Copyright, 1944.

BERN, Oct. 6.—"German people do not accept presents from the hands of their assassins but, on the contrary, bitterly resent such offers," says the Cologne newspaper Kölnische Zeitung today apropos of the Nazis press's present preoccupation with the attitude of the civilian population of occupied sections of the country.

"Those who have lost all sense of honor and shame and who stretch out their hands to receive such gifts" will pay for their infamy once the Allies are thrown out of sacred German soil, warns the Zeitung, in severely condemning those who accept gifts of chocolate, biscuits and so forth from Allied troops.

2 FILLING STATION OPERATORS SUSPENDED ON RATION CHARGE

John J. Schwartz, operator of a filling station at 3428 North Ninth street, was suspended yesterday by the Office of Price Administration from dealing in gasoline for the duration of rationing. He was found guilty of obtaining 3180 gallons of gasoline with counterfeit ration coupons.

OPA Hearing Commissioner Donald Gunn said the number of counterfeit coupons involved in the case was the largest he had encountered in six months of hearings. Schwartz contended the counterfeit coupons were received at his station in the ordinary course of business. The OPA also charged that a shortage of 1185 gallons existed at the station last Aug. 29.

Anthony Bono, operator of a filling station at 4255 Natural Bridge avenue, was ordered suspended from gasoline business for the duration on his admission that he had purchased approximately 200 counterfeit coupons, but the suspension was reduced to 30 days on condition of future compliance with regulations.

Make them right at home. And here's a tip!
Cook with Crisco and these famous dishes will be exciting to eat—easy to digest!

It's true with all your cooking! Crisco does more than any other shortening. For Crisco has a special cooking secret. Time after time, it gives you lighter, more tender cakes. A sure way to get flaky, tender pie crust every time. And with Crisco, there's no need to worry about digestions. Even Crisco fried foods are so digestible children may eat 'em!

So begin using Crisco today! Make a flaky Crisco crust for that Pecan Pie. Fry that Schnitzel light and crisp in Crisco, and you'll know it's digestible. Any time a recipe calls for shortening—reach for pure, all-vegetable Crisco and be sure!

9 OUT OF 10 DOCTORS SAY:
"IT'S DIGESTIBLE!"

From Georgia—PECAN PIE

2 tbsps. flour • 1 cup sugar • 3 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup dark corn syrup • 1 cup chopped pecans • 1 tsp. vanilla
Single-crust recipe Crisco Pastry

Blend flour and sugar. Combine with well-beaten eggs. Add corn syrup, nuts and vanilla. Pour into shallow 9" pie plate lined with Crisco Pastry. (Follow the new sure-fire Pastry Method on the Crisco label—be sure to use Crisco

—and you'll get flaky, tender, di-gestible pie crust every time.) Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Decorate with pecan halves. All Measurements Level.

From Wisconsin—WIENER SCHNITZEL

Cut veal steak (1 1/2" thick) into individual pieces for serving. Dip in seasoned flour, then in beaten egg thickened with a little water and then diluted with a little water and then in fine bread crumbs. Fry on both sides in hot Crisco till golden brown. (Use Crisco for all your frying. Foods fried in Crisco are deliciously light and crisp—so di-gestible even children may eat them.) Cover; cook slowly about 30 min. or until tender. Drizzle with lemon juice and garnish with lemon slices and fried egg.

From Maryland—LORD BALTIMORE CAKE

1/2 cup Crisco • 1 cup sugar • 4 egg yolks
1 tsp. vanilla • 1/2 tsp. salt • 2 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/2 tbsps. baking powder • 1/2 cup milk

Cream Crisco, sugar, egg yolks, vanilla and salt. Crisco has a special cake secret. Time after time, Crisco gives you lighter cakes than those made with any other shortening. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Bake in 2 eight-inch "Criscoed" layer pans in moderate oven (350°F.) 35 minutes. When cool, spread fruit filling between layers. Ice with fluffy icing. Decorate with cherries.
FLUFFY WHITE ICING: Using 2 egg whites, make double boiler icing.
For fruit filling, add 1/4 cup chopped maraschino cherries, 1/4 cup pecans to one-third of the icing.

WHEAT TURNS WEAK IN DAYS CLOSING TRADE

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP).—Grain futures markets turned weak in the final hour of trading today and prices broke sharply. The trade throughout the day had been limited and a flurry of selling orders near the close caused the break.

All markets were fractionally lower at the start, then held steady in a dragging trade until near the close. The demand for all grains was down substantially from recent sessions.

The wheat market was without the support mill buying had provided earlier in the week. Purchases by a professional trader at mid-session apparently were to cover short hedges. A commission house with cash commitments took fair amounts and some local demand centered in the deferred months.

Until the late break rice had moved in a narrow range. Brokers said there was little inclination on the part of speculators to assume new risks with Washington news playing such a big part in determining market trends.

Short covering caused a rally in oats but prices later settled back with the other grains.

At the close wheat was 1/2¢ lower than yesterday's finish, December $1.65 1/2, corn was 1/4¢ lower, December $1.13 1/2, oats were off 1/4¢, December 63 1/2¢. Rice was down 1/4¢, December $1.05 1/2. Barley was off 1/4¢, December $1.05.

Traders said the failure of yesterday's markets to recover from near the bottom prices, reached soon after trading started, indicated maximum price support had about reached its effectiveness and that investment buyers were not interested, even on the decline.

Much of the bullish influence of Government support measures has been discounted by the advance of futures markets in the past two weeks.

NATION'S RETAIL SALES FOR WEEK 9 TO 13 PCT. OVER 1943

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—Cooler weather and a demand for Christmas gifts for service men and women overseas stimulated retail business last week bringing sales to 13 per cent above the same week in 1943.

"Fall merchandise is moving well and replacements are being received after a long waiting period in some instances," the business research firm said.

"In non-durable goods lines liquor, apparel and consumer reports good increases, among the durable goods group hardware, auto supplies and household appliance stores held the lead."

While household furnishings are holding even with sales last year, the report said furniture and floor covering departments have reported losses. Limited supplies have decreased sales in yard goods, linens, draperies and other household items.

Food sales were moderately above a year ago with non-rationalized foods in greater demand.

Regional percentage increases over 1943 were: New England, 5 to 8; East, 9 to 15; Middle West, 7 to 11; Northwest, 9 to 12; South, 13 to 17; Southwest, 10 to 14; and Pacific Coast, 8 to 13.

ST. LOUIS RETAIL TRADE

Prepared by Dun & Bradstreet.

Weekly tabulated sales review of St. Louis, prepared by Dun & Bradstreet.

Retail volume last week held to the relatively high level of recent periods and surpassed that of the corresponding week of last year by a modest margin. Fall apparel continued to move at a brisk pace. There was also a strong demand for gift items suitable for sending to overseas servicemen as the deadline for overseas shipments was approaching.

Department store sales were about on a par with those of the preceding week and were moderately higher than the 1943 comparative.

Wholesale volume was slightly above that of the week before and was an estimated 5 per cent to 8 per cent ahead of last year.

In the textile market the demand for fall merchandise began tapering off as the end of the season approached for wholesalers of these goods.

The output in the industrial division continued at a high level, production figures exceeding those of this time last year.

In virtually all lines collections continued to be reported good.

More on Weekly Treasury Bills.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Treasury today increased its weekly offer of 90-day Treasury bills by 100 million dollars in order to obtain that much additional new money each week for the general fund of the Treasury.

Tenders were invited for $1,300,000,000 of the 90-day bills. Since last May 11, tenders have been invited each week for $1,200,000,000. Before that the amount was one billion dollars weekly.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION RISES $223,000,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Money in circulation increased $223,000,000 during the week ending Oct. 4, the Federal Reserve Board announced today. The total now is $23,800,000,000, an increase of $4,998,000,000 over year ago.

Gold stocks were down $1,000,000 on week and $1,352,000,000 below last year.

There was an increase of $156,000,000 in reserve bank credit, and decrease of $136,000,000 in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve Bank.

Excess reserves of member banks on Oct. 4 were estimated to be approximately $800,000,000.

There was an increase of $159,000,000 in holdings of United States Government securities. Bills increased $137,000,000 and certificates $22,000,000.

COTTON MARKET CLOSING 10 TO 35¢ A BALE LOWER

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—The cotton market closed slightly lower on hedge selling and substantial sales of spot cotton in primary markets along with scattered liquidation.

Offerings were absorbed through price rising and covering.

Late afternoon prices were unchanged to 35 cents a bale lower, Oct. 21.93, Dec. 21.93, March 21.96.

Futures closed 10 to 35 cents a bale lower.

GETS THIRD HOSPITAL AWARD
 The St. Louis Hospital Council yesterday received for the third successive time the annual award of the American Hospital Association for the best year-round public education program for hospitals. The award was presented to Miss Irene F. McCabe, secretary of the council, at the association's meeting in Cleveland.

With the co-operation of the Blue Cross, the council concentrated on the recruitment of volunteer workers for hospitals, Red Cross Nurses' Aids and members of the United States Cadet Nurse Corps.

We hope it won't be long

Blackie:
 "I'm impatient, Whitey, but it's worth while waiting for."

Whitey:
 "You got that line from the friends of BLACK & WHITE, Blackie!"

You said it, Whitey—and you can't blame people for being a little impatient when they can't get BLACK & WHITE occasionally. It's hard for them to get used to any other Scotch. That's why folks everywhere are so eagerly looking forward to the day when there will be enough BLACK & WHITE to go around. We hope it won't be long.

UNION AGAIN TO TRY TO END M'QUAY-NORRIS PLANT STRIKE
Officers of CIO United Automobile Workers of America, Local 231, intend again to appeal to the 114 strikers to end the McQuay-Norris plant strike, 2320 Marconi street, to return to work and allow their dispute to go through the established grievance procedure.
Meanwhile, production at the plant remained curtailed, the men continued the walkout begun last Monday over the company's failure to meet their demand for an increase in piecework rates. Continuation of the strike, a company spokesman said, would ultimately necessitate closing down the plant which employs at present about 1400.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP).—The names of President Roosevelt and Senator Harry S. Truman will appear on New York's ballot this fall as candidates of the American Labor and Liberal parties.
Efforts to bar the names of the Democratic presidential and vice-presidential choices as nominees of the Labor party and the Liberal party ended yesterday when the Court of Appeals refused to permit an appeal from lower court rulings.
The President polled 47,418 A. L. P. votes in the State in 1940, when he defeated Wendell L. Willkie by 225,000 votes. The Liberal party was created as a right-wing offshoot when a split developed in the ranks of the A. L. P. last spring.

New German Jet Fighter Plane Encountered Over Siegfried Line

One of 10 Sighted Is Forced Into Dive and Crashes — Craft Speedy but United States Planes Can Outmaneuver Them.

UNITED STATES NINTH AIR FORCE ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 4 (Delayed) (AP).—The new German fighter which the Berlin radio has boasted was going into action on the Western front apparently is the jet-propelled Messerschmitt 262, Ninth Air Force pilots said today.

Allied heavy bombers and their fighter escorts have encountered these swift, twin-engined jet planes for weeks over targets deep inside Germany, but their first appearance over the Siegfried line was on Monday, when Thunderbolt pilots saw four of them in the Munster area. Six more were sighted yesterday near Coblenz.

One of the 10 was destroyed when a Thunderbolt pilot forced it into a steep dive from which it never recovered.

Pilots say the jet fighters do not fly in formation, and most of them show no eagerness for combat. They are capable of great speeds, but need a wide area for turns and American Mustangs and Thunderbolts can outmaneuver them.

Nazi Plane Production Apparently Centered on Jet Craft. LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP).—Opportunities for exhaustive tests under combat conditions may well prepare the revolutionary jet-propelled plane for an immediate place in peacetime aviation, in the opinion of many air experts.

CE. 0707 Dependable OPTICAL SERVICE Alo's 707 OLIVE ST.

British jet planes already have been in action against the German flying bombs and have proved highly effective. The Germans use the jet principle in robot bombs and in some types of fighters now in combat service.

In the last five months pilots have observed no outward changes in the German standard models—the Messerschmitt 109 and Focke-

Wulf 190—indicating that the Nazis have concentrated on producing the fast jet planes for the final showdown aerial battles.

The German craft so far have not been too successful against Allied bomber formations and fighters, but the London Times warns that their "lack of success is due almost entirely to the German pilots' lack of experience in handling an aircraft which can travel at almost the speed of sound."

The first jet propulsion engine produced in Britain was in 1937. America has been experimenting with jet planes for at least a year and now is reported ready for mass production.

Allied fighter and bomber pilots tell of encountering two types of German jet planes in increasing numbers.

There is a single-engined type described as almost all wing and resembling a huge bat. There also is a twin-engined fighter bomber reported being used to attack ground forces. It carries two 500-pound bombs. Both types have estimated level speeds of between 500 and 600 miles an hour, but are best noted for their amazing rate of climb.

Pilots say the Nazi versions lack maneuverability and because of high fuel consumption can remain in flight only an hour or two.

BROWNS 4, CARDS 2, AFTER 6 1-2 INNINGS

TENSE GAME BRINGS FANS TO THEIR FEET

By John R. Bell
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Oct. 6.—A perspiring crowd of St. Louis fans, who removed coats, hats and, in some instances shirts, for comfort in the hot sun, raised their voices in ear-splitting cheers this afternoon as the city's two championship teams battled for top place in the baseball world.

A white glare reflected from the shirts of bleacher occupants, and many of the estimated 35,000 fans in the park fanned themselves with their programs when they were not applauding or using the programs for megaphones.

Sprinkled sparsely through the white-shirted crowd were women in red dresses, or red coats, obviously Cardinals fans. But judging from the volume of cheering when Brown players made spectacular plays, most fans favored baseball's Alger boys to win.

In the third inning, when the Browns got four runs, the spectators rose in their seats and shouted for fully two minutes. From that moment on the crowd was never still. Always there was a chatter of voices urging the Brown batters to "Knock it over the bleachers," or "Kill that ball, you Brownie."

Today, as yesterday, fans groaned when either team made an error. They whistled and cheered even when a foul ball was knocked on to the screen in back of home plate. As the ball rolled down the screen, one grandstand spectator made a noise of increasing intensity like an electric motor starting. He got a big hand.

A steady stream of fans started arriving for the game, the third in the World Series, about 1 o'clock and when the Browns came onto the field for batting and fielding practice they were met with a mixture of cheers and boos. Coach James Wren (Zack) Taylor, first Brownie stood on the field, changed the booing to cheers by standing in midfield and urging them to greater efforts, going through the motions of a high school cheer leader.

Tom Turner, catcher, solidified the attitude of the fans by knocking several fly balls into the bleacher section.

Brown players today wore white uniforms, trimmed in brown and orange, indicating they are the "home" team, the Cardinals having been the "home" team for the first two games.

NELSON POTTER, Brownie pitcher, goes after MAX LANIER'S bunt in the third inning, with Emil Verban on base as the result of a single. Potter fumbled the bunt, permitting Lanier to reach first, while Verban went to third on Potter's wild throw to McQuinn. Two errors were charged on the play in the second game, yesterday, won by the Cards.

WILKS BATTED OUT AS SEWELL'S MEN BUNCH FIVE HITS IN THIRD

By J. Roy Stockton
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Oct. 6.—Five straight singles and a wild pitch gave the Browns four runs and knocked Freshman Ted Wilks out of the box this afternoon as Luke Sewell's American League champions took the lead over the Redbirds of Billy Southworth, National League pennant winners, in the third game of the World Series.

Another capacity crowd of approximately 35,000 persons attended.

A two-base error by Vernon Stephens in the first inning helped the Cardinals to an unearned run and Wilks held a 1-0 lead over Jack Kramer until the third frame. Then with two out Gene Moore, Stephens, George McQuinn, Al Zarilla and Mark Christman knocked Wilks out of the box. With runners on second and third Fred Schmidt relieved Wilks and after an intentional pass to Hayworth, filling the bases, Schmidt wild-pitched the fourth run of the frame over the plate.

The umpires were: Tom Dunn, National League, behind the plate; George Pipgras, American, at first base; Ziggy Sears, National, at second and Bill McGowan, American, at third base.

Series Sidelights

By W. J. McGoogan
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Oct. 6.—Al La Macchia, righthanded pitcher, a Brownie recruit from Toledo and not eligible for the series, pitched in batting practice for the Browns today and had the first hit in the index finger of his right hand knocked off by a drive.

Leonard Schulte, an infielder, another Toledo rookie, has been helping out in the hitting drills, too.

Senator Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, attended the contest again today in company with Phil Donnelly, Democratic candidate for Governor. He's no relation to Blix, but probably would like to have his curve.

Tomorrow, the fourth game of the series, ends the players' share in the gate receipts. They get nothing from any games after that.

Art Peters, former bathory for both the Browns and the Cardinals, was wounded in action in France Sept. 19, but not seriously, a telegram to his wife stated.

Players of both sides were complaining about the difficulty of seeing pitched balls because of the white shirts in the center field bleachers, giving a bad hit.

Kurovski on a topped roller in front of the plate and then Moore ran to the pavilion wall in right-center for an excellent catch of a single.

Pitching prevailed too, in the Brownie fourth as Gutteridge grounded to Kurovski, Marion threw out Kreevich and Moore flied to Musial.

Kramer continued in brilliant form through the fifth, adding his fifth and sixth strikeouts to his string. Verban popped to Sanders. Schmidt took a called third strike and Littwhiler struck out, felled on a change of pace for the third strike.

Another Safety by McQuinn. After Stephens grounded to Kurovski to open the Brownie fifth, McQuinn singled to left for his second straight hit and his fourth of the series. This merely set the stage for Marty Marion and a double play, however. The long-legged shortstop took Zarilla's grounder, reached out and stepped on second and fired the ball to Sanders to double Zarilla.

Kramer fanned Hopp, first up in the sixth, for his seventh strikeout victim and Musial popped to Christman. Walker Cooper hit Donner and Blitzen—And Here's Blix.

THEY drop out of the clouds, these world series heroes. . . . After the second all-St. Louis championship game the name on every one of the more than 35,000 spectators' tongues at Sportsman's Park yesterday was that of Blix Donnelly.

"Blix" is just his daddy's nickname—his real given moniker is Sylvester. . . . And there have been times in the history of baseball when that first name would have caused a laugh—or perhaps a fight. . . . Rowdy fans would put it in the "Little Lord Fauntleroy" group.

But, somehow or other, his dad seemed to have an inkling that Blix was just that—chain lightning.

At any rate when the No. 2 unlucky world series pitcher, that's the fine hurler Max Lanier, was taken out . . . the game after seven innings yesterday, in came Sylvester—pardon, the name is Blix. . . . Result, two

Swedish Mile Stars and Hurdler Invited To U. S. by A. A. U.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Swedish Amateur Sports Association today received an invitation from Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the National A. A. U., asking Milers Gunder Haegg and Arne Andersson and Hurdler Hakan Lidman to compete in the United States during the coming indoor track season.

Charles Jansson of the Swedish Sports group, said the immediate reaction was negative.

(Last month the three athletes accepted a bid from the United States Treasury Department to compete outdoors in a series of races in connection with the coming Sixth United States War Loan drive. That tour probably will be dropped because of the inability to obtain sites and adequate rivals for the Swedes.)

Andersson said today he didn't care to go to the United States for the indoor races unless he could compete out-of-doors first.

Not desiring to take any credit from Donnelly, it may be mentioned.

Donnelly's Great Relief Pitching Feature of Cards' 11-Inning Victory

Tie Broken On O'Dea's Pinch Hit

There were plenty of thrills for the 35,076 fans in the second game of the world series yesterday as the National League Cardinals defeated the American League Browns in 11, exciting innings, 3 to 2.

In striking contrast to the drably efficient opening contest, the second game was a performance of surpassing brilliance and the partisan fans could sing of many heroes.

There was Ken O'Dea, the gray-thatched catcher of the Cardinals, who stepped from the dugout shadows in which he has lingered through much of his career, to hit a pinch single in the eleventh inning that drove in the winning run. It was O'Dea's sixth safety in 12 times at bat in five world series and no other player in the game ever has surpassed that record.

Then There Is Donnelly.

Or if you prefer pitchers for heroes, you can chant of the heroic deeds of one Sylvester (Blix) Donnelly. Blix, who adorned the bullpen through most of the afternoons and evenings as the Cardinals were gaining their championship, gave one of the most brilliant exhibitions of the left pitching ever seen on a diamond. Going to the hill in the eighth inning, with a Brownie on second base and nobody out, Blix struck out Chet Laabs, Vernon Stephens and Mark Christman, three of the better Brownie hitters. And that wasn't all. He struck out six of the first nine men he faced, seven in his four innings on the hill. Making his second appearance in two days, he was credited with the Redbird triumph that squared the series.

There was brilliant fielding too, with Vernon Stephens of the Browns and Martin Marion of the Redbirds proving to everybody's satisfaction that in addition to the two top teams of the season, St. Louis can boast of the best shortstops in the business.

Luke Sewell's two young catchers, Red Hayworth and Frank Mancuso, also distinguished themselves and their timely hits in the seventh inning, each driving in a run as the American Leaguers came from behind and tied the score at 2-all, stood out in a thrill-packed afternoon.

Mixed in with the brilliant fielding, there were lapses in the defense. There were four Brownie errors and three of them were costly, giving the Cardinals two runs that enabled them to carry the contest into extra innings.

Max Lanier for the Cardinals and Nelson Potter for the Browns were the starting pitchers, but neither was on the job when the issue finally was decided. But they were brilliant, too. Potter, barring the break in the American League defense, might easily have gone on to a shutout triumph in nine innings. Lanier, until the three-hit Brownie attack tied up the game in the seventh, gave a masterful performance, the only safety off his delivery in six frames being a safe bunt by Gene Moore.

Potter made two of the misplays that robbed him of his chance to add a world series triumph to the 19 decisions he gained for the Browns in their pennant race. Emil Verban, Cardinal second baseman, opened the third inning with a single to left and Lanier put down a sacrifice bunt. The bunt was a tantalizing little pop fly that fell between the plate and pitcher's mound and Hayworth rushed over and Christian moved over to give help if needed.

Potter, however, fumbled the ball, a spinning thing, and fumbled as he tried to pick it up. This enabled Lanier, a speedster like the other Redbirds, to reach first base safely. However Potter made a desperate effort to throw him out and when the toss was wide, Verban, moving to second on the sacrifice bunt, continued to third on the wild throw. Thus Potter was charged with two errors, one because his fumble enabled Lanier to reach first and one because Verban took an extra base.

Capitalize on Breaks.

The break quickly led to a Cardinal run as Verban was racing home while Gutteridge was throwing out Augie Bergamo on his grounder.

In the fourth inning, with one out, Sanders drew a pass and Kurowski singled him to second. Marion hit a sharp grounder toward third and Christman, in position for a stop, had a double play in his hands. The ball caromed off his glove, however, and the error filled the bases. Verban followed with a fly to Chet Laabs and Sanders scored before Chet could get the ball to the plate.

As Lanier handcuffed the Brownies in the fifth, it seemed that the two runs, both unearned, would be sufficient. And he started brilliantly in the inning that saw the game tied up. George McQuinn, the home-run hero of the opening game, struck out rather feebly to open the frame and Christman sent up a pop foul to Walker Cooper. And then the Browns went into action. Gene Moore lined a single to center and raced home on Red Hayworth's double, a drive that hit the bleacher wall in left center.

Potter had pitched efficiently, but the Browns needed a run and Manager Sewell sent in Frank Mancuso to bat for the pitcher. Frank quickly lined a single to center and Hayworth scored the tying run.

Lanier retired Gutteridge on an infield grounder to end that inning and after the game Southworth insisted that Lanier was not weakening and had not lost tioned however that, in the past, there have been momentary heroes in world series contests who haven't stood up subsequently.

One of these was an infidel for the 1907 Chicago White Sox who were, like the Browns of today, known as the "hitless wonders." . . . The name was Rohe. . . . He was known to fame for just that amazing world championship series when the despised Chicago White Sox, under Fielder Jones, beat the Cubs under the "Peerless Leader," Frank Chance.

Rohe's contribution to fame was a series of doubles which just about put the White Sox over the top. . . . But instead of figuring in a high place on the Fielder Jones' team the following year, the hero of the 1906 world series was sent back to New Orleans. . . . And from there Rohe went exactly nowhere.

He had had his day—and it wasn't long. . . . Now we're not trying to say that Blix Donnelly is another Rohe. . . . That Blix boy can really curve 'em. . . . His name probably will be written in capitals on the Cardinals' roster of the future. . . . After his fine display of yesterday it deserves to be.

But the longer one hangs around in this sport world the less inclined he is to become overbalanced on anybody's single effort. . . . It's the long haul that counts.

Back Where They Began.

FANS—and you might amplify this by saying "bet-minded fans"—shift their views surprisingly. . . . Single world series results change the complexion of world series speculation, early in its progress.

Wagering on the series opened with the Cards red-hot shots. . . . If you wanted to win on the Cards you had to put up 10 bucks to win five. . . . That's a bad bet under any circumstance in baseball. . . . Two to one winners are rare.

All right. . . . The Browns won a game—they thereby became even-money choices! . . . Yet it was just the same Browns team it was in the beginning—neither stronger nor weaker. . . . You wonder what happened to change the bet-minded population.

Of course, everyone knows that bets on anything, from politics to sports, are not made on facts but on the prevailing prejudice. . . . Way back there when they had a Pimlico Special horse race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit, the Man O'War colt was an overnight favorite at 1 to 2. . . . But Seabiscuit just romped home an easy winner.

So, on the morning of this third world series game, we found that the sentiment, as reflected in betting, had again swung very strongly toward the Cardinals, notwithstanding each team had one victory to its credit and the Redbirds had to win their victory in a harder way than did the Browns.

This writer has been around a long time. . . . Seen all kinds of betting. . . . Tackled everything from a dice game to a cock fight. . . . Made a lot of bad bets—some good ones. . . . But if pitching is going to decide this series, on the morning of the third game it surely appeared like a toss-up.

Southworth Plays Hunch.

"I sent word down there for Donnelly to get ready," Blix explained. "Yes, I know he worked the day before, but I had a hunch he was the right man for the relief job."

Southworth was never more right in his life. Donnelly certainly was the man. The keen-eyed young Irishman took his five warm-up pitches, jerked his belt a notch tighter, jerked his cap a little tighter on his head, jerked his hips and his elbows and then went to work. Laabs struck out as though trying to swat butterflies with a pipe cleaner. Stephens, also striking out, was a child in Donnelly's hands. Blix then walked McQuinn and ended the dramatic inning by striking out Christman to the tune of a mighty roar from the stands.

That was a great pitching feat, and through his four innings on the hill Blix continued with an effectiveness that baffled the Browns.

Sanders, leading Cardinal at driving in runs during the season, singled to start the eleventh inning and the winning rally. The game then quickly moved to its finish. Kurowski sacrificed Sanders to second, Marion was passed intentionally and then O'Dea hit his game-winning single to right, sending Sanders over the plate.

Litzsinger and Bergsc Quit Tiger Squad

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 6 (AP).—Coach Chauncey Simpson named a 33-man University of Missouri football squad to go to Manhattan, Kan., where the Tigers tackle Kansas State tomorrow. Then he shaved the list to 32 when he found that Pete Radison, substitute guard, was in the hospital with a back injury which banned him from football this week end. Also left behind will be Dick

Crack, another guard, who still nurses an ankle injury. Booked for the trip, but with the amount of time they will spend in actual play quite uncertain, are Ed Mickelson and Gene Janson, end and tackle, respectively, who have been on the sidelines all week with injuries received in last week's Ohio State game.

The Tiger mentor disclosed that Bill Bergsc, end who transferred from Tennessee a month ago, and Bill Litzsinger, freshman fullback, have turned in their uniforms and withdrawn from the university.

POST-WAR STYLES at Richman Brothers—now

Looking ahead—planning ahead—working ahead is an old Richman custom. For example, all style authorities agree that after the war there will be a greater vogue for color and pattern than ever before.

Instead of waiting till war's end, however, to produce post-war styles, we got busy a long time ago, and, with the help of the leading woolen mills in the country, we proudly announce that tomorrow's styles are here today—in a variety that will take your breath away.

We take our hats off to the woolen weavers who are helping us to keep you, not up to date in fashion, but actually a jump ahead. As for us, all we ask is that you stop in and see what we've accomplished. We await your judgment with confidence.

P. S.—As clothes makers, we give you faster style service as well as better values.

Bert E. Fenenga, the South Dakota wizard, will introduce his twenty-fifth Cleveland High School football team to league fans tonight when the Carondelet eleven opposes Roosevelt at the Public Schools Stadium at 7:45 o'clock.

Fenenga holds a record of being one of the few coaches in the Middle West, if not in the nation, who has served continuously at one institution for a quarter of a century. Although this is a silver anniversary for him, Roosevelt may spoil it because the Rough Riders have an experienced team.

Four contests on the East Side tonight will start the annual Southwestern Conference struggle on its way. East St. Louis, the defending champion, will oppose Madison at Venice, while other games are Belleville at Granite City, Wood River at Collinsville and Edwardsville at Alton. St. Louis County teams will figure in the other quartet of games tonight with Kirkwood at Normandy, South Side Catholic at Ritenour, Wellston at St. Charles and Webster Groves at C. B. C.

The opening round of games in the Public High School League will be completed tomorrow night with the Soldan-Central engagement at the Stadium. In other night contests, St. Louis U. High will oppose Western Military Academy at Walsh Stadium and Dupo will invade Marquette. Tomorrow afternoon, University City will be host to Maplewood, Country Day will entertain Milwaukee's Country Day School, Principia Academy will meet Venice at Taylor Field, Clayton will be at home to Chaminade and the two St. Louis Negro schools, Sumner and Vashon, will participate in a doubleheader at the Stadium, meeting Indianapolis and Cairo, respectively.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP).—Dick Walterhouse, alternate right halfback, returned to the Army football squad after a

joined the club yesterday as an assistant coach. Cuff, a recent medical dischargee from the Army, said he might play later in the season providing he could work himself into condition. He was the National

tr Catholic's "B" football team defeated McBride, 6 to 0. Jack Bresnahan picked up the ball and returned it 20 yards to McBride's 10-yard line, from where Bresnahan scored on a line plunge, the first play of the fourth quarter.

Balanced Blending is the reason why the new, modern Rameses gives you a more pleasant mildness and a better taste. Stephano Brothers drew upon 50 years of experience in making fine cigarettes to develop the exclusive new Rameses Balanced Blend. Certain exact proportions of the world's most popular cigarette tobaccos are skillfully combined to get the Rameses blend—so expertly balanced in flavor and mildness that all the finer smoking qualities of each type of tobacco are brought to their peak. One pack of the new Rameses will convince you how right it is to say—Be At Ease With Rameses.

Target For Gags

Dorsey Is Gaining Fame---As a Fighter

By Earl Wilson

NEW YORK.

TOMMY DORSEY, who's enormously popular around Broadway, being considered a wonderful man in some sectors, and just a man in others, is becoming—alas!—a target for all the nightclub jokes. He has my sympathy in that Hollywood mess. He's now gag material, along with Errol Flynn and Charlie Chaplin.

TOMMY DORSEY

Down at the Greenwich Village Inn, Frankie Hyers does a Dorsey impersonation. He blows a few notes on a battered trombone, then slams it to the floor, and begins swinging wildly at an imaginary opponent.

And Joe E. Lewis at the Copacabana, I'm told, first pulled the line, "I don't have to do this for a living. I've got the iodine concession at Tommy Dorsey's house." The line was suggested to Joe by Henny Youngman, and the other day at the Bantams, Lewis used it. A few minutes later Youngman came on and not knowing what Lewis had said, cracked the same line. The laughter was so terrific Youngman didn't understand it. Lewis tells me that it's a switch, as nearly every gag is.

"You remember a few years ago when they had all those fights at El Morocco?" asked Joe. "I used to say, 'I don't have to do this for a living; John Perona gave me the iodine concession at El Morocco.' That's the way they are born."

FAT HENNING, WHO says he can do 76 things well, including throwing knives at his wife, flying his own plane, diving 100 feet, swimming with sharks, doing all dances and playing nearly all musical instruments, is at the Paramount, and I just talked to the amazing fellow. He was born backstage in a theater and his father, a vaudeville star, put him into show business at three and ordered him to learn to do every act he saw. As a boy, he was too young to perform, but his father told the suspicious Gerry Society officials he wasn't young—he was just a midget. And to convince them he was a midget, his father taught him, when he was only about four to smoke cigars. When an official came snooping around the child, Pat would light up a cigar and send him away convinced he was one of the little people.

IT'S GENE KRUPA'S contention that Jacobowsky and the Colonel is doing so well now that next year it will be called "Jacobowsky and the Brigadier General." . . . Get Ready, New York! Lupe Velez should finally arrive in New York. She was scheduled to bust in several days ago but there was such mystery about it that Bernard Simon, publicist for Dave Wolper's new show, in which she'll star, phoned Hollywood. He learned she'd been delayed two days. "Why?" he asked. "You see," her agent's office said, "while she was rushing to make the train—well, you see, Lupe didn't get on the train, because she was arrested for speeding."

HE-MAN DANA ANDREWS, the rugged, good-looking, all-male picture actor, was a mite surprised in the Monte Carlo when he read that item in the World-Telegram's "Hollywood News Box" Thursday. Because it said: "Dana Andrews gets the feminine lead in 'The Fallen Angel,' 20th Century-Fox production." Fred Allen's description of Monty (The Beard) Woolley stands out in these days of the importance of the mustache and other masculine facial ornament. Fred says: "Monty looks like he swallowed a St. Bernard dog and left his tail hanging out." . . . The Diamond Brothers, rehearsing for a USO tour of "Panama Hattie," use this Mr. Anthony gag:

"When I went home my wife had on a mink coat that I had not bought her. Now, did she do wrong?"

"Well, she didn't do bad!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL: The Duchess de Talleyrand, one of the richest of women, who has residences in Tarrytown and the Plaza, has received a cable announcing the death of her son, a flyer, who was fighting with the Free French. . . . Yank, incidentally, has named the GIs who captured Brest "the Brassiere Boys" and even used it in a headline. . . . In the swank Barbary Room, Jim Moriarty dazzled his guests by smoking his favorite cigarette of 25 years ago—Sweet Caporals. . . . Zorita, the snake dancer, has opened Barbeque Heaven on Fifty-second street with the slogan, "You've seen my ribs for years. Now come in and taste them." . . . Ex-stripper Margie Hart, who as a chantootsie now gives a wonderful performance, begins her first nightclub engagement at the Boston Rio Cabana Oct. 8. . . . Eddie (Nuts) Kaplan at the 51 Club said of one joke he told there, "Boy, that's a double feature. It stinks twice."

YOU MAY SEE Ray Milland skulking around New York streets acting drunk, for he's here to do some scenes of "Lost Weekend" right in our midst. . . . Milland, Zorina, Carole Landis, George Jessel, and Dorothy Lamour and her husband, Maj. Bill Howard, were all at El Morocco. . . . Jessel told me he's going to campaign for the President "Which one?" I said, "Wilson?" . . . He's embarking on a speaking tour on behalf of FDR.

At Baseball Battle of St. Louis

Peaked paper caps were popular among bleacherites waiting in the bright sunshine for the start of today's game of the all-St. Louis series at Sportsman's Park. These fans turn to cards, a standard diversion, during the waiting period.

Jack Kramer, starting pitcher for the Browns in their third contest with the Cardinals, poses for a movie camera before the game.

These youngsters were not among the 35,076 paid spectators at yesterday's game, but they got a satisfying view of the action through a crack under the bleachers.

Lt. John P. Scherer, a bombardier, who is home on furlough after being released from a Romanian prisoner of war camp, enjoying the series with Miss Charlotte Garner. Lt. Scherer is the son of the Rev. Dr. Harry T. Scherer, pastor of the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Scherer.

Sgt. John Derr of Greensboro, N. C., on assignment from India to cover the series for the Army newspaper, C. B. I. Roundup, interviewing Manager Billy Southworth of the Cardinals.

After 11 innings of thrilling baseball yesterday, in which the Cardinals defeated the Browns, 3 to 2, fans swarm out of Sportsman's Park, bound for homes and hotels. The view is to the south on Grand boulevard, at the Dodier street intersection.

BARRACKS BRIDGE INSPECTION Members of the St. Louis County Court and officers and members of the executive board of the Jefferson Barracks Bridge Association standing on the Missouri approach of the Mississippi River span during an inspection and meeting to plan for dedication of the structure, proposed for early December. Concreting of the 2.56-mile Illinois approach is expected to be completed by Dec. 1.

Shelling Brewsters to Find Nuts

BROOKLYN, which is across the river from "the United States proper," according to the picture's preface, is the scene of "ARSENIC AND OLD LACE," now at the AM-BASSADOR.

In Brooklyn, in a beautiful old house next to a beautiful old cemetery, lived the highly-respected Brewster family, the first American member of which had the double distinction of having come over on the Mayflower and of having surprised the Indians by scalping them instead of vice versa. And, as those of you will recall who saw the stage play by the same name from which the movie was made, the Brewsters from that day on were all supposed to be mad as well as respectable. Were they though, the Brewsters often wondered? And, for that matter, isn't each of us in his own way, if you want to beat your brains awhile, when you come right down to it?

Just because the two Brewster Aunts, Jean Adair and Josephine Hull, had a habit of feeding their life-long old gentlemen boarders soothing potions of elderberry wine all the better to forget their troubles with ("You put in just a spot of strychnine and just a wee touch of arsenic," not too much and certainly not too little), did that prove them mad? And just because one of their nephews, Raymond Massey, had a habit of torturing and killing people who said he looked like Boris Karloff of the movies, was that proof he was more demented than the rest of us? After all, he DID look like Boris Karloff, and people WERE always hurting his feelings by pointing out the resemblance. And just because he had a homicidal temper ("As a child he used to cut worms in two with his teeth"), why penalize him for it?

Grant Saved by a Sea Cook

Then there was Nephew John Alexander. John dressed and acted like President Theodore Roosevelt. Often he charged up the staircase believing it to be San Juan Hill. Once upon a time his Aunts, "for the change," had asked him if he wanted to be President George Washington for a spell. Confused and frightened at the unknown, John had crept under the bed and refused to come out for a week.

And, of course, there was also Nephew Cary Grant, who couldn't be styled mad either, could he, simply because he made his living as a dramatic critic, and, quaintly enough, didn't believe everything he saw on the stage?

The denouement, when Grant finds out he's not a Brewster at all, but an illegitimate child the Brewsters took in when the infant's parents skipped, is hilarious. Only in a single line of dialogue in this denouement does the picture fall below the punchiness of the play. The line, in the play, uttered by the dramatic critic when he makes the momentous discovery about his true parentage is, "Hurray, I'm not a Brewster, I'm a — in the movie he contents himself by putting in "Son of a sea cook" for the word that goes in the dash.

"Arsenic and Old Lace," to sum up, remains a spectacularly funny comedy. Besides fine performances by all persons named so far, Peter Lorre does a fat job as a plastic surgeon with criminal tendencies who is appalled by the habits of the Brewsters. Priscilla Lane plays Cary's wife. Jack Carson does a play-writing cop.

How Miss Lamour Got Into Movies

"RAINBOW ISLAND," at the FOX, is, to begin with, several pegs above the average musical comedy by virtue of (1) superior Technicolor, (2) a story that, while slight, has continuity and editorial skill in the cutting of sequences just when the audience is through with said sequences, (3) a group of unusually talented male actors in Eddie Bracken, Gil Lamb, and Barry Sullivan, (4) an exceptionally good-looking line of girls who are presented in dance and song sequences that are elaborate as you can get without being gaudy, and (5) Dorothy Lamour in a role that gives her a minimum of singing and acting and a maximum of just standing and looking at you.

The picture, in addition to these, has a last-line punch that lifts the roof off with its unexpectedness and, with it, lifts the picture from the status of a musical with a good story to the status of a musical with a good last line.

The three men named play the parts of American merchant seamen marooned on a South Pacific island. A Jap plane comes down, the three Americans beat up the Japs, tie them to trees, and take off in the plane. But their efforts to land on one of our aircraft carriers fails because the plane carries the Jap flag and the carrier scares it off with anti-aircraft fire. Eventually, with their gas tank empty, the three crash drive on "Rainbow Island," a Technicolor dream with rough warriors and fair (but dark) maidens that never was on sea or land.

Just as our three heroes are about to be executed, the natives discover that Bracken is the image of their god, Momo. They bow down and worship, and all is fine except that, since a god doesn't eat or make love, Bracken goes doubly hungry while his friends feast and pitch tropical woo.

The picture opens with Bracken telling a number of fellow-seamen on board about his and his friends' adventures on "Rainbow Island." It would be highly unfair to you for me to tell you what the punch line at the end is or how the story becomes a tall story in one line. But this much may be told—that the picture gives the dippest dope yet on how Miss Lamour got into the movies.

The Casbah, Werewolves, Monsters, C. etc.

"PEPE LE MOKO," starting tomorrow at the ART THEATRE, starring Jean Gabin as Pepe, is the French version of our own "Algiers," which starred Charles Boyer in the title role. It was made before "Algiers." The two pictures were contrived from an identical plot model, and there is little to choose between them on that score for life in "the Casbah."

For acting and realism, many have preferred the French to the American version. Whichever you may choose, there can be no doubt that "Pepe Le Moko," comparisons aside, is a brilliant film, very much worth seeing for its own sake. Julien Duvivier directed, and a beautiful and expressive French girl as Gaby, whom Pepe loved, does no violence to the Gaby you remember of the Hedy Lamour version.

Two thrillers share the billing at the ORPHEUM this week, "CRY OF THE WEREWOLF," with Stephen Crane and Osa Massen, and "SOUL OF A MONSTER," with Rose Hobart, Erik Rolf, and Jeanne Bates. Both are worth seeing for thrills, particularly the first, which is definitely terrifying on several occasions and is better than most films in this category in building plausible suspense.

The ST. LOUIS is showing "THE LAST RIDE," a story of the racketeers, with Richard Travis and Eleanor Parker.

Seconds at the other houses include "MUSICAL MOVIE-LAND," at the AMBASSADOR, a vaudeville-style tour of Warner Bros. studios in Technicolor; "DARK MOUNTAIN," with Ellen Drew, at the FOX; and "DANGEROUS JOURNEY," a worthwhile feature-length travelogue, at the ST. LOUIS.

Digestion Is Affected by Personality ON BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

"REMEMBER that there is a patient who has the disease as well as a disease which has the patient. It is just as important to treat one as the other." In no department of medical practice is this standard bit of medical wisdom more constantly applicable than in the management of the patient with ulcer of the stomach or ulcer of the duodenum.

A chronic dyspepsia may originate from functional or organic causes. The functional cases are those in which it is impossible to demonstrate any actual disease of the tissues of the stomach or the rest of the digestive system. They are often called nervous dyspepsia, but a better name may be character dyspepsia. "My disposition depends on you and my indigestion depends on my disposition" is the theme song of the reflex dyspeptic.

ULCERS AND GALLSTONES are far and away the commonest causes of the organic type of dyspepsia, accounting for 80 per cent of cases.

Ulcer of the stomach is, however, a curious combination of organic disease and personality type. We do not know the cause of ulcer, but we know it is associated with an increased flow of the normal secretion of the stomach—hydrochloric acid, which is capable of eating off the surface of an ulcer that has started to heal. We know that the secretion of hydrochloric acid is stimulated by many emotional experiences—such as worry, fits of temper, grief, anger, etc. In the management of an ulcer patient it is therefore just as important to keep the tenor of his life claim as it is to maintain control of his diet and his neutralizing medication. Which brings us back to the status of a patient who we headed this article.

Dr. Walter Alvarez, of the Mayo Clinic, has reported an interesting series of patients in the last "Journal of the American Medical Association," which illustrates the effect of the emotions on causing relapses of stomach ulcers: "A man discovered one day that the man who for 20 years had been his brother-in-law, his closest friend and his business partner had been falsifying the books in order to steal from him. All that night he lay awake in great mental distress, and next day he had a big stomach hemorrhage."

"A WOMAN who adored her peppy little daughter-in-law one day inadvertently offended her and brought down on her head a storm of abuse which nearly killed her. Next day a long-headed ulcer flared up and perforated. "A woman who heard that her soldier husband had just been killed at the front promptly had a hemorrhage. Another woman, when a strike in his factory distressed him terribly found himself incapacitated by the recurrence of a pain from an ulcer."

It is suggested that when a patient who has had an ulcer goes through an emotional crisis he should immediately start taking food every hour or two. He shouldn't wait for the expected flare-up or hemorrhage or perforation. The extra feedings are probably most needed between the hours of 10 p. m. and 8 a. m.

Adolf spotted a new medal on Hermann's uniform and said: "How many times, Hermann, I told you dot you must not wear more medals than me? Vy you varing von extra medal, hah?" "Oh, mein Fuehrer," whined Goering, "diss is not a new medal—diss iss my America First button!"

"By next June our public debt will be approximately what it was in 1919. We have borne it before without staggering and can probably do so again. A lover of statistics has calculated that the United States could run a deficit of five billion a year for 132 years before becoming as insolvent as France was when she succumbed to her great postwar inflation."

civilian on board—George Jessel.

He was warned that fierce storms ahead would be all right with members of the ferry command in the plane, but not for an actor. "You'll be terribly sick. You'd better cancel." But Jessel said he had to go.

All the flying heroes, including the crew, couldn't recall being so sick and miserable. Jessel, however, slept through it all. Upon arrival they had to shake him to wake him. "How is it," they asked him, "that everybody was sick but you?"

"I guess," said George, stifling a yawn, "it must have been my clear conscience—and all those sleeping pills."

NOT SO HOT: One of the three newspaper men cited in the Heywood Brown Memorial Awards by the American Newspaper Guild was city editor Arnold Beichman, who started cubbing on the Columbia (Univ.) Spectator.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

WHILE visiting my aunt on my vacation I met a very nice boy, and we have corresponded ever since. He planned to come and visit me and my mother agreed this would be all right. The date was set for his arrival when he was taken ill. That was three weeks ago and I have had only two letters from him in that time. Do you think his feelings toward me have changed that he has written so seldom, and do you think I should continue to write him regardless?

BROWN EYES.

Have a heart. You can't expect a sick boy to sit up in bed and call for letter paper to write you a series of letters. Not being a mindreader I can't say whether or not his feeling toward you has changed, but I'd give him the benefit of the doubt until he has fully recuperated from this illness, at least. Keep on writing and keep him cheered up.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM AGE 28, married a second time, and have a son age 12 by my first husband. His Dad supports him. My present husband's salary is small though it is enough for us to live on. I think things might be eased for him financially if I got a job, though it's not absolutely necessary. I have worked and kept house at the same time once before, and found that my home suffered, was not as attractive nor as pleasant a place, and that I was inclined to be weary and peevish at the end of the day and pretty poor company. In view of this do you think I should make another attempt? My husband is leaving it up to me to decide.

WONDERING.

A neglected home, a neglected 12-year-old boy, and a husband who gets none of his wife's charm but all of her ill temper doesn't sound like a good setup to me. Better stay home.

Dear Martha Carr:

AFTER HAVING TAKEN leave of my senses to the extent of playing around with another woman's husband, I have come back to my senses again. My conscience and the background of a good upbringing proved too much for me, and I have dropped him. His home is not broken up, but his wife doesn't trust me, even though I have ceased to have anything to do with her husband. What can I do to get her to trust me again as well as her husband?

I'VE LEARN'T A LESSON.

The best way to get her to trust you will be to put enough miles between you and her husband so that she knows your paths are not crossing at any time. Don't make the mistake of trying to make friends with a wife whom you have wronged. How do you expect her to put her arms around you and have everything all honey-dorey when she'd rather wring your neck?

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A GIRL 22 years old, single and lonely. The men I work with are all married. I have many girl friends but absolutely no contact with eligible men since those I formerly knew have gone overseas. I have gone to USO dances and most of the fellows I danced with seemed to be married. It seems to me, also, that most men find a woman who has been married more attractive than the single girl. I am not a prude, for I smoke and drink in moderation as most girls my age do, and am considered attractive. However, my moral standards prohibit the current pickup methods of many girls. What shall I do?

J. H.

Most of the girls these days, unless they have girl friends with male relatives who are eligible, or still have a few left in their group, are in the same predicament you are. Thumbs down on the pickups, you are right about that. But if you reject the USO dances and find your life is an absolute dearth I'm afraid I can't suggest anything less drastic than to change your job. In some other office, or in defense work, you may find a larger proportion of unmarried men still remaining.

IN ANSWER TO "Blue Eyes": Simply tell the boy the truth, he will understand. Next time suggest that you find another couple and make the date a foursome since your parents prefer that you date that way or with the group. If the boy really wants to go out with you this won't scare him off.

IN ANSWER TO "Nebraska": The Community Music Schools Foundation, 4703A McPherson Avenue, will take pupils for what they can afford to pay. That is providing they are in earnest and will work hard.

IN ANSWER TO "Janey": My Halloween Party leaflet you may have if you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

TWO readers tell me they disagree on the question of whether a letter of condolence should be addressed to the wife, or to the husband himself when the mother of the latter has died. "A" says she is going to write to Mrs. X because all social letters should be addressed to the wife. "B" says she certainly is not going to write to the daughter-in-law instead of to the son.

The answer to this depends upon how well you know them. In short, if they are both old friends, you naturally write to him personally. But if they are acquaintances rather than friends or if you know her much better than you do him, then (as "A" says) "it is usual" to write to the wife and of course, ask her to tell her husband how sorry you are to hear of his loss. There would, however, be no impropriety in writing to him, if it is your impulse to do so.

DEAR MRS. POST: If an old friend likes to be called "Professor" although he has no academic right to any such title, how can we introduce him by title without belittling him by explaining that his title is said in quotes?

Answer: You introduce him: "Mr. John Smith—best known as 'the Professor.'"

DEAR MRS. POST: When a man and girl become engaged and the parents are complete strangers, don't you think in that case it is better that the girl's family set a time and ask the other family to come to their house?

Answer: Although actually it is the obligation of the bridegroom's family to make the first advances to the bride and her family, so few people know this, that the bride's family, often as not, makes the first move. In other words, it would be much better to do this than to allow silence to develop a feeling of estrangement.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

WHEN dates are as scarce and as expensive as they are now, they are not a practical item to buy for glorifying cake and cookies. Prunes are abundant and are reasonable in price, so we have used them in place of dates and find they are quite successful pinchhitters. The prunes need to be steamed a few minutes to soften. The seeds will then pull away easily and the prunes may be finely chopped. In a sponge cake or a butter cake which does not have a heavy batter, the prunes settle to the bottom just as dates would. But this two-layered effect is attractive and is pleasant to eat. It is important to prevent this layer of fruit from becoming too hot and causing a scorched taste. One of the best ways to control the heat for the prunes is to line the baking pan with paper. When using prunes in cookies, roll the dough a trifle thicker than for ordinary sugar cookies and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahr.) This is about twenty-five degrees lower than would be best for a cookie without fruit.

Prune Nut Cake with Sauce.

One cup uncooked prunes, one cup sifted cake flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, three eggs, one cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, three-fourths cup coarsely chopped walnut meats. Wash prunes, place in strainer over small pan of water. Cover and steam for seven minutes. Remove and cool. Sift flour, measure and resift with baking powder and salt. Beat yolks and whites separately. Beat half the sugar into the yolks and fold the remainder into the stiffly beaten whites. Fold the whites into the yolks and gradually add the sifted flour mixture, folding in after each addition. Cut flesh of prunes into small pieces, dust with a small amount of the flour mixture and add with vanilla and the nuts. Mix well and pour into a greased seven-by-eleven inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out on cooling rack. Serve warm or cold with foamy lemon sauce. Eight servings, or cut four generous servings. Ice top or cream. One-half cake with confecturer's icing and cut into squares or fingers.

Foamy Lemon Sauce.

Three-fourths cup sugar, four teaspoons cornstarch, dash of salt, three-fourths cup water, one tablespoon butter, one-fourth cup lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon grated lemon rind, one egg, separated. Combine first four ingredients, blend well and bring to a boil. Cook for two minutes or until clear. Add the butter, lemon juice and rind. Bring to a boil. Gradually add hot mixture to the beaten egg yolk, return to pan and cook another two minutes. Pour this mixture into the stiffly beaten white. Serve hot or warm.

MENUS FOR SATURDAY Breakfast.

Melon wedges, two cantaloupes, cooled; hot cooked oatmeal, four generous servings; pan-fried bacon, one-third pound bacon; toast, eight slices.

Luncheon.

Quick baked beans, one pound package pre-cooked navy beans. Prepare according to directions on package. Carrot sticks, four carrots, cut in thin strips; celery, one stalk, washed and chilled; corn muffins, eight together one and one-fourth cup flour, four teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup yellow corn meal. Add liquid all at once (one egg, beaten, one cup milk, three tablespoons melted shortening) and stir until blended. But not smooth. Bake in hot muffin pans at 425 degrees F. for 25 min. Serve at once. Stewed pears, four fresh pears, cut in half and poached for 10 to 15 minutes. Serve warm with top milk.

Dinner.

Italian spaghetti, one-fourth pound grated Italian cheese; cook one-fourth pound chopped, beef, one medium onion, sliced in three tablespoons bacon fat or salad oil. Add two tablespoons flour to fat and stir until blended and flour is brown. Add one and one-fourth cups cooked tomatoes, stir until blended and thickened. Add three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sugar, pepper, one-fourth cup chopped green pepper, and one-fourth cup grated cheese. Simmer for 15 minutes. Pour hot sauce over one seven-ounce package spaghetti, cooked and drained. Serve. Bowl salad, rub the inside of a wooden bowl with cut clove of garlic. Add one-half pound raw spinach, one-fourth head lettuce, one-fourth cup chopped onion, two tomatoes, one green pepper, chopped, one cucumber. Seasoned vinegar dressing; French bread, eight slices; prune-nut cake with sauce, see recipe above. Use sauce over one-half of cake. Butter or fortified margarine used on all breads. Include in today's menu, milk to drink; six cups for children, four cups for adults.

Veterans of 23 Fighting Fronts

In 13 Months, Song Team Entertained Soldiers From Iceland to South Seas

By Clarissa Start

WE'VE just had an interview with unquestionably the best looking Brigadier-General in the United States Army. She is Brig-Gen. Doraine Lucas, who is a beautiful blond, built on Lana lines, given to wearing fluffy formals and silver fox furs. She was completely surrounded by twin foxes during our entire visit, in fact, not because it was cold in her hotel room but because the scarf had just arrived, a surprise anniversary gift from her husband, and she couldn't tear herself away from it.

The Brigadier-General's husband, Ellis Lucas, is the other and equally handsome half of the song team, Doraine and Ellis, currently appearing at the Crystal Terrace of the Park Plaza, and while Doraine's generalship is honorary, Ellis' campaign ribbons, and the citation they have received are real enough. All three represent the Government's gratitude at Doraine and Ellis' overseas work, a 13-month tour of fighting fronts in 23 countries, which placed them among the most seasoned veterans of the U. S. O. camp shows. There are a few places they didn't see and they intend visiting those soon, in spite of the fact that their first tour brought them into contact with all the discomforts away from home, from bugs to buzz bombs.

"We used to think it was cold here in winter," said Doraine, "but that was before England and Iceland. In Iceland it was so bitterly cold that even with the windows of our hut closed, the curtains would blow. Most of the time we were around in parka hoods and high boots."

"THE first few nights we were there," Ellis added, "it was like turning a stove going until one G.I. took pity on us and taught us how to bank a coal stove. I'm an expert now on the kind of stove. Believe me, the boys up there are plenty rugged."

"One of our most terrifying experiences was in Iceland," Ellis continued. "We spent two days traveling 150 miles in a truck to an island station and the road was so rough that Doraine's sides were black and blue when we got there. On the way we had to go over a bad mountain pass with a 80-mile gale blowing and on one turn the right rear wheel of our truck slipped off and we were left hanging over a 3000-foot drop. Luckily one of the other trucks backed up and pulled us onto the road again."

During their stay in England robot bombings were so severe that in eight days' time they were able to get only 14 hours sleep. Knocked out by one robot bomb and narrowly escaping injury from another—when Doraine was hit by falling plaster in a War Department building—both Doraine and Ellis never ceased to be amazed at the British' calm acceptance of bombing raids. Their first experience occurred in the Palladium vaudeville house when an alert sounded. They looked around expecting everyone to rush for shelter but no one moved; the rest of the show went on and after a moment's hesitation they did, too. On another occasion they were walking along the street when an alert sounded. They ran up to the nearest bobby to inquire where they could find an air raid shelter.

"There's one around the corner," he said, "but if I were you, I'd go home and get a good night's sleep. If you're going to get hit you might as well be in your comfortable bed."

Bugs rather than bombs were their chief disturbance during the first part of their tour in British, French and Dutch Guiana, and numerous tropical islands, the identities of which they cannot divulge. "A lot of times we were flown to a ship or an island," Ellis said, "and never did know just where we were. We did a lot of volunteer missions and that's why we received our citation. For instance at one jungle training camp in a malarial control zone we were supposed to give an afternoon show, but travel was so bad that we didn't arrive until after sundown. You're not supposed to go around at night without net covering but Doraine stood in the spotlight in a flimsy gown, bare neck and shoulders, singing to soldiers who were all covered with mosquito netting."

FORTUNATELY nothing came of this exposure but they had another scare later on when they left an island where most of the natives had elephantiasis and Doraine's ankles began to swell. They spent several anxious days before they found out that the swelling was the result of too much standing. Another "crawly" episode was the finding of a black widow spider in their tent, and picking bugs out of food became fairly commonplace.

One of their interesting experiences was putting on a show before an undressed audience. The soldiers on this particular island had suggested to the native women that they dress formally, in clothes or some semblance thereof. The native women obligingly draped squares of calico about them but during the evening the temperature mounted and as one woman—Gypsy Rose Lee—they teased off the calico. The native

Doraine, who has a wardrobe of 54 net formals, traveled with just four, and a collapsible hoop skirt to make them seem fluffier. Ellis traveled with a decreased wardrobe of shirts after one island laundress beat them on rocks and knocked the buttons off.

One of the things they learned during their overseas tour was that the average G. I. appreciated semiclassical and light operatic music more than popular songs. Favorite requests were for "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Indian Love Call" and "Make Believe," or, as Doraine said, "sentimental songs that reminded them of their girls back home."

BILLED as The Singing Sweethearts, Doraine and Ellis are that show business phenomenon, a happily married couple. Married six years, they first met in Columbus, O., where Doraine had just graduated from Ohio State University, at the age of 18, and been signed by N.B.C. as a youthful musical prodigy. Ellis, a graduate of Western Reserve, and Cleveland radio singer, moved to Columbus and heard about the brilliant and pretty girl graduate. He decided to take lessons from her singing teacher and during the first lesson intimated to the teacher that he was a lonely stranger and that he had played the hand correctly at duplicate. Did he?

Working in this country seems like a vacation after overseas service but they are hoping to make another trip, this time to India to see one of Doraine's college friends, Col. Philip Cochran. Much of their entertaining on their last tour was for enlisted men but following the theory that the officer overseas is often the forgotten man they tried to divide their time equally. The display of "brass" at one party outshone all others; that was a New Year's eve entertainment where Gen. Devers, Gen. Spaatz, Gen. Eisenhower and 100 other English and American generals were present. The show that stands out most in their memory, however, was one at a bomber base in England early in June. After the show the colonel in charge came to see them.

"I wish I could invite you to the officers' club," he apologized, "but unfortunately I have some important business in the morning and I have to get a few hours sleep tonight."

Doraine and Ellis told him that was quite all right. The next morning they learned the nature of his important business. It was D-Day.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

"DEAR MR. CULBERTSON: "How should the South hand be played at a six spade contract at duplicate bridge? I think I know what the proper play would be at rubber bridge. "South, dealer."
